RUN-DOWN and WEAK

"I began taking Cardui when in a weakened, run-down condition," writes Mrs. F. S. Perrit, of Wesson, Miss. "I took one bottle, and I seemed to improve so much that I sent for six bottles. After I had taken the six bottles, I seemed entirely well."

Take CARDUI Helps Women to Health

his wife to the Orient. He "neglected" even to mention the contemplated journey to his distinguished father-in-law, Senator Dwight Morrow of New Jersey, and while newspaper presses were rolling out the story of the venture he was spending an afternoon in the air with wife and "We."

Carefully Planned. This did not mean, however, that he had not taken stock of the perils of the journey, planned carefully for special pontoons and other equipment for his plane and pored over maps and charts in "family conference."

The new adventure is almost a pioneering one, the army round-the-world fliers of 1925 being the only others who have taken the westerly course from the United States to the Orient.

Their journey was made earlier in the season, in April and May. They made their way step by step from Seattle through fog, rain, snow squalls, sleet, headwinds and storms.

Newspapers Revive American Business
Liggett and Myers Tobacco Co. Running Campaign to Reach Fifty Million People.

New York, June 12.—"Newspaper advertising, which ranks as a moulder of public opinion second only to news and editorials, can play an important part in reviving business confidence," says a statement issued today by the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. manufacturers of Chesterfield cigarettes, in connection with the opening of an advertising campaign in 1930 papers throughout the United States.

Under the slogan "Good—they've got to be good!" each advertisement in the series deals with a different class of industrial or professional worker. Among the interesting facts and figures presented are the following:

To operate the railroads of the country requires 1,215,800 men a large proportion of who are obliged to sacrifice many of the joys and comforts of home life.

At the top of the gong more than half a million firemen are ready to rescue life and property. Based upon government census reports and other sources of information, the Liggett & Myers company estimates the number of persons engaged in other occupations, to which this series pays tribute, as follows: Policemen, 133,000; Druggists and pharmacists, 110,000; steel and iron workers, 393,006; stenographers and typists, 655,000; nurses, 125,546; physicians, 157,503; licensed air pilots, 15,305; telegraph operators, 7,434; theatrical and motion picture actors and other employes, 342,000; newspaper workers, 119,399; attorneys-at-law, 79,434; saleswomen in retail stores, 413,688.

An exchange wants to know what United States has to worry about when it has over $15,000,000,000 invested abroad, to which the Lexington Herald replies, "That's the answer." And it will be difficult to think of a better one.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Give Timely Hints For Summer Gardens

Successive Plantings of Beans, Corn And Other Garden Crops Is Urged.

Successive plantings of snap beans, corn and other vegetable crops to keep the garden supplying sufficient food for the table during the late summer is advocated by E. B. Morrow, extension horticulturist at State college, who urges the year around garden as a timely insurance measure in these days of limited cash.

Mr. Morrow first suggests that the old strawberries be barred off to a narrow row of plants and crop kept cultivated so that new runner plants may form on both sides of the old row. Plants formed during June, July and August will produce twice as many berries as those formed during September and October.

A second suggestion is to make vine cuttings of sweet potatoes. Vine cuttings are usually free from disease. Higher yields of good quality roots are secured when these plants are set as close as 12 inches apart in the row. Tomato plants should also be set for the late summer crop. Put the roots deep into the soil so plenty of moisture may be available. Seed should be planted now for the late crop of tomatoes.

Early maturing corn varieties may be planted as late as ten weeks before the usual date for killing frost with fair assurance of a crop of ears. Main crop varieties should have three months. However, the corn may be hurried along with nitrogen fertilizer.

Mr. Morrow advises planting snap beans every three weeks in order to keep a full supply of fresh, tender snaps. Protection from the bean beetle may be secured by spraying or dusting with magnesium arsenate as soon as adult beetles are found. To keep leaf blight under control, Mr. Morrow says to spray the cantaloupe, cucumber and watermelon crops with Bordeaux mixture. Two or three applications will give reasonable control.

Lail Found Guilty Of Burke Killing

Morganton, June 15.—Shortly after 4 o'clock Friday afternoon Judge Clement sentenced Bill Lail, convicted of the murder of Deputy Sheriff Elmore Wilson, to imprisonment in the state prison for not more than 25 years nor less than 20 years. The jury had returned a verdict of second degree murder at the opening of court Friday morning.

W. T. Morgan, of the defense council, a Marion attorney, made a powerful plea for the convicted man, who is a resident McDowell county, pleading for the minimum sentence and reviewing the contentions of the defense that Lail shot the officer in self defense when he fled from the still. Judge Clement, evidently in accord with the jury's verdict, stated briefly that the defense could not explain away the fact that Lail went to the still armed and with the evident intention of shooting it out with any officer who interfered with his illicit business.
