

Patriotic Dance At Kings Mountain

Four Patriotic Organizations Represented at Square Dance. Revival Meet Underway.

(Special to The Star.) Kings Mountain, Sept. 15.—Rev. W. D. Carroll, of Central, S. C. is conducting a two-weeks revival service at the Wesleyan Methodist church here. Services began Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Patriotic Square Dance. James Heights, the attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Ratteree on Mountain street was the scene of a beautiful patriotic square dance Thursday evening from 8:30 to 12:30.

The four patriotic organizations of the town were represented, the D. A. R. by Mesdames O. B. Carpenter, Arthur Hay, E. W. Griffin, E. L. Campbell, and Mrs. Rufus Plunk of Bessemer City.

From the U. D. C. were Mesdames Pride Ratteree, L. F. Neal, J. M. Patterson, T. G. Hedspeith, C. B. Campbell, L. A. Hoke and Mrs. Mason Barber of Chester, S. C.

The Spanish American auxiliary was represented by Mrs. C. P. Gofforth and Misses Mabel Logan, Sarah Little and Luella Pruett.

Will Ask For Shelby-Marion Mail Route

If the issue is forced into the presidential campaign two years hence, it is believed President Hoover will be guided by the respect of the commission.

Both Republicans and Democrats are only divided over the issue.

The law enforcement commission convenes here again October 8. The commission has been making a general survey of all crimes and laws but congress has been insistent that it give particular attention to prohibition and a comprehensive prohibition report is believed to be in the making.

Chairman Wickersham of the commission has said the commission itself will not make a definite recommendation either for or against prohibition. However, its report is expected to provide a basis for authoritative discussion of the issue.

The demands for repeal of the eighteenth amendment are regarded by the dries as futile. To repeal the amendment, two-thirds of both branches of congress would have to vote to resubmit the amendment to the states, and two-thirds, or 36, of the states then would have to vote for repeal.

field, claiming, however, that they had gone there for other purposes than stealing corn. Jimison was dead, apparently having died instantly as the load from the gun struck him just behind the right ear.

Mr. Rippey told Deputy Runyans, it was said today, that some pulled corn was found near the body of Jimison when he returned to the field. When Sheriff Allen reached the scene the body had been removed, but he states that he saw that corn had been pulled near the spot, just across the road from the house where Hamrick lived and where Jimison was spending the night.

The shooting was a major topic of interest in the Earl section and over the county during the week-end as Mr. Rippey is widely known. Additional interest centers about the shooting because of the many thefts of recent weeks. Scores of farmers have been robbed of corn, feed, chickens and other things. Only last week the sheriff's office was approached by a county citizen who inquired if it would be all right for him to prepare a trap gun in his chicken house. His idea was discouraged, however.

Whether or not Jimison, who was 20 or 21 years of age, has been in trouble heretofore could not be learned definitely this morning. A report from Earl, though, had it that Jimison received a minor gun shot wound while stealing corn in that section about five years ago.

The Rippey home is a little more than a mile southwest of Earl and near the South Carolina line.

Booming Southern Man For President and suggested Governor O. Max Gardner for first place on the national ticket. They point out that although Governor Gardner at the present perhaps is not so well known nationally he is governor of a state that is noted from coast to coast for its progressiveness.

Another mentioned as a potential Democratic nominee is Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, author of the nation's dry amendment.

Advocates of Governor Gardner set forth that the fact he is a farmer himself and has as governor taken an active interest in the farmer and his problems would gain for the party many votes in the West and Northwest.

What will become of the desire to see a Southern man "leading the party to victory" remains, of course, to be seen. It may never get beyond the talking state, but a number of Democrats of influence are said to be working quietly and determinedly to convince their colleagues in this and other states that now is the time for the south "to stand up and assert itself."

The south with its diversification and expansion of industry, it is claimed, has become the most representative section of the nation.

Proponents of this idea state their position somewhat as follows: "No longer can it be argued that a Southerner cannot represent the nation for the reason his section has no other interest than agriculture. The south now has huge and varied manufacturing industries.

"The cotton mill men of the south and New England face the same problems. This can be said also of the furniture manufacturers of North Carolina and Michigan, the steel and coal interests of Alabama and the East and Mid-West, and other industrial leaders of the south and other sections, as well as of the farmers of the South and West with their surplus and marketing difficulties.

"Nowhere are the diversified interests of the nation so well typified as in the South.

"A Southern statesman, therefore, is just as well, if not better qualified to deal with the nation's administration and problems as a leader from the West, East, or any other section."

