TWO POETS

If in the hearts of poets now alive Dead poets live and breathe beyond the tomb,
Within my heart two poets live and strive.
Ronsard is one, who knew the excellent
Briefness of life, the worth of beau-
ty's bloom:
He of all poets knew what living meant.

The other, that dead countryman of mine,
Who wrote the Nymphs and Nymphidia,
Flirting with elves and all the fairy
line,
And something of the Gallic grace
he had,
A sportive spirit, yet to his idea
Forever faithful, and forever sad.
—Charles Graves, in London Observer.

State Is Running Into A Big Deficit

Appropriations For Biennium $3,436,000 More Than Anticipated Revenue, Says.

Raleigh, June 25.—Appropriations for the coming biennium, 1931-33, are $3,436,000 more than anticipated revenue, according to the general outline of the state's fiscal program issued today in a budget memorandum to all state departments and institutions.

An almost certain deficit of $3,700,000 faces the state at the end of the biennium, the statement said.

Saying that its figure was at least $1,000,000 too high, the bureau estimated the state would receive $27,513,874 the first year of the biennium.

The total obligations for the first year aggregate $29,239,041, or $1,825,139 in excess of anticipated revenue.

"1900 MILES— AND STILL GOING STRONG"

Read What A Shelby Man Says About "CHAMOCO" Motor Oil:

Mr. J. C. Champion,
Shelby, N. C.

Dear Sir:

Before starting on my recent trip to Detroit, driving a Studebaker Straight Eight Sedan of '29 Model, I had same filled with your "Chamoco" Oil.

I went North by way of Kentucky and Ohio, returning through Pennsylvania and Virginia, travelling in all 1900 miles. The oil has not been drained and is said by disinterested service men to be still in very good condition.

I consider this exceptionally good results and more so when it is considered that I travelled over both the Blue Ridge and the Alleghany mountains where in many long up hill pulls the motor remained cool and in perfect operating condition all the time.

This experience proves to me you have in "Chamoco" Oil an oil of high lubricating quality and strong staying power.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) J. P. Cunningham,
