SING SWAN SONG IN CAROLINA-DUKE GAME

Chapel Hill, Dec. 5.—The state championship Carolina-Duke game here Saturday will sound taps for the football careers of 11 heroes of the gridiron at Carolina.

Father Time's keen-bladed scythe will wreak especial damage among the Tar Heel backs.
 Captain Strud Nash will be the big loss. Nash led the touchdown makers against Duke last year, and for three seasons has consistently been one of the cleverest running, neatest-blocking, and best pass-receiving halfbacks in the south.

And then there will be Jim Magner and Jimmy Maus, two of Carolina's best passing halfbacks of all time; Chuck Erickson, diminutive broken field ace who split honors with Magner in Carolina's 1928 victory over Duke; Henry House, driving fullback; and Pete Wyrick, heady and able quarterback over a three-year period.
 The line losses will include three regulars and two reserves who have seen much service. Ned Lipscomb is being prominently mentioned for all-Southern center, while George Thompson and Aubrey Parsley have played left tackle and right end as regulars this year. Ellis Crewe, tackle, and Shields Tabb, end, are the reserve lettermen who are ending up their college careers.

 All those boys will wind up their eligibility period except George Thompson, who is a senior but has another year of eligibility, and may return if he desires. All of the number will be striving Saturday to bring a third consecutive title to Chapel Hill, and to keep Carolina's record with Duke unblemished since 1893.

 Play at High School.
 "Little Women," an adaptation of Louisa M. Alcott's famous book, was presented Friday evening at the Lattimore school by the expression classes of the high school. The play was splendidly rendered and furnished to the audience more than two hours of worth-while entertainment. The character parts were taken and their interpretation gave a renewed interest in the joys and sorrows of the March family.
 Miss Thelma MacEntire, as Jo, and John hoydenish, tomboy daughter of the family was unusually good. Other parts were also interpreted well.

 Miss Elizabeth Hewitt played the part of Amy, the artistic, youngest daughter of the Marches, Miss Jessie Pearl Irvin as Meg, the family beauty and eldest daughter, and Miss Genevieve Blanton as Beth, sweet "little Tranquility" appeared as the other two daughters. Around the life of these four the story is centered. Miss Mabel Jones as Mrs. March and Gilbert McGinnis as Mr. March, made charming and dignified parents for the girls.
 The part of Lauri, the hero, and beloved pal of the March girls, was played by J. C. Moore. Milan Callahan was the handsome John Brooke, Laurie's tutor, and very much interested in Mag. Jasper Greene appeared in the role of the scholarly Professor Barn, who dedicated his first book to Jo, and John Albert McBrayer was Laurie's dignified grandfather, Mr. Lawrence. Miss Francis Doggett, as Aunt March, the rich relative, and Aileen Crowder as Hannah the irritable Irish servant of the Marches, concluded the cast with the exception of the twins "Daisy and Demi" who made their appearance on the stage in the folds of a blue baby blanket.

High Cagers Open Up For Season; Many Vets

Coaches Morris And Falls Have Two Quints And Some Reserve Material.
 With their football equipment tucked away until another year rolls around, the Shelby high athletes this week started their basketball training in the Central high tin can.
 There aren't any Virgil McSwains in the squad of candidates but Coaches Casey Morris and Tilden Falls have a likely looking group of boys, including almost two quint of youngsters who have been under fire in the court game in bygone years.
 One Veteran Five.
 Two quints have been running signal drill already during the week. The so-called first quint is entirely made up of experienced cagers with several experienced lads on the second outfit. The line-up used in the first quint most frequently is composed of Alf Eskridge, center; "Big Red" Brown and "Shorty" McSwain, forwards; Johnny Corbett and Doane Hulick, guards.
 The second quint, members of which will see much action in varsity games during the year, is made up of Halg Poston, center; O. C. Connor and R. K. Wilson, forwards; Purp Barrett and "Little Red" Brown guards.
 At least ten more fleet youngsters are making strong bids for berths in the two line-ups.
 Talk Town Team.
 The approach of the basketball season and the opening of the training grind for the highs has resulted in some talk of a town quint, or several quints. Some stars of former days are debating the organization of a quint made up of college and high school stars for games with quints of other towns, while there is talk of two town quints staging a game with the idea of turning the proceeds over to charity.
 Season In County.
 Out over the county—and Cleveland county is much of a basketball neighborhood—the cagers in county schools have been on the boards for several weeks because they were not delayed by football Early games from several schools indicate that there are several fast-stepping outfits in the county, and the entire season naturally points to the annual county-wide tournament in the tin can here, an event that is one of the county's biggest sport feasts of the year.

Grid Fans Head For "The Hill" And Last Game

Football lovers of Shelby and section are keyed up today for their final thrill of the season—the Duke-Carolina game Saturday at Chapel Hill which ushers old King Football off the stage in the state for this season.
 Scores of Shelby and county fans are leaving tonight and early tomorrow for Chapel Hill to take in the contest for the state title. Favoritism is pretty well divided in this section, and predictions on the outcome are, likewise, right well split up.

 "I would have such dizzy spells, and such bursting headaches, until I could hardly go. But after taking a few doses of Black-Draught I would feel just fine. It is a good medicine, and I recommend it to all who suffer as I did. It is very easy to recommend a medicine that has done as much for me as Black-Draught has done."
