

Notre Dame Meets U. of Southern Calif.

ERNEST PINCKERT • MARSHALL DUFFIELD • GARRETT ARSELOE • MARTY BRILL • FRANK CARIDEO
Perhaps the greatest thrill of the football season is anticipated when two leading teams, Notre Dame and University of Southern California, meet at Los Angeles on December 6th. Both teams are confident of victory.

video has; and Dodd isn't the ball carrier and extra point maker that the Italian lad is.
But suppose we pick an all-state eleven subject to revision after the Duke-Carolina game Saturday. Look it over, applaud or cuss—no one will weep.
ENDS—Rosky, Duke, and Brown, Davidson.
TACKLES—Webb, Wake Forest, and McDade, Carolina.
GUARDS—Levine, Wake Forest, and Brock, Davidson.
CENTER—Atkins, Duke.
QUARTERBACK—Branch, Carolina.
HALFBACKS—Mills, Wake Forest, and McCall, Davidson.
FULLBACK—Murray, Duke.
Then we'll name a second eleven to please those whose favorites were not named above:
ENDS—Gregson, Wake Forest; Hyatt, Duke.
TACKLES—Williams, Wake Forest; Davis, Duke.
GUARDS—Stout, State; Fysal, Carolina.
CENTER—Lipscomb, Carolina.
QUARTERBACK—Benton, Wake Forest.
HALFBACKS—Magner, Carolina;

Brewer, Duke.
FULLBACK—Quillen, Wake Forest.
Now if you're not satisfied, pick one for yourself.
This department hasn't seen enough junior college outfits in action to name an all-state junior eleven, but if we could name eleven men, these would certainly be on it: Wall, quarterback; Moore, guard; Jolly, center; Falkenberg, tackle.
Just a guess to start you guessing: Magner and Branch will make a touchdown each against Duke, and Bill Murray will make two against Carolina Saturday, one on a run, the other from a pass. Remember, that's not saying who will win. Nineteen other boys will be playing, y'know, and they may make some.
And next week basketball will be bouncing on the boards, Casey Morris has the prospects for a fairly good quint, the boys say.
Probably nobody will care, if we suggest a little buy-now slogan—Out of the Retrenches by Christmas—Boston Herald.

Jail Instead of College Degree

Because his writings in an outlawed student publication were held to constitute criminal libel, this senior law student at Louisiana State University, Kemble K. Kennedy, has not only been sentenced to a year in parish prison, but will forfeit the college degree for which he has worked several years.

Duke And Carolina Set For Fray On Saturday

Collins Warns Of Over Confidence

DeHart Will Shoot The Works

Carolina Coach Fears That Big Victory Over Virginia May Handicap Team.
Chapel Hill, Dec. 3.—Carolina concentrated and organized its potential powers to please a multitude of fans in a 41-0 victory over Virginia, but Coach Chuck Collins fears that the one-sided victory may have the effect of giving the Tar Heels overconfidence in the state championship game with Duke here Saturday. Such overconfidence might easily prove disastrous for Carolina. The Duke team is expected to be at top fighting edge as the result of having been held to close margins the last two weeks by Wake Forest and Washington and Lee.
The Carolina mentor is doing everything possible to stave off such an attitude. Repeated warnings have been given against overconfidence. Heavy work is being dispensed daily. All Coach Collins will venture in the way of predictions is that Carolina will put up a great fight if the line plays as it did at Virginia.
Season records prove much of nothing. In the state, Duke beat Davidson 13-0, but Carolina lost to the Cats 7-0. Carolina beat Wake Forest 13-6, but Duke tied the Deacons 13-13. Carolina and Duke beat state 13-0 and 18-0, respectively. Carolina beat Virginia 41-0. Virginia beat Washington and Lee 21-7 and Duke licked Washington and Lee 14-0. Duke, it is remembered, beat Virginia in early season by 32-0.
The Tar Heels started the week's hard training in good physical condition, and Coach Collins' word is that no effort will be spared to put the squad in top shape for what may be the toughest game of the year.

GRIDIRON GAB

By Renn Drum

Football sings the swan song this Saturday until another autumn rolls around. Now the wise boys, mayhaps the foolish ones, are picking their mythical elevens.

An all-state, an all-southern, or an all-American eleven does not mean so much, yet fans as well as writers seem to get considerable kick out of such aggregations. So, when there's pleasure in it, what's the harm?

We think Sington, the big Alabama tackle, deserved his berth on all the all-American teams. Dairymple, the Tulane end, landed on several of the outfits. If this boy Rosky at Duke could be back there two years from now playing as he did this year, he would be an all-American. So would Bill Murray, the Blue Devil back who has been picked on nearly every all-Southern eleven advanced this year. Next year North and South Carolina will have two places on all-Southern elevens, if the two universities have any teams at all. We refer to Johnny Branch of Carolina and Earl Clary, of South Carolina.

Dodd, of Tennessee, ranks next to Carideo, of Notre Dame, for all-American quarter back. Dodd is the unanimous choice for all-Southern. We believe Dodd to be as smart as Rockne's great field general, and the equal of Carideo as a punter. Never have we seen a smarter football player on any field. But, frankly, Carideo is the man for first place with Dodd a close second. Dodd hasn't battle the giants Ca-

Blue Devils Prepared To Play Heads Off To Defeat Carolina Outfit.
Durham, Dec. 3.—Duke's Blue Devils intend to put every ounce of offensive strength into the battle with Carolina next Saturday, if scrimmages this week indicate anything.
The Blue Devils are spending very little time with defensive work, but are uncoiling a stiff series of aggressive scrimmages, indicating that Duke hopes to lose no time in opening a strong attack.
New plays are being added to the Devils' repertoire this week; in fact, some of them have been used in practices for several weeks. Ever since the Kentucky Wildcats were sent home defeated the Blue Devils have been point to their tilt with the Tar Heels.
Throughout the season Duke has been comparatively lucky in regard to injuries of a serious nature, and now are in fighting shape for Carolina.
The Duke-Carolina game will be the gridiron fade-out for five Devil players: Rupp, Murray, Hayes, Captain Davis, and Rosky. Each of them leaves a great football record for the Duke annals, and while Rupp and Davis have not been in the game a great deal this season their services have been as invaluable as when they were line-up starters.

More powerful than any gasoline

Fire Chief J. R. Sorsby, of the Rocky Mount, N. C., Fire Dept.

"ESSO, beyond a doubt, is the Motor Fuel for fire equipment, ready at the sound of the gong to respond to the speed which is necessary to keep our low percentage of fire loss at a very proud mark, regardless of weather conditions.

"For power, ESSO speaks for itself. On a recent test ESSO pumped more gallons of water per minute than any other fuel tested, and I do not hesitate to say that the fouling of spark plugs in our equipment is a thing of the past since the Giant Power Fuel has been in use.

"As a motor fuel for future service, I hereby present my endorsement for ESSO, exclusively, one hundred per cent."—
