Back Quit Hurting

"I was in a very weak condition from a serious sickness," writes Mrs. L. Leonard, of 271 Joseph St., New Orleans, La. "I was so weak, I wanted to sleep all the time. I did not have strength to do anything. My back ached nearly all the time. I was just in misery. My mother told me I must arouse myself from the sleepiness, and take something to help get my strength back. She had taken Cardui and had been helped, so I decided to take Cardui, too. After my first bottle, I could see that it was helping me. I took four bottles at this time. My strength came back and I gained weight. Pretty soon, I was my old self again. My back quit hurting, and I haven't had any more trouble since I took Cardui."

Merger Of Asheville Papers Commended

Greensboro News.
Following the general trend adopted in the business world for the cause of economy, efficiency and development, Asheville's two newspapers, the Citizen and the Times, have announced a merger which will provide the western Carolina city with a twenty-four hour newspaper service.

The two papers at Asheville will be operated under one ownership and joint management. Charles A. Webb, president of the Citizen, will be president of the new corporation, and Don S. Elias, president of the Times, vice-president of the merged organization. Both are veteran and capable publishers, and the pooling of their energies and their resources will be certain to provide a stronger, better and more enterprising newspaper for Asheville.

Economies in operation will permit greater development of the two papers and provide western Carolina territory with a full-time newspaper service including, it is safe to say, wider protection and fuller coverage. With the exception of the merger of the Sunday Times with the Sunday Citizen, the two papers, it is announced, will be independent of each other in news and editorial policies.

North Carolina papers generally actuated by the same causes as those given at Asheville and published in cities of similar size, have followed the merger trend, until at present morning and afternoon newspapers are published by separate companies in only two cities of the state, Raleigh and Charlotte. Obviously the consolidation movement has met with success both for the papers themselves and for the communities which they serve.

The Citizen and the Times, their resources pooled and their efforts concentrated, should prove in their merged operations a more potent and influential factor for the development of Asheville and the upbuilding of North Carolina's great mountain territory of which that city is the center.

Nobody's Business

GEE MCGEE
Clues and Views.

I decided to feel the pulse of the public the other morning on my way to the office, so I stopped the first 5 persons I met and interview them, and this is what they said: (My only interrogation was—"How's everything?")

Mike Clark, rfd: "everything's fine with me. I have already hell 5 inquestes this week and I just learnt from the undertaker that I might have run over another 1 tonight, bill Jones hater hold sarn brown in a mule and buggy and both was dangerously hurt, but the mule might get well, sorter hot and dry, but that's the kind of weather we need for fall turnups."

Uncle Joe: "Hoover's tariff bill has ruint the country from dam to Beer Shelby. Mills have all shut down. Folks got nothing to eat and less to do. Furrin countries refuse to trade with us. This hot, dry, parching weather is killing everything. Lots of sickness about. Money yis tight and creddick is gone. Yone sir, old boy. We are in for at least 10 years of misery. By the way, let me have 50 cents till tuesday."

Old Mrs. Kennedy: "Lawsy, mus-sy! What in thearnation is the world coming to? Dresses above the knees and nothing much on. Lips painted, nose whitewashed. Gals riding and carousing around all night long with rank strangers. Chillun don't pay no attention to their pap and mas. It's dangerous for a feller to get outside of his bedroom. Somebody gets killed every minute. It weren't this-ser-way when I was a girl."

Uncle Ephraim: "Well, dis old nigger is doing putty well. I gets plenty of eat and wear, and we has the finest preacher we is ever had. Lemme see—he tetched on moral sin last night and he burnt dem sinners all de way from de crap game to de hen roost. We is having some nice hot weather now and I hope it keeps up. A little shower would help, but de Good Lawd knows what we need. Boss, gimmy a chaw tobacco, please sir."

Hon. Fuller Bosh: "Well street is slowly recovering from her recent riot. Commodity prices are on the downward trend. Things will pick up soon. We are learning to elect cleaner, better men for office. If I were president, I would dismiss the farm board, pitch the Volstead act to the 4 winds, recognize Russia, free the Philippines, scrap the navy before somebody else scraps it and us, abolish immigration, muzzle congress, turn the country back over to the Democrats, and adjust the tariff so that industry can put our folks to work. Gotta match?"

An Open Book

Why A & P prices for good food are low

A & P has millions of customers all over the country, and more customers are coming to A & P stores every day because they find there the good food they want at prices they know to be as low as is possible to a going business.

There is no secret about this. Like everyone else in business, A & P buys goods to sell them at a profit. A & P's unusual success is due to two facts: (1) A & P buys the best wherever the best can be bought at greatest advantage to A & P customers; (2) A & P sells the best for only a little more than the best costs—plus selling expense. It can do both these things because so many people buy in its stores.

These people know that A & P passes on to them all the saving when prices fall at the sources of supply, retaining, under all conditions, no more than its regular profit—2½ cents in the dollar.

A Proper Apology.

The Milwaukee railroad is in receipt of a letter of appreciation from a motorist who feels that he acted rudely in cutting in front of one of the road's train. The letter in part reads: "I want to apologize to the engineer for passing in front of him one sixth of a minute before his train arrived at the crossing, which act of mine may have caused him anxiety and perhaps disgust. It is possible that your train was further from the crossing than I judged it to be. I feel your engineer so calculated his speed that I could get across the tracks regardless of how careless I was. My wife and I are grateful to him." The Milwaukee road feels sure that this man's name will not appear in any future accident report.

Wholesale prices in July were 2.8 per cent below June index.
