Unafraid.
I have no fear. What is in store for me shall find me ready for it, undismayed.
God grant my only cowardice may be afraid—to be afraid!

Tuesday Afternoon Bridge To Meet.
The Tuesday Afternoon bridge club will meet with Mrs. Shem Blackley at her home on S. Washington street, on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Roast Ham.
Many cooks find the boiling, baking, or roasting of ham a difficult thing to do successfully. Try your success with the following recipe: 2 pounds ham, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1-2 pint grape juice, cloves. Dice the top part of ham in squares, rub the sugar all over it. Stick a clove in each square. Put into a roaster and pour the grape juice over the ham. Roast in a slow oven until tender. If the ham is not very fat use a little bacon drippings. Serve either hot or cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Mauney Hosts.
Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Mauney were the cordial hosts at a farewell party last evening given in honor of their cousin, Mr. Ray Weathers, who leaves tomorrow for Chapel Hill where he will enter the university. About 32 young people were present and games were played on the spacious lawn during the evening. Mrs. Mauney was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Champion. Mrs. Hattie McIntyre and Miss Frances Mauney in serving an attractive ice course with punch.

Party in Charlotte For Little Harold Spangler.
Mrs. C. D. Spangler entertained at an enjoyable party Wednesday afternoon at her home on Park avenue in honor of Harold Spangler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Spangler, who is spending the week with her.
Following a series of games the children were served an ice course with accessories. Those present were Harold Spangler, Bennie and Donald Cathey, Jack Turner, Billie Stevens, Harold Wilkins, Jack and Warren Helms.

Roberts-Hord Wedding.
Miss Evelyn Hord and Mr. Maurice Roberts drove to Gaffney on Sunday afternoon, August 31, and were quietly married. The bride, who is a pretty and attractive girl, chose for her wedding costume a dress of Homage blue crepe with harmonizing accessories.
Mrs. Roberts is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hord of Waco and is popular among many friends both there and in Shelby. She was graduated from the Waco high school two years ago and has since been employed by the Woolworth store here.

Mr. Roberts is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Roberts of this place. He holds a position with T. P. Eskridge Grocery Co.
The young couple made announcement of their marriage on Monday evening and left immediately on a wedding trip through the mountains of Western North Carolina and Tennessee. They will be gone for ten days and while away will visit friends at Johnston City and also at Bakersville.
Upon their return they will make their home in Shelby.

Mrs. Hoyle Entertains Music Club.
Mrs. George Hoyle was the charming hostess to the members of the Cecelia music club at their first meeting of the year on Wednesday afternoon. Her attractive home was beautifully decorated with a variety of bright fall flowers. The first part of the meeting, which was presided over by the vice-president, Mrs. Rush Thompson, was given over to business, to the reading of minutes and the roll call, by Mrs. W. B. Nix, secretary. The course of study for the year in this club is to be "Music Programs from All Nations," the particular study for this meeting being "Classical Germany." The program was opened by a short choral practice participated in by the entire club. The first paper was on "Classical Germany," written by Mrs. Will Arey and read by Miss Mayme Roberts; this was followed by a piano selection from Schubert, "Moments Musical," by Mrs. H. S. Plaster. The next number was a vocal selection from Bach, "My Heart Ever Faithful" by Mrs. Ben Suttle, with Mrs. P. L. Hennessy playing the accompaniment. The closing number on this delightful program was a piano selection from Beethoven, "Moonlight Sonata," played by Miss Mary Helen Lattimore.
The hostess was assisted by Mrs. John McClure, Mrs. R. M. Laughridge, Mrs. Fred Baber and Mrs.

Wilbur Baber in serving a delicious ice course with sandwiches and nuts. Mrs. Hoyle, who believes in the "live-at-home" idea, amazed and delighted her guests by serving both pecans and English walnuts, which were grown in her own yard.
After the close of the club meeting Mrs. Hoyle was hostess a second time in the same afternoon at an informal neighborhood party, when about 12 of her neighbors came in to enjoy a pleasant half-hour's conversation along with the delightful refreshments served them.

Debutante Ball Holds Spotlight.
The following, taken from the Raleigh News and Observer of September 11, concerning the debutante ball to take place in Raleigh last evening, will be of much interest here as Shelby is represented at the ball this year by eight or more young people. Aside from the three girls and their marshals, whose names are given below as guests of Governor and Mrs. Gardner at the mansion, Mr. Charles Forney, of Lawndale, and Mr. John Lineberger were also marshals at the ball.
"The vast hall of the Raleigh municipal auditorium is hung and strung with streamers and garlands of silver and white against a massive background of evergreens, amid which a spectacular setting nearly one hundred of the state's most charming young women will be formally presented to North Carolina society at the tenth anniversary debutante ball given under the auspices of the Terpsichorean club of Raleigh this evening at 9 o'clock.
Prominent figures witnessing the presentation will be the Governor and Mrs. O. Max Gardner and former Governor and Mrs. Cameron Morrison of Charlotte, whose daughter, Miss Angela Morrison, will make her debut. Former Governor and Mrs. Angus Wilton McLean, of Lumberton, are also expected to be present and will be seated with the official party in the guest box. Others witnessing the presentation from the box will be Mrs. B. B. Gossett, Mrs. H. M. Wade, Mrs. Word Wood and Mrs. E. C. Marshall of Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs. Graham Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Allen, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Busbee, Mrs. Mrs. Russell Sherrill and Mayor Eugene E. Culbreth, of Raleigh.
The Governor and Mrs. Gardner have as their guests at the mansion Miss Vera Webb Oates, of Charlotte, who will be presented this evening and will be assistant leader of the debutante promenade, and her marshal; Miss Virginia Jenkins, Miss Catherine Dover, Miss Margaret Blanton, Lloyd Lutz, John Warlick and Steve Woodson, all of Shelby.

