

At The Theaters

Today and Saturday at the Carolina: Buck Jones in "Desert Vengeance," with Barbara Bedford. Buck's the man who has a new recipe for keeping domestic peace. He lets his wife beat him at bridge. So Mrs. Buck says Desert Vengeance is her husband's greatest picture. Other attractions on the Carolina program are "Hot Wires" and "Razz-Berries"—comedy and Terrytoon Monday—Charles Farrell with his leading lady, Elissa Landi, in "Body and Soul."

At the Webb theatre today and Saturday: "The Painted Desert" with Bill Boyd and Helen Twelvetrees carrying the title roles. A melodrama of real America, seasoned throughout with romance and comedy relief, depicting men and women real and rugged. William Farnum also figures prominently in the supporting all-star cast. To the feature are added a Charlie Chase comedy and Funny Fables. Monday's attraction at the Webb will be "The Office Wife."

The Lyric's complete bill today includes Joan Bennett and Lew Ayres in "Many a Slip," comedy of modern youth; chapter "Spell of the Circus," starring Frances X. Bushman, and "Leather Pushers." Saturday will bring an entire change of program: feature, "Ladies of Leisure," and a comedy. In the advertising columns today the Lyric announces early bookings for "Charles' Aunt," "Tollable David" and other prominent pictures.

Gardner Future Depends On Success Of Assembly Action

state will be the signal for a contest by its enemies.
On the other hand, he will have strong support in official life. Newly created state officers, in the nature of their responsibilities, must be men of large caliber and men of influence in North Carolina. Whether their appointments are made with full consideration of the political element in the selection or not, they will be influential to a great degree in what ever future political plans the governor has.

Some believe that he is destined to be outstanding influential in the future, and that if he desires election for any office he will have excellent chances of election. But there, for the moment, is the rub. He is held to be barred from running against Senator Morrison, his appointee to the senate, and thus repudiate his own choice for that office. He is reputed to be receptive to the Democratic vice-presidential nomination.

New Senators All Considered Forceful

years' experience in the house as his background.

Bailey is perhaps one of the most learned men who has had a seat on the Democratic side of the senate chamber since the days of John Sharp Williams of Mississippi. This old warrior, it will be recalled, when asked what he would do when his term was out said, "I'll pick up my hat and go home," and he did it. Bailey, as is well known, is a deep religious student, one who researches until there is nothing more to find on any subject. He is perhaps the opposite of Simmons, Simmons was quick on his feet, fiery and ready to fight at the drop of the hat. Bailey is ultra-conservative, though it is expected he will get in to many senate fights before he has been here long.

Hull of Tennessee is much along the line of both Bailey and George. The former chairman of the Democratic national committee has a head simply full of useful facts and figures which he can use in a moment's notice to make the opposition squirm and wriggle in their seats.

George is a terrific fighter and one of the best legal debaters on either side of the senate chamber. He has not the slow enunciation of Joe Bailey or the cutting sarcasm of Beveridge, but every lick he gives means somebody is hit hard.

Beveridge, Joe Bailey and others in their day made a fine combination of wit, humor, sarcasm and everything needed for the forensic arena, but it is difficult to see how they even with the wonderful old Spooner of Wisconsin, a giant in his day, has anything on Byrnes, Hull, Bailey and George as a four-horse team of the present time.

Byrnes with his 14 years of House experience, Hull with more than 25, added to the Bailey and George fighting forces are expected to give the Democrats just what they have lacked for many years—the necessary punch to successfully attack and hold the Republican opposition.

Uproar Staged At Democratic Meeting

lina, followed Mrs. Norton with another assault upon the proposal to inject prohibition at this time and called for the "Democratic party of Joe Robinson and Jack Garner."

His fiery prohibition speech provoked constant interruption and Patrick H. Quinn, of Rhode Island, protested that it was out of order. Chairman Raskob, who recognized the North Carolinian while several others were seeking to talk, ruled he could proceed.

Senator Hull of Tennessee, a former national chairman, was the first to respond to Raskob's invitation to discuss the platform proposal. In temperate words, the Tennesseean stated his belief that the committee was without authority to adopt policies, and that it was not its function either to recommend policies to the national convention.

All speakers agreed that only the national convention could commit the party on issues.
"All this talk about influencing the national convention is just bunk," snapped Smith.

Chides Robinson.
"Atta boy," shouted a committeeman.
"I have been brought up in the Democratic party to believe that the platform comes from the people," he continued.

Turning again to Senator Robinson, but this time with a smile, Smith said:

"I am sorry to think that my old time traveling companion and political sparring partner, who traveled all over the state of New York in 1928 with a constitution in his hand explaining to the people that all this Republican propaganda of what we would do couldn't happen, is going off here today without an understanding of what was said by our chairman.

"If there is anything that could give greater comfort to President Hoover and his cohorts than what has happened here today I don't know what it could be.

"No one has said anything about repeal. In fact, something was said against repeal.

Smith Gets Ovation.
"As far as the principles enunciated by Mr. Raskob are concerned I want to say I never heard of them until today and I'm not sure that I'm for them all.

"But when the Democratic party reaches the point where no one can express an opinion and its chairman is going to be dragged around the lot because he expressed his opinion we'd better stop talking and abandon free speech."

A rising ovation with several moments storming applause greeted Smith's conclusion:

"I didn't mean to make a speech. I'm not a member of the committee. I want to just be a plain worker in the ranks. Tell me what to do and I'll be there."

Takes Raskob To Task.
Robinson was just as firm in his conviction that Raskob in bringing forward a platform at this time, including the liquor issue, had "pajo back" to President Hoover "the aid rendered by him (Hoover) in his first two years of office to the Democratic party."

Turning to Chairman Raskob, the Arkansas senator thundered:
"You cannot write on the banner of the Democratic party the skull and crossbone emblematical of an outlawed trade and expect the party to accept your recommendations without resistance.

"If I had taken this platform either as a member of the committee or as a member of the party and suggested such a recommendation on the eighteenth amendment, it would have been taken by the chairman as needless interference. This is a subject on which both political parties are divided. The only way in which the Republican party can hope for victory is to rely on the lack of wisdom of those who lead the Democratic party."
