"I'll tell him, when he comes," she said.
"Body and baggage, to go. Though the night be darker than my hair,
And the ground be hard with snow."
But when he came with gay blue head
Thrown back, and his lips apart,
She flipped a light hair from his coat,
And sobbed against his heart.

Bad Company.
Mr. Hardhitter's claim to a seat on the local council rested chiefly on what he called "the gross incompetence and criminal extravagance" of the present body. Individually and collectively Hardhitter ruthlessly exposed their failings, but—Hardhitter didn't win the seat! Worse, infinitely worse, one of his oldest friends voted for the other side at the last moment.
"How was it, John?" asked the disappointed candidate, more in sorrow than in anger. "Why did you vote against me?"
"Because," responded John, "I think a deal too much about ye to send ye among sick a dishonest set o' rascals as ye've proved them other fellows to be."

Rutherford, Polk Counties Shy On Food, Feed Crop Acreage

Must Produce More Food And Feed For Farmers To Live At Home.
Raleigh, Feb. 6.—Henderson, Polk and Rutherford counties' farmers must weed out deficiencies in food and feed crops during the coming year if they wish to place their counties on the "live-at-home" band-wagon, according to the latest data obtained by the N. C. State college extension service, Raleigh. The figures are taken from the 1929 farm crop. The trio of counties has the following deficiencies: Henderson, $1,060,761; Polk, $402,765; and Rutherford, $1,732,366. This is a total deficiency for the three counties of $3,195,892.
Aim of Governor.
If these three counties will increase their food and feed crop yields sufficiently and wipe out this huge deficit, they will be doing a great deal toward giving the state an increase this crop year of $40,000,000 of food and feed products over the total of 1930. This is the aim of Governor O. Max Gardner, who urged the farmers two years ago to increase food and feed production for farm use. The farmers of the state responded with an increase of over $19,000,000.
Henderson county has made a fair start towards the live-at-home ideal but is still not producing enough of four crops for its own farm needs, not counting urban requirements. These crops are wheat, oats, poultry and hay. Nine food and feed crops show a surplus, however. These surplus crops are corn, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, beef and veal, mutton and lamb milk, eggs, pork and lard and home garden products. The county is one of a few in the state producing a milk surplus and also a surplus of home garden produce. Hay is the crop in which Henderson county is shortest, this deficiency coming to a valuation of $877,942 for the 12,219 tons needed over production.
Polk County.
Polk county fails to raise its farm needs in seven crops; wheat, oats, milk, poultry, pork and lard, had and home garden produce. The two biggest deficiency items are hay and home garden produce. The county does produce on its farm a surplus of corn, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, beef and veal and eggs. The cotton crop brought in over half a million dollars but this is a "money" crop. The farmers, if deficiency and surplus values are taken to be exact and the price of the cotton surplus and other incidental crops, had $331,702 over deficiencies. But Governor Gardner wants each farm to be self-sustaining within its own confines, through the raising of all its food and feed.
Rutherford county missed the mark in eight crops: wheat, oats, milk, poultry, eggs, pork and lard, hay and home garden produce. The county raised enough for farm needs of corn, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes and beef and veal. The greatest need is for the raising of more home garden produce. The second greatest deficiency lies in a lack of hay production, with oats the third most deficient crop. The cotton crop sold for nearly $2,000,000 in 1929, but the profit thereon was small. If the farmers of the county had raised their food and feed, a much greater proportion of the cotton cash would have been real profit.

Shelby Boy Boxing For Title At Georgia Tech—175 Pounder

Joe Singleton Favorite to Win Light Heavyweight Honors There.

North Carolina has heard much in recent years about Add Warren, the college boy who once played football at the university, and it seems now that within a few years Shelby may present a first-class collegiate gladiator to the prize ring.
In Atlanta in March "Big Joe" Singleton will box for the light heavyweight title of the college, the 175-pound class. Singleton, who was an All-state guard in football here, is a favorite to win the 175-pound honors but had a stiff grind of training to come down to that weight.

The Shelby boy, who is also a track star, first started boxing while in school here. He appeared in several main bouts and was a favorite with fight fans but refused to take any remuneration in order to retain his standing as an amateur.

Incidentally, Atlanta sports writers give Singleton a good chance to make the Golden Tornado football team at end or guard next year.

Bank President Is Under Indictment

President of Defunct Bank at Hendersonville Charged With Embezzling $20,000.

Hendersonville, Feb. 4.—J. Mack Rhodes, president of the defunct Bank and Trust company here and former mayor of Hendersonville today was under $5,000 bond charged with embezzling $20,000 of the bank's funds.

He is the father of W. Gaithed Rhodes, former cashier of the bank who recently pleaded guilty to embezzlement of $40,000 from the bank and who is now serving a five to seven year sentence at state's prison.

The elder Rhodes, who has been confined to his bed since accompanying his son to prison at Raleigh was arrested at his home late last night. The warrant was sworn to by H. G. Cramer, state liquidating agent of the bank, which closed its doors November 20.
Rhodes' bond was signed by a brother, a sister and G. W. Griffith, of Laurel Park.