Tomorrow afternoon from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock the Governor and Mrs. Gardner will entertain at a tea dance at the executive mansion when their guests will include the debutantes and their marshals, the members of the Terpsichorean club, the debutante committee and their partners, and out-of-city patrons and parents.
Tomorrow evening at 9 o'clock the debutantes will be honored at a formal ball at which the Black Cat Cotillion club will be host and at noon tomorrow the chamber of commerce will have them as their guests at luncheon at the Hotel Sir Walter.
This afternoon at 2 o'clock the debutantes with their marshals will have a private rehearsal of the presentation ceremony and at five o'clock the members of the Terpsichorean club with the members of the debutante committee will rehearse the Terpsichorean lead-out which will formally open the ball this evening at 9 o'clock.

The ball is anticipated as the most spectacular ever presented here. A vast number of guests from out of the city have already arrived in Raleigh and will continue arriving to the very hour of the ball.

Mrs. Gardner "First Lady" In Activity
While Mrs. Gardner graces the place of the wife of the governor of North Carolina with ease and the necessary dignity becoming to her and her husband's position, as she is beloved by women in the state. Born and reared in Shelby by North Carolina, she already had many girlhood friends in the western part of the state. But after coming to Raleigh as mistress of the mansion, she not only did not forget her old friends, but spent a great deal of time in making new friends which was not a hard task for a woman of Mrs. Gardner's charming personality, and for a woman as sweet, lovely and gracious by nature, and as bright mentally as is this very handsome "first lady."

From the beginning Mrs. Gardner's home was open to the women of the state, who were invited to "drop in" individually and in groups and ever found a cordial welcome and a personal interest. This, of course, took so much of the time of Mrs. Gardner that little time remained to enter actively into the club and civic life of Raleigh, so she conceived the idea of trying to open the Mansion to all the annual meetings held in the capital city, and this was no small task, for Raleigh has had a large share of conventions during the past several years.
Last year 600 women attending the farm and home week at State college; the Business and Professional Women Legion Auxiliaries; boys and girls attending contests; senior classes of all the college in Raleigh; besides personal friends and men and women prominent in the state and nation were entertained at the mansion.
During her two years stay at the mansion, Mrs. Gardner has not only made friends for herself, but has been instrumental in reviving the talk in distant states of "old time Southern hospitality" while she followed her natural inclinations of "keeping open house," and in winning friends for herself and the state, has been a true "help mate" for the governor in carrying out his "live-at-home" program which has claimed notice all over the United States.
Through these gatherings and her contact with the people from all over the state, Mrs. Gardner has, through her influence and words of encouragement, contributed much toward arousing a state consciousness among hundreds who have visited the capital since she took up her residence here.

Wife of Governor Is Active Clubwoman In Raleigh And Shelby.
(By Harriette H. Walker in News and Observer.)
Mrs. O. Max Gardner, North Carolina's "first lady," is not only a wearer of this title, not only an idler first socially and as the wife of the governor of the state, but has taken the lead in many forward movements in her home town of Shelby, the surrounding community, and in the state as a whole.
Always interested in constructive work, Mrs. Gardner "put her shoulder to the wheel" in no half-hearted manner and served Cleveland county as chairman of their Red Cross unit during the period of the World war, and assisted in the organization of twenty-eight precinct auxiliaries, at the same time serving as chairman and teacher in the surgical work room, also acting as chairman of the second Liberty Loan drive.
Back in the days before the Woman's club became such a vital factor in the state, some of the forward looking women of North Carolina banded themselves together in a civic league. Mrs. Gardner served as president of this organization in her home town, later becoming one of the organizers of the Woman's club, and heading the civic and literary departments.
President of the Library association for two years, did not interfere with this woman of many interests serving as president of the St. Cecilia music club and the Twentieth Century literary club. Not only interested in community and culture clubs, but served ably as president of the Cleveland Guard chapter U. D. C., and was first regent of the Benjamin Cleveland D. A. R. chapter, and organizing regent of this organization.
The league of women's voters has also come in for its share of interest, and Mrs. Gardner was a member of the advisory board for several terms, and state auditor of the N. C. Federation under Mrs. Lingle's administration.
A charter member of the Garden club of Shelby proves her interest in everything pertaining to gar-
