Men Of Vision In Cleveland Co. Endorse Boiling Spgs. College

Judge Webb, Supt. J. H. Grigg, J. D. Lineberger, Rev. John W. Suttle and Dr. Wall Endorse Institution. (By R. L. BOLTON.) Outstanding leaders in Cleveland county have a large appreciation of the worth and work of Boiling Springs. These men of vision are vitally concerned about all fundamental enterprises which assure the mental, spiritual, and material prosperity of their county and section. A Vital Asset. Judge E. Y. Webb says concerning Boiling Springs: "I regard Boiling Springs college as one of Cleveland county's most vital and valuable assets. Indeed, it is a valuable asset to the whole Piedmont region. The splendid work that has been done, and is being done, at this splendid institution, will show its splendid effect in this section long after the men and women of this generation are gone. The fine moral atmosphere surrounding this college cannot be over-estimated. A graduate there is well equipped to meet the battles of life; but, in addition, the college is a fine reservoir from which fine boys and girls are drawn to the higher institutions of our state. I feel that every man and woman in this part of the state should rally to the support of Boiling Springs college." Long Felt Need. J. H. Grigg, superintendent of education of Cleveland county: "Boiling Springs college is filling a long felt need in Cleveland county and adjoining territory." Backs School. J. R. Dover, sr.: "I am for Boiling Springs junior college in words and action, especially action." He's For It. J. D. Lineberger: "I consider Boiling Springs junior college of great worth to Cleveland county and this section of North Carolina. It is an institution that all the people should get behind. I am for it." From Baptist Moderator. Rev. John W. Suttle, minister beloved and moderator of the Kings Mountain association: "I have spent twenty-two years as pastor in Cleveland county. I have always been for Boiling Springs. I am ardently for it now. I have always kept my churches about the school and have urged them to support it. I urge the 11,000 Baptists of the Kings Mountain association to rally to our junior college at Boiling Springs." A Christian School. Postmaster J. H. Quinn: "This section of the Carolinas has an asset in the Boiling Springs junior college of inestimable value. Owned and controlled by the three Baptist associations, it is distinctly a Christian institution in which the spiritual as well as the intellectual element is stressed. We must stand loyally behind it with our prayers, patronage, and money." Offers The Best. Dr. Zeno Wall, pastor of First Baptist church, Shelby: "The citizenship of this section is always found in the vanguard of every worthwhile movement, prohibition, good roads, improved farms, strong banks, dairying, manufacturing, electrically lighted modern homes, hospitals, schools, and capable leadership. In the next twenty-five years we shall see a good hospital in every county and a standard junior college in every progressive section, for the reason that the junior college is an American institution, offering the best training at the lowest figures. The junior college, therefore, has come to stay. Our people of this section are to be congratulated on their foresight in establishing a standard junior college in the heart of the Piedmont. We show our wisdom when we rally to the school. It claims the cordial support of all." A Crisis Helps. Mr. Lee B. Weathers, editor of The Cleveland Star, says: "Boiling Springs junior college is going through a crisis, but all schools have experienced such. That's what makes great institutions, just as trials and hardships develop human character. Boiling Springs junior college has a place in the life of Piedmont Carolina—an indispensable place. It is economy to have such an institution in our midst where parents of low and moderate means may give their children the benefit of an education at a nominal cost. I believe Boiling Springs gives more education for the cost than any similar institution in North Carolina. And best of all it is a Christian college where the principles of right living are taught and inculcated in the minds and hearts of our youth." The Best Husbands. (From The Monroe Enquirer.) Somebody has started a country-wide argument by asserting that farmers make the best husbands. Figures quoted by Wheeler McMullen, associate editor of the Country Home, a national farm publication, show that while 15 out of every 100 city marriages end in the divorce court, only seven out of every 100 farm marriages are dissolved by the judge. From that display of statistics the average women may readily deduce that the surest way to have a permanent marriage is to say "yes" to a farmer.

Highs Blow Up In Losing To Charlotte; Forest City Here Next Tuesday For Big Contest

Local Team Cracks In Ninth Inning, Mayhew Finds Batting Eye. The next big game at the Shelby high park is too be played Tuesday afternoon when the strong Forest City club comes here determined to defeat the 1936 champions. Forest City has a team that has a brilliant chance of winning the state title. Today the Morrismen are playing Lowell Saturday they meet Boiling Springs college there. That Fatal Ninth. A ninth inning rally founded on a blow-up of the Shelby team gave Charlotte three runs here yesterday afternoon to defeat the locals 6 to 3. The score was tied at the beginning of the ninth. Mulligan, for Charlotte, hit a home run over the left field wall in the fifth in addition to staging a fine pitching exhibition. Mayhew, Barrett and Harrill were the only Shelby players who could connect with his offerings. As it was the Shelby team played good ball up to their shoulders but lost the game on mental blunders and four outright errors. Peters, Shelby hurler, worked a good game but could not overcome the weak support given him by his teammates. Barrett, playing in the outfield for the first time, misjudged two fly balls that featured in the Charlotte runs, and in the ninth Wilson held the ball too long on a throw to home plate which gave Charlotte a run and renewed the last inning rally when it should easily have been the third out. Despite their defeat the local team displayed considerable improvement and it should be remembered that the Charlotte club is one of the strongest, heavy-hitting outfits seen here in some time. The Shelby line-up was juggled a bit and gave indications of developing into a smooth working outfit once Barrett gets adjusted to snagging line drives. Devine working at third base added strength to the infield. The greatest improvement, however, was the return of Mayhew to his old-time form. He was blasting the ball to all corners of the lots and fielding brilliantly.
