Ramblin' Bill To Hospital; Desires To Be Buried Here

If Worst Comes to Worst He Hopes To Return at Last To Native County.

To the Editor: If its not asking too much, have your circulation man mail my Star to me at the following address until further notice:

W. B. Williamson, U. S. Gov't Hosp. Fort Whipple, Ariz. As some wise looking doctors have been looking over me lately and decided that I will have to submit my carcass for another thorough going over where they use all such crude instruments as saws, files and probes, etc. The old heart just got a stubborn spell and refused to act in a manner becoming to a good heart, and they have decided that the best thing that Ramblin' Bill can do during these hot summer months is to repose peacefully in among the pines at or near Prescott, Arizona as a guest of Uncle Sam.

Yesterday I thought I was O. K., today I'm en route to a hospital, the first time in years, but one can never tell, and perhaps I'll get to write my own obituary yet. In case my body should come back to North Carolina some of these days, I want to be buried somewhere in Cleveland county atop a little knoll where the gentle breeze will rustle leaves over head, and I trust that some kind soul back there will carve on a tree near by or chisel on some rock the following: "Here Lies Ramblin' Bill, He Rambled All Around; He Lived While He Lived and Died When He Died," and I guess there will be enough insurance to pay for the plot and to hire some kind undertaker to plant me in a spot like that. But I believe that I will cheat the undertaker this time, as I have cheated him in the past occasions. Being in a government hospital, for a few months is not so bad in itself.

Cuts Compensation. The nurses are fairly good looking and the doctor will not cut off your leg unless you happen to go to sleep during their working hours. Once I went to sleep in one and waked up minus my tonsils and adenoids. Another time they cut of my compensation, which hurt worse than the

Supreme Court To Pass On Tax And Bond Issues

Court To Decide Whether Bonds Are For Special Or General Purposes. Raleigh, June 22.—The North Carolina Supreme court has before it the first constitutional problem arising from the actions of the 1931 session of the general assembly and one of importance to many of the 100 counties and 432 municipalities in the State. Two test cases are before the court, one from Duplin, the other from Durham county, and were heard by the court last Saturday, in order that the problem might be disposed of as soon as possible.

Writes With Toes. If your readers do not hear from me regularly for the next few months or weeks, you will know that I am pretty sick, or else have submitted myself to the cutting process and do not have the use of my right hand or toes, because I can write some with my toes, that is by inserting a pencil between the index toe and big toe of my right foot. Heres hoping that the next horned load makes the trip all right and he decides to stay with you because we do not want any more fatalities, the horned load population is becoming more scarce every year, and I don't know just what we would do should they become extinct, like the Hoover Democrats in Texas, who are now eating hockeak and molasses for having voted for Hoover, when they could have been eating cake and honey had they voted right. Let's hope it learns them a lesson, they will long remember.

Sister Of Curtis Prepares For 1932

Mrs. Gann Prepares For Speech-making in 1932 Presidential Race.

Washington—Mrs. Edward E. (Dolly) Gann is quietly swinging in to the political campaign for 1932. Vice-President Curtis' sister is finding her peaceful summer days in her own spacious home are interrupted occasionally by invitations to make speeches. And though she claims she is not a "speech maker," rarely does Mrs. Gann decline.

She addressed the young Republicans at their recent conference here, and was enthusiastically received by the college boys and girls. It was not entirely a new experience for her. During her brother's campaign for the senate she gave numerous talks in their home town, in Topeka, appearing before women's clubs and other organizations. She made short speeches in several eastern cities in the Republican campaign of 1928, too, when he was running for vice-president.

"Whether a woman can make an eloquent speech or not, she should say a few words if called upon, just to show where she stands," says Mrs. Gann. "She can at least ally herself with good government, and show that she does by standing up and saying so."

Mr. and Mrs. Gann recently moved from their 10-room suite in the Mayflower hotel to their home in Cleveland Park, a suburb of the capitol. Mrs. Gann enjoys her front porch with the roses blooming in the yard, and the visits of old friends who occasionally drop in for tea.

Raleigh, June 24.—Special school districts may be abolished if a majority of the qualified or registered voters cast ballots against the local tax, but arrangements must be made for a local levy to continue to carry the district's debt service, Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt ruled yesterday.

Preserving Fruits, Vegetables To Aid Living This Winter Rocky Mt. Telegram. With very little labor dozens of cans of fruits and berries and various garden vegetables can be preserved now for consumption this winter. Soon peaches and apples will be ripe and they can be preserved for delicious pies this winter. Apples, whether you believe it or not, are good for more than cider.

Western North Carolina farm women, following a usual practice, will can sufficient fruits and vegetables and berries during the summer to supply them this winter. There will be preserves and jam and jelly for the winter. Beans and corn and tomatoes and beets and watermelon rind and pickles can be canned or the farm, "put up" in glass jars, thus to assure a steadier income for the farm.

We can remember when children were expected to pick berries for their mothers to preserve. The memory of pies in mid-winter, pies made from home grown wheat and home picked berries, linger on.

This is one of the side issues of farming that cannot be neglected. If a housewife in the past has neglected this phase of her work, home demonstration agents in Nash and Watauga counties are willing to furnish instructions and to help in the process. Governor Gardner advocated this plan in his radio address and long practice in certain sections of the state where hundreds of jars are found packed away in cellars of almost every farm house when winter comes proves it feasible. It is simply one of the loose ends of farming that should be gathered up. The housewife in the city who can vegetables and fruit, that can be purchased inexpensively, will be able to save large amounts in her annual grocery bill.

Mothers Avoid Colitis

It is harmless and non-narcotic but a relief for Dysentery, and Diarrhea and digestive disorders due to upset stomach and bowels. It may be obtained in separate formulae, for adults 75c or for children 60c at all drug stores. Keep it ready for emergencies.
