Cotton Acreage Cut 10 Per Cent

Carl Williams Says Reduction Good Sign South is Cooperating With Board.

Washington, July 9.—Southern cotton farmers, faced by low prices and heavy surpluses, have cut this year's acreage 10 per cent under 1936 plantings.

The agricultural department today estimated the area under cultivation on July 1 at 41,491,000 acres as compared with 46,078,000 last year. This, the smallest acreage planted since 1923, is 11.8 per cent less than 1929 planting and 14.9 below the record acreage of 1926.

Private estimators had foreseen a somewhat greater reduction, New Orleans dispatches said, and cotton declined nearly $2.95 a bale after the government report was issued.

Carl Williams, cotton member of the Farm Board, said the reduction "is a good sign southern farmers, planters, bankers, and land owners are beginning to co-operate with the Farm Board. It is only beginning to be sure, but they can't be expected to go all the way the first year."
