

Stimson Welcomed in Rome

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson (center), arriving in Rome to urge disarmament and help straighten out economic ills of Europe, was cordially welcomed to Italy by Signor Grandi (right), Foreign Minister, and the American Ambassador, Mr. Garrett (left). Mr. Stimson after a conference with Premier Mussolini, in which the latter pledged his support of the U. S. in furthering disarmament, journeyed to Paris to help untangle the financial crisis in which Germany finds herself.

Rutherford Folks
To Discuss Taxes

Rutherfordton, July 24.—O. R. Coffield, representative from Rutherford County in the General Assembly has called a mass meeting of the taxpayers of Rutherford County to meet in the courthouse here, Monday, August 3, at 10 A. M. to discuss the proposed county tax rate, which has been estimated to be $1.16 on each $100 worth of taxable property, as compared to $1.75 last year.

The rate was boosted 54 cents last year, or from $1.21 to $1.75 due to loss of funds in the defunct banks of the county in February 1930, while the estimated rate is 57 cents lower than that of last year, the advocates of lower taxes claim that a 57 cents reduction is not enough. A large crowd is expected to attend.

Have Had Reaper
A Hundred Years

Its Invention Has Abolished the Danger of World Famine and Given Us World Peace.

They are celebrating the 100th year of the invention of the reaper. It is a matter of interest that the instrument which made world wide famine impossible, has, on the other hand, been one of the chief factors in producing a world-wide famine by giving several countries tremendous surpluses of wheat.

In a Virginia wheat field in July, 1831, Cyrus Hall McCormick looked back on the first strip of grain ever successfully cut with a mechanical reaper. That first clean swathe of wheat served notice on the world that the era of mechanized agriculture had dawned.

It also indicated to the small group of seymen who had gathered to watch the experiment that their occupation of swinging a scythe and cradle soon was to become a lost art; that the traditional method of grain harvesting, handed down from the ancients, would be swept aside and agricultural methods and extend of acreage revolutionized.

McCormick patented his reaper three years later, but did not begin marketing it until 1840. A steady stream of improvements were added from the first, making for increased efficiency and practicability.

Accreage of grain had been increased so much by 1861 that Secretary Stanton, head of the War Department in President Lincoln's cabinet, declared that McCormick's invention was of untold value to the northern cause during the Civil War.

Economists have credited the reaper with even greater service to humanity, declaring that it has banished forever the fear of a world-wide food shortage, a fear that had existed since Biblical times. Now, far from fearing a shortage of grain, the nations are troubled with grain surpluses.

The surpluses are due, economists say, to the wide use of motorized implements. McCormick's reaper was capable of only eight or 10 acres of grain a day. After that, there still remained the problem of threshing. Today huge combines used in the great grain belts of America harvest and thresh 30 to 40 acres a day.