Some of the state Democratic leaders are saying firmly that they propose to spread this doctrine over the south and the entire country and win "recognition" for the states south of the old Mason-Dixon line.

Roosevelt Calls for Liquor State Control

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, New York, joins the liberals and comes out for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. He advocates a new amendment granting to each State the right to sell intoxicants through a State agency, while preserving Federal protection for States that are dry.

second, of Aragonia. He was a relative of a corsair named Casanova-Couillon, who was in the services of Louis of France.

Cities Old Archives.

"Many assertions hitherto made about Columbus rest upon documents either freely invented by historical writers or forged and changed. The text of Columbus' negotiations with the Spanish king in 1492 also show undeniable signs of 'doctoring'."

Dr. Ulloa said the famous letter of Envoys Puelba, alleged to prove Columbus' Genoese origin, never did exist. He said the much-quoted Columbus will, dated 1497, must be discarded as a falsification.

Dr. Ulloa said the most valuable documents supporting his assertions were a memorandum of Columbus to the executors of Queen Isabella's estate, date 1505, and another by his son, Diego, dated 1511. Another document, he said, is a declaration made by Bernard Columbus before the Genoese senate 158. He said he also has a deposition signed in Madrid in 1594 by a number of Genoese and Italian witnesses.

Forest City-Chesnee Highway Is Talked

Spartanburg Paper Says Direct Route Would Mean Much To Section.

The following comment about a highway between Forest City and Chesnee by the Spartanburg Herald will be of interest in this section:

"Ten years ago North Carolina and South Carolina highway departments were agreed that the connection north of Chesnee in upper Spartanburg county, should be on the direct line between Chesnee and Forest City. North Carolina afterwards changed its mind, and the road was built around by Cliffside, as we have it today.

"In Forest City recently Commissioner Kiser of the eighth North Carolina district, was asked to place on the North Carolina system the direct road towards Chesnee. He outlined the difficulties, but finally said that should South Carolina restore to the state system three miles of the highway to the North Carolina line, he would insist that North Carolina make the connection, though it involved adding more than eight miles to the North Carolina system.

"Now for Spartanburg this is an important connection and as we know the development of this highway, known as the 'Black Bear Trail,' and now making application for a 'federal number' from Virginia across North Carolina and to Augusta, it will become more important in the future. Incidentally the connection would reduce the distance between this city and Forest City by six miles and take through traffic off of the winding road between Forest City and the North Carolina line by way of Cliffside.

"Spartanburg should be interested in presenting this matter to the proper highway authorities. It is an important little matter. An act of the general assembly may be necessary."

Judge Johnson Out Of Governor's Race

Lumberton Democratic Leaders Joins Prominent Asheville Law Firm.

Asheville, Sept. 15.—Judge Thomas L. Johnson, of Lumberton, widely known Democratic state leader, announced Saturday night he would resign from the superior court bench and withdraw from the 1932 gubernatorial contest to enter the practice of law in Asheville.

He will be associated with J. Bat Smathers and Thomas S. Rollins, Jr., under the firm name of Johnson, Smathers and Rollins. He will take the place of Thomas S. Rollins, sr., prominent Asheville attorney, who died suddenly several weeks ago.

Judge Johnson was in Asheville today for a conference with Messrs. Smathers and Rollins, at which time final details for the partnership were formulated.

His resignation will become effective immediately as the urgency of several cases in local courts necessitate his presence here next week. Judge Johnson recently announced he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1932, and had received pledges of support from all parts of North Carolina.

His decision to retire from the race two years hence will focus attention on him in 1936 as he promises to be the outstanding gubernatorial candidate from the west at that time, in the opinion of Democratic leaders here.

above postoffices. This new route which is being asked, would terminate at Marion and dispatch mail collected at the intermediate postoffices on trains at Marion going west and north. It is proposed that this route leave Marion each morning and come back to Shelby serving the intermediate postoffices on its return.

Same Service At Less Cost.

The two Southern trains taken off last month were receiving about $500 monthly for carrying these mails, so if a Star Mail Route was established in lieu of the train mail, it is argued that the same mail service would be available at a great saving. An estimate has been made that this proposed Star route would give six day service between Shelby and Marion at a cost not exceeding $200 per month.

Publishers, postmasters and patrons are hoping this week to work out a schedule that will be agreeable to all parties concerned and send a petition before the department for the establishment of this route at the earliest possible date.

New York.—One of the most delightful things about the visit of Captain Wolfgang Von Cronau, transatlantic flier, to this country has been a visit to the Lindberghs. Leaving with his three comrades for Germany, the captain described Mrs. Lindbergh as "charming" and "fragile like a flower."
