To Fight Prohibition Law

Just a Girl With Taking Ways

Sobbing pitifully in the clutches of a detective is Mary Fielder, of Newark, N. J., an unusual eleven-year-old girl, while little Evelyn Gaffney, 2 (inset), is the tot she kidnapped. Mary is said to have a weakness for beads and babies. She admitted climbing two stories like a cat, into the Gaffney apartment, where she took the sleeping tot to place her in a carriage in an alley. Five hours later, through Mary's confession, the kidnapped baby was home again.

Hoey Declines Senate Seat, Quietly Bows Out Of Picture, But Gets Praise Of Hundreds friend told him. "We know that you deserve it and that you are unusually fitted for the place. You have done much for your State and your party, and you are certainly entitled to a reward some time."

Another statement, from a friend in another section of the State, said: "Clyde Hoey has done more for his party than any two men in North Carolina. It is high time the party rewarded him, the best it can, for the years of loyalty and service he has given it."

Yet Hoey would not yield to any of the many angles of persuasion advanced.

From Gastonia came a copy of The Gazette saying that the Gaston bar and practically a unanimous citizenship wanted to see him senator.

His only answer was the modest wire made public after the appointment Saturday afternoon. He had modestly bowed himself out of the picture, hoping not to be even noticed as one of the most important actors in the drama of the day.

Morrison Popular.
Senator Morrison, generally known here as "Governor Cam," is one of the most popular leaders of North Carolina to Shelby people. Few, if any, Tar Heel state men, except local men, as is to be expected of hometown patriotism, are more popular. The bitter Gardner-Morrison campaign of 1926 has left very little feeling to the section, and when Morrison spoke here in the last campaign every available space in the court house was filled with people anxious to hear the fiery orator plead for his party.

As one citizen expressed it today "Gov. Morrison's appointment is the most popular one that could have been made with Mr. Hoey out of the picture. Of course we wanted Clyde and wanted him to have it more than other sections of the State can realize, because we know better than they the man he is. This sentiment

Fox Hounds, Bird Dogs Of This Section Gain Nation-Wide Fame By Recent Articles In Magazines

Danger's Fancy also won prizes in the trailing, speed and driving, and endurance contests. In the all-age class Long Hunter, another Forest City hound, won second honors and was pictured. Ruling Chief, another Golden Valley Kennel hound, was among the first day leaders in the Futurity. "Susan Moore" said the magazine writer of the Golden Valley hound, "did something this year that no hound has ever done, whelped the Futurity winner and is the dam of Long Hunter, second place winner in the All-Age."

S. L. Woodruff writing an editorial survey of the national meet had the following to say of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Moore and Mr. Summey who carried their prize-winning dogs to the meet: "Sitting quietly on a divan, you could not help but notice the trim-cut, well groomed man talking to an unusually pretty woman, whose graceful smile and gentle manner had made friends with everyone she met. This couple was Mr. and Mrs. Terry Moore, of Forest City, N. C., part owners of the Golden Valley Kennels, whose great hound Danger's Fancy was running in the Futurity stake. They were discussing her work with S. A. Summey, who had helped handle her." Referring to Danger Fancy's victory, the editorial writer said:

"She (the hound) had met all the crack hounds of Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee and other states and had beaten them at their own game. There was a look from Mrs. Moore to her husband that meant everything."
