NEED

He came a little bewildered to her breast; Searching he came, asking surcease from fears. And found peace at last, at long last—rest And safety and forgetfulness of tears. He took beneath her dark hair darker solace. And from her lips he drew a slow sure fire. He made of her eyes his sorrow's hiding place. And loneliness lay quiet under desire.

But if from the silence of her breast he sought Her slender restless hands, all peace was shattered. Watching their troubled moving he grew distraught. And their strange white secretness was all that mattered.

He would turn back to her still face wondering, pleading— Why were her hands so lonely? What were they needing? —By Sarah Litsey.

Thayer-Blanton Wedding In Beautiful Event.

A wedding which centers the interest of state society took place here on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the First Baptist church when Miss Caroline Blanton became the bride of Mr. Sherman Rand Thayer, of Boston, Mass., in a ceremony of unusual beauty and distinction. Dr. Zeno Wall, the bride's pastor, officiated, being assisted by Rev. Lucius H. Thayer, father of the groom. Banked evergreens were used as a background in the church decorations, in front of which an effective arrangement of bridal wreath spirea and tall white tapers was used.

The wedding music was furnished by Mrs. H. S. Plaster at the organ and Miss Minnie Eddins Roberts, cousin of the bride, as soloist. Mrs. Plaster wore an afternoon dress of eggshell lace and hat of the same shade with which she used a shoulder bouquet of pink roses, and Miss Roberts wore a frock of green lace with green horsehair braid hat, with which she used yellow roses. Mrs. Plaster opened the musical program by playing "Liljestraum," by Liszt, after which Miss Roberts sang "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice," by Saint-Saens and "Until" by Wilfrid Sanderson. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was used as a processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march as a recessional. "Nocturne," by Chopin was softly played during the ceremony.

The ushers entered first and took their places; they were: Mr. Ellsworth Thayer, of West Newton, Mass., brother of the groom; Mr. Ted Green, of New Britain, Conn., the groom's brother-in-law; Mr. Charles S. Moore, of Englewood, N. J., and Mr. Richard K. Edwards, of Newton, Mass. The next to enter were the junior bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Lineberger, Miss Dorothy Ann Beattie and Miss Betty Chapman, both of Greenville, S. C., and Miss Betty Oates, of Asheville, the three latter are cousins of the bride. They were followed by Miss Mary Louise Wadsworth, of Charlotte, Miss Jean Watts, of Lynchburg, Va., and Miss Dora Little, of Wadesboro, acting as bridesmaids. The bridesmaids wore frocks of baby blue, eyelid embroidered batiste over blue taffeta, made on quaint, old-fashioned lines, with which they wore blue lace mits, blue horsehair braid hats with a pink rose beneath the brim, and carried old-fashioned nosegays having pink ribbon showers. The costumes of the junior bridesmaids were duplicates, in miniature, of those worn by the bridesmaids. Following the bridesmaids Mrs. W. A. Thompson, of Little Rock, Ark., only sister of the bride, entered as dame of honor. Miss Vera Webb Oates, of Charlotte, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor, immediately preceded the bride to the altar. The dresses of the dame-of-honor and the maid-of-honor were of pink eyelid-embroidered batiste over pink taffeta, with which they wore pink lace mits, hats of pink horsehair braid and carried old-fashioned nosegays with blue ribbon showers.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Mr. George Blanton, and was met at the altar by the groom, accompanied by his best man, Mr. Samuel M. Cameron, of Greenfield, Mass. She presented an exquisite picture wearing her mother's wedding gown of silk net, trimmed with bands of satin ribbon. She wore a simple veil of tulle, arranged with face veil, and caught to her hair cap-fashion by the orange blossoms which have been worn by the brides in her family for several generations. They were first used by her great aunt in 1871. Mrs. Thayer is the twenty-fourth bride to have worn them. She carried a large shower bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Thayer is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Blanton and a niece of Mr. C. C. Blanton. She possesses unusual qualities of personality and is one of the state's most attractive and popular young girls. She received her education at Converse college, Spartanburg, S. C., and Smith college, Northampton, Mass., where she was graduated in 1929. She has travelled abroad, and during a part of the past year was an instructor at Knox school in Cooperstown, N. Y.

The groom is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Lucius H. Thayer, of Boston, Mass., and Dublin, N. H. He was graduated from Phillips Exeter academy in 1922, Amherst college in 1926, where he was a member of Psi Upsilon fraternity, and from Harvard school of business in 1929. Since that time he has been connected with the Second National Bank of Boston.

Immediately after the wedding reception Mr. and Mrs. Thayer left for an extended wedding trip to Bermuda. Mrs. Thayer wore a travelling costume of navy blue chomg with shaved lamb collar and cream blouse, with which she wore navy blue accessories. Upon their return from the wedding tour they will be at home on Ripley Road, Cohasset, Mass.

A formal reception was held at the bride's home immediately after the wedding. The receiving line was headed by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Blanton, the latter wearing a becoming afternoon frock of peach lace with which she wore a large peach horsehair braid hat and a shoulder corsage of orchids. Beside them stood the bride and groom, and next to them were the groom's parents, Mrs. Lucius H. Thayer, with the Rev. Mr. Thayer. The groom's mother wore an afternoon gown of grey and pink figured chiffon with a shoulder corsage of pink roses. Others in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Thompson, Miss Vera Webb Oates, Mr. Samuel M. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Green, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Thayer, Miss Mary Louise Wadsworth, Miss Jean Watts, Miss Dora Little, Miss Minnie Eddins Roberts, Mr. Charles S. Moore, Mr. Richard K. Edwards and Misses Nancy Lineberger, Betty Oates, Betty Chapman and Dorothy Ann Beattie.

The lovely home was decorated for the occasion with quantities of spring flowers, with a color note of pink and white being carried out. Those assisting in receiving and entertaining were: Mrs. J. R. Oates, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oates, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Rorison, and Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Blanton, of Asheville; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Beattie and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chapman, of Greenville, S. Smith, of Bristol, Tenn. An ice and sweet course was served, the color note of pink and white being carried out in the refreshments.
