Painful Condition
"When I was just a girl at home," writes Mrs. B. F. Riggan, of Baird, Texas, "I took Cardui for cramping and pains in my side and back, and it helped me at that time."
"After I was married, I found myself in a weak, run-down condition. I suffered a great deal with my back, which was so weak it hurt me to get up or when I would stand on my feet. I fell off in weight."
"A friend of mine, seeing how bad I felt, advised me to take Cardui, which I did. By the time I had taken two bottles, I felt stronger and better than I had in a long time."

"Big Ben" A Winning Essay

(The following is the essay which won the Selma C. Webb medal a few days ago. It was written by Felix Gee jr., one of The Star's most efficient carrier boys and son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix O. Gee of Shelby.)

What a series of mingled sensations are caused by an alarm clock abruptly waking a sound sleeper! The melodious strains of a stray cat on a back fence may cause a most perfect gentleman to throw a shoe, paperweight, or anything which is handy, and even to use improper language, but it is not comparable to the clarion voice of Big Ben, bringing you with a snap out of that delicious drowsiness which precedes the awakening. All the hopes and ambitions of yesterday fade and vanish from existence with the intermittent commands of that modern Simon Legree. You are no longer an emperor, football star, movie queen, or even another Lindbergh; but only a school boy who must rise up grudgingly to face the task which is ahead of him.

Once, after an exceptionally hard day at school, I was enjoying a most delicious dream. I had just been elected President of the United States and was ascending the balcony to make my inaugural address. Because of the alluring throngs below, wildly acclaiming me, I could not speak for several minutes. When they finally quieted down, I knew that now was my chance to make myself famous. Just as I started to speak I heard a strange sound. I awoke with a start, to find Big Ben cackling with laughter.

Again, in a World series, we the Yankees were leading by one run. I was pitching in the ninth inning. Hack Wilson came to bat. With a count of two strikes and three balls in his favor, I threw the ball with all my strength. I heard a terrific crash and looked around, expecting to see the ball soaring over the fence. But no, it was Big Ben, striking his finger at me in a most accusing manner. These are truly "times that try men's souls."

As you sullenly prepare to get up and go through the struggles ahead of you, another curt command is issued from that terrible little cock, and you, now fully awake, begin with fear to think of that French test, history quiz, and what-not. And yet if we stop to contemplate, we will find Big Ben to be a household necessity. If it were not for this little helper we would be late at school or for any other work we might be doing. A real friend, it illustrates the true importance of punctuality.

But, as with most of us, its best foot is seldom put foremost. Disturbing our innermost thoughts, or peaceful sleep as the case may be, at the unearthly hour of five-thirty in the morning, it gives us real cause to think of it as a nuisance or an overbearing tyrant. Lying in bed with my head under the cover, trying to drown out that terrible bedlam, I have often wondered how a contraption made of springs and wheels could cause so much unhappiness. In such moments I have been sure that this old thing was surely fashioned by the Evil One, especially for my benefit.

Against rushing into classroom just in time, as a result of my clock's faithful reminder, I have blessed old Ben, saying I knew he was the result of an angel's unceasing work in our behalf. So from time to time our opinion of this strange little mechanism has changed greatly, but, in conclusion, I would like to say, Mr. Kipling's Light has failed and numerous banks have failed, but here's to Big Ben, the voice that never fails.

Bible In Pocket Saves Man's Life

Durham.—A Bible saved the life of a man here. Henry Myers, negro wood-chopper, was accosted by an unknown white man with the order to give up his money. The negro took $27 from his pocket and gave it to the robber who walked away a few steps then wheeled and fired a shot. The bullet struck Myers over the right breast. It did not injure him, however, for it penetrated a new testament which the negro carried in his pocket and came to rest between the life saving book and his skin. No trace of the robber has been found.

Limestone Girls Entertain At Week-End House Party

North Carolina Girls Entertain For Visitors From Old North State

(Special to The Star.)
Gaffney, S. C., Mar. 10.—The North Carolina club of Limestone college, Gaffney, S. C., entertained a number of high school students from the "Old North State" with a houseparty over the week end. Several informal parties were given for them.

At 6:30, immediately after dinner, the club gave a reception in the senior parlor for the visitors and a few members of the faculty. Miss Wilma Mage of Belmont, president of the club, greeted the guests at the door. Miss Bessie Campbell of Shelby, and Miss Virginia Broadway of Tarboro, introduced the faculty to the guests. Misses Gladys Hamrick, of Kings Mountain, Ruth and Elizabeth McClain of Rutherfordton, and Mrs. Mc Daniels of Cherryville served coffee and cake.

Before leaving Dr. R. C. Cranberry, president of the college, Miss Eunice Ford, dean, Miss Montague McMillan, Mrs. Edna C. Hughes, Dr. L. L. Carpenter and Mr. Lyman Link of the faculty spoke words of welcome to the guests. Miss Frances White of Scotland Neck, also a member of the faculty sang very charmingly in her inimitable manner.

Again at ten the club entertained. This was one of those affairs in which college girls love to indulge. Pillows and stools were scattered over the floor. During the evening peanuts and candy was passed in profusion.

The girls who enjoyed the house-party were Miss Pauline Cornwell, of Lincolnton; Miss Hildegarde Barnes, of Mt. Holly; Miss Hazel Ferridon, of Kings Mountain and Misses Ola Lee Glasgow, Rosa Lee Moore and Nancy McCurry of Shelby.

Around The Carolina Theatre

(With Apologies To RENN DRUM.)
If Jim hadn't been playing golf I wouldn't have to write this mess. He got so rattled over the rotten golf game we had he just couldn't concentrate long enough to fill this column of white space he bought from Mr. Lee Weather's. Fact is, he talked so blomin' much about his moving picture shows he didn't have anything left to write. I endured his clattering line of picture chatter for a boring eighteen holes. I was filled up with "new shows," "pretty stars" and "feature attractions." He teed off with a spell about Edmund Lowe in "Scotland Yard," his picture for Friday and Saturday; he shot a nice new ball in the lake from number three, because he was raving about Elissa Landi; he lost his tongue on number five because I had gained a couple of strokes on him. But by the time we had reached number seven, he had made the odds on me and took me for a swift bat' of "Fighting Caravans." Gary Cooper himself couldn't sell his picture any more emphatically than Jim Reynolds, for I swore I'd see everything he had told me about if he would only give my ears a rest and let me play the last two holes in peace.

I came in like the new golfer who had played his first match with a Jew—he was easy to beat for I scored five more points than he did.

WE THANK YOU!

S. C. Pastor Made Happy By Results

"I heartily recommend the Sargon treatment because I believe it's the greatest strength and health builder ever made available to the public."

REV. D. M. COLLINS, Charleston, S. C., pastor of the First Baptist church, "My kidneys and stomach were out of order. I was weak and rundown and suffered with awful headaches and pains in my back and sides. I tried various medicines, but nothing helped me until I started Sargon. In less than a month my whole system was in a strong, healthy condition and I felt like a new man. Sargon pills were the only laxative I ever used that really overcame my constipation. I feel it my duty to tell others of this wonderful treatment." Sold in Shelby by Cleveland Drug Co., in Kings Mountain by Summers Drug Co.
