

Leaders in Peruvian Turmoil

The flame of revolt has again burst forth in Peru. What was at first supposed to be a local disorder has now spread over the southern portion of the country. Provisional President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro (left) has issued a call for 1600 volunteers to support the government against the rebels who are reported under the leadership of friends of the former president, Augusto B. Leguia (right) deposed by the revolution of last August and now in the national penitentiary at Lima.

Is The Small Church College Making Good Now?

By R. L. BOLTON

We are taking stock today, trying to find out just where we are in business, in education, and in all other departments of life.

During this intensive and thorough stock-taking the small church college is coming through with colors flying.

In the current volume of Who's Who, in which are listed the names of "the best-known men and women in the country in all lines of useful and reputable achievements," a small Christian college in Virginia has contributed the largest number of celebrities on a percentage basis. This small Christian college, Hampden Sydney, in Prince Edward county, Virginia, has given more than seven of every hundred of its living graduates to our national register of distinguished usefulness. Amherst comes second and famous Harvard comes third, giving a little more than six of every hundred of its graduates. This small church college, under the auspices of the Presbyterians, is modestly equipped, having no huge endowment like Columbia and Harvard and Yale, and having at the present time a student body of less than three hundred, is pouring into the life of the nation a rich stream of distinguished usefulness. In years gone by its enrollment has been less than one hundred. It was founded in the year of our Republic's birth. It has not had easy sailing in a financial way. Its curriculum is old-fashioned, stressing Greek and Latin. For the most part, its students are poor, but of character and intellectual force—the sons largely of farmers, doctors, lawyers and ministers. Many of the students are the sons of former students. This old church college has not been an institution notable for social contacts and athletic prestige. It is delivering the goods, standing at the very top among all the education institutions of this country.

The American people are fair. They are slow to wake up sometimes, but they finally come to the right conclusions. They are not going to allow the small church schools to die for lack of financial support.

There is a small church college in Cleveland county, Bowling Springs. It is less than thirty years old. It is the only church college in this historic old county of Cleveland. It has made a large contribution to the thought and life, not only of this immediate section, but to North Carolina. It is compelled at the present time to look largely to the good people of Shelby and Cleveland county for its financial support. Such colleges as Bowling Springs must live.

Look into the record of this noble institution. Think of its present worth, and its possible future, as it continues to teach and train the fine young life within its walls.

ARGUMENTS TODAY IN BENNETT TRIAL

Kansas City, March 5.—Closing arguments were slated for delivery today in the "bridge quarrel" murder trial of Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett, 35, with her assertion her husband was shot accidentally saved from surprise rebuttal testimony for the state.

As the defense rested Prosecuting Attorney James R. Page strove vainly to introduce Byrd Rice of Chicago, a nephew of the slain man, John G. Bennett, to relate description of the slaying September 29, 1929, as allegedly told to him by the widow seven weeks later.

Militiamen Guard $50,000 Contest Mail

THE thousands of letters received in the $50,000 Camel cigarette contest, advertised in newspapers from coast to coast, were guarded in the same manner as huge gold shipments. Photograph shows contest mail being loaded into an armored truck at the Winston-Salem, N. C., postoffice under guard for transportation to the offices of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. Charles Dana Gibson, noted artist and publisher of Life, Ray Long, president of International Magazine Company and Editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine, and Roy Howard, chairman of the board of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, were judges of the contest which called for answers to the question, "What recent change has been made in the wrapping of the Camel package containing twenty cigarettes and what are its advantages to the smoker?" The huge response to the contest announcements proved anew the great responsiveness of the public to newspaper advertising.

State Probably Will Sell Liquor.

Sante Fe, N. M., Mar. 4.—Without debate, the New Mexico senate today adopted a favorable report on the proposed state liquor dispensary bill. The measure, holding that the 18th amendment and state constitution do not prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor by a state, proposes to put New Mexico into the business of dispensing whiskey, wine and beer to permit soldiers, with the products to be made in a state distillery.
