Picture of Abandoned Girl Brings Love to Unwed Mother

Edward Andes, New Jersey Printer, Proves That Age of Chivalry Has Not Passed Away and Opens Path of Happiness to Unwed Mother and Her Child.

WELCOMED BY GROOM'S MOTHER AFTER WEDDING

By ALICE ALDEN.
 New York.—And so they lived happily ever after!
 That is the ending that all lovers of romance would decree for the story of the courtship and marriage of Edward Andes and Florence Danisavage, a story that proves that chivalry isn't dead despite the fact that so many men remain glued to their seats in overcrowded public vehicles, while elderly women are forced to stand.
 A few weeks ago, an unwed mother abandoned her babe. The love child, a beautiful girl was left in a dark hallway by a bewildered young woman, who was hopeless, jobless, and who felt herself trapped by a civilization that so often refuses to recognize the unwed mother and yet insists that she should not abandon the badge of her disgrace. Florence Danisavage loved her tiny babe

Florence Danisavage and he suddenly recollected that he had met her and admired her intensely. She was a salesgirl in the men's furnishings section of a Secaucus, N. J. store that he had patronized.

Suddenly Edward Andes realized that he loved Florence Danisavage, even as he loved the baby whose picture he had noticed that morning. He realized that he didn't care what Florence had done, what she had been, he only knew that he must go to her. And so he dashed away leaving someone else to set up the unfinished story while he prepared a happy ending for it. At the police station he was given permission to visit Florence and to her dark cell he came bearing the precious gifts of freedom and happiness. They were married a few days later and are at present living with Andes' mother, who is a New Jersey school trustee.

According to the theories of many scientists, psychologists and writers, the Anders' marriage should ultimately go on the rocks. But the bridegroom cannot see why it should. And most people, whatever their views, will hope that he will be right. In France where a statute to the unwed mother has been erected, such a marriage would be the subject of much comment, little of it favorable, but here—in a land that France calls puritanical, most people will applaud Andes' pluck if not his wisdom. When the baby's picture was published, over one hundred people called the station and wanted to adopt the baby and help the mother. But now it won't be necessary because Florence, Eddie and the babe have found their blue heaven.

At least, the Tully-Gilbert, Keaton-Keys alterations have given certain Hollywood stars opportunity to view brighter constellations.

Fifteen-year-old Ida Louise Gibby, of Southmayd, Texas, says she was protecting her mother, small brother and herself when she shot and killed her father, J. M. Gibby, with a shotgun. The girl was released in bonds of $1,000 following a preliminary hearing on a charge of murder.

Explode Bombs In Havana Streets. Havana, Mar. 7.—Five bombs exploded in Havana today, doing some damage and injuring one child. One bursting in San Nicholas street broke many windows and attracted a great crowd. The others were in the central and residential districts. A 14-year-old child was taken to a hospital with injuries received in one of the explosions. Police said they saw one of the bombers fleeing in an automobile.
