

Make Farm Loans To 365,000 Farmers

Other Credit Corporations Are Being Formed. Notes Are Discounted.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 6.—The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, since its organization in 1923 has made direct loans to farmers' cooperative marketing associations with membership of approximately 385,000 individuals, said Frank H. Daniel, president of the bank, here today. "In addition, it has discounted more than 22,000 farmers' notes given to local lending institutions, the proceeds of the loans being used for agricultural or livestock purposes. These notes were made to 14 agricultural credit corporations in North Carolina, 29 in South Carolina, 23 in Georgia and 8 in Florida and 22 banks. Some of these farmers have borrowed from these local institutions several times during the last 7 years. Agricultural credit corporations are now in the process of formation at Columbia, S. C., Savannah, Ga., and Valdosta, Ga. In addition, at least several other communities are now considering the organization of such corporations for the extension of agricultural credit.

Right Of Way.

You often win the law-suit if you had right of way. "The other driver should have stopped."

But right-hand, left-turn, up or down. You're surely out of luck, when, though you had the right-of-way.

An Unpleasant Subject

All of the functions of life are not pleasant to consider. Perhaps this is why some mothers refuse to think that such symptoms as restless sleep, loss of flesh, lack of appetite or itching nose and fingers in their children, can be caused by round or pin worms. Many mothers have proven, however, that a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, that sure and harmless worm expellant, will make these symptoms disappear. You can get White's Cream Vermifuge for 35 cents per bottle from

Felt Bad After Eating

"Errors I started taking Black-Draught, three years ago, my health was very bad," writes Mrs. C. C. Carson, 345 Concord St., Beaumont, Texas. "I suffered constantly from constipation. I had headaches when I got up, in the morning, and I felt dull and sluggish. I hardly ate a meal that my food agreed with me. Frequently I would have gas on my stomach, and felt awful. "I read about Black-Draught, and I thought it might help me. After I had taken it a little while, I felt much better. It relieved constipation. I keep it on hand so when I need a laxative I will have it. In the three years I have been taking it, I have never found anything as good for constipation."

Around Our TOWN Shelby SIDELIGHTS

By RENN DRUM.

In a certain section of this state there is a postmaster or postal clerk with a sense of humor.

Recently The Star mailed a letter to a bank in his town. At that time the paper did not know that the bank had closed. Several days later the letter came back. Post offices, as is generally known, use a rubber stamp to explain why letters are returned to the writer. At the top it is informed that the letter is returned for reason checked below. Then there are several reasons listed which may be checked. These include "Unclaimed," "Unknown," "Moved, left no address," "Deceased," and "Refused."

This particular letter came back with the check opposite the word "Deceased." And to clarify it a bit more the postal clerk wrote across the envelope "No such thing—bank busted."

This section should be out gunning for a distinguished editor who once won the Pulitzer prize, Robert Lathan, of The Asheville Citizen.

Not long since the census bureau sent out a story showing the growth of North Carolina villages under 500 population. There are 237 such villages in the state and the census statistics explained that the net growth from 1920 to 1930 of all of the 237 did not equal the growth of Shelby alone. Mr. Lathan wrote an editorial about it. Perhaps he doesn't know there is a city by the name of Shelby, or perchance he couldn't imagine any town adding more population than the total of 237 other villages. Anyway, he wrote "The net growth of the 237 villages was less than that of Shelby county, or of several of the larger municipalities."

Now we know how Duke university students felt when Johnny Mack Brown told his radio audience, while broadcasting from the Rose Bowl football game, that Coach Wallace Wade was going to leave Alabama for "Duke university, Durham, South Carolina."

Senior Peyton McSwain should take off enough time from his legislative duties to call some of the newspapermen to one side and tell them where he is from and how his name is spelled.

The senate had barely started wrangling about things until General Mecklenburg wrote a letter in The Charlotte Observer and addressed it to "Senator Peter McSwain." Blow number one. Then this week The News and Observer came out with a story telling as how "Senator Peyton McSwain, of Polk county," had introduced a bill to tax retail merchants. Blow number two. On the same afternoon the Associated Press dispatch in The Charlotte News stated that Senator McSwain, "of Polk," had introduced such-and-such a bill. Blow number three.

What's the use, we repeat, of going down to Raleigh and making a name for yourself only to have the name juggled about like that?

An eight-year-old Shelby girl, P. W., is going to get a lot of good crackers without cost. She wrote the National Biscuit company that a good slogan for their NBC crackers would be "No Better Crackers."

You philosophers, hitch your train of thought onto the caboose end of this one:

On which side is a cow milked?

Shelby suburbs and residential sections have some right swanky names: Beaumonde Terraces, Belvedere Heights, Hillcrest and Lincoln Drive. And don't overlook Flat Rock, Red Row, and Chnatown.

Ripley ought not tell everything like this:

On a tombstone in Bath, England, is the following epitaph:

"Here lies Anne Mann,
She lived an old maid and
Died an old Mann."

Shelby Shorts: There are five names—the e of the mayor and four men—on the cornerstone of Shelby's City Hall, erected in 1910. Only one of the five are living. One of the two was an alderman then, but has in mayor since . . . A big moment in a little life: Hearing Roland Ayes, the negro tenor, sing "My Little Pool" . . . "Since we've had quite a bit about Shelby's most beautiful women," inquires a reader, "why not pick Shelby's ugliest man?" A dangerous thing to do, lady, and then we've always attempted to avoid, being of the blushing violet type, any chance of patting our own back with an honor. (For that matter, so's your old man) . . . Another Damon-Pythias friendship in Shelby, that between Charlie Eskridge and R. T. LeGrande. And if you noticed, they became directors of the First National bank at the same time. They usually go at things that way . . . This department never likes to make others feel bad, but wonder if anybody has written the Ryburns, the Ayses, the Quims and other Shelbyites in Florida about the weather we've been having? . . . Who taught the first public school in Shelby?

Sure Was a Change.

A lady of color recently appeared before an attorney and said she wanted a divorce from her husband because he had gotten religion. The attorney told her she would have to dig something better; that an ordinary attack of religion was insufficient grounds for divorce. "Has religion changed your husband in any way?" "Yes, sir! We ain't had chicken on the table since he got it."

WARM HANDLE OF BROOM USED IN ROBBING ROOST

Danville, Va.—Arrested here on a charge of robbing a hen roost, one of the trio held, asked by officers how he managed to secure the fowl without causing a commotion which would arouse the owners, revealed new technique of robbing roosts.

The man, according to the police confided that the method is to take a broom handle and warm it slightly. It is then shrewdly extended toward the roosting chicken and as soon as its toes touch the warm wood, it comforts the bird and it immediately hops onto the handle which is drawn in and the chicken carefully removed.
