

Gridiron Gossip

The football outlook at Shelby High this year was not encouraging when training first started and it hasn't improved any. There was a shortage of experienced gridders to start with and since that time other bad breaks have beset the paths of the coaches.

H. A. Logan, center, whose leg was broken last year, was not permitted to play again this year, but his brother, Evans, a 200-pound husky, was counted upon to fill in at one guard or tackle. Now it has been decided that it is best for him not to play. Another line gap, Max Putnam in early training had been pulled from his tackle berth and worked as a fullback, thus leaving another hole in the forward wall. When school got going this week there seemed to be some difficulty about Max's scholastic work and it isn't certain that he will play. If he doesn't, there will be no weight at all in the ball carrying department.

Barrett, R. K. Wilson, Connor and James appear to be good prospects, but all are light and there isn't a single back built along the lines necessary for line-crashing. Barrett is a hard plunger with plenty of the inner quality necessary for ramming a line, but a heavy forward wall could shake him off due to his lack of size. Speed will be the lone threat Coach Casey Morris can shoot at the opposition as the backfield prospects line up now. If "Bear" Huffman can manage to get his signals straightened out he might be of value in the backfield as a punter and plunger. He's the boy who a few years ago kicked a football all over the field with his bare feet.

The boys on the squad seem to realize that they are shy of experienced performers and as far as weight goes cannot compare with some of the husky eleven's Shelby has had in the past. As a result they are working hard, determined to make the most of what they do have, and if any of the breaks come their way, the team should be able to give a pretty good account of itself. The outfit faces a stiff schedule with strong teams and the lack of reserve strength will be the biggest weakness.

What of the college grid outlook? Will Georgia or Vandy win Southern honors? What will Notre Dame be without Knute Rockne? Will Wallace Wade cop a State title his first year at Duke, or will Carolina carry off the Championship again? All around the town, as a little more fall nip can be felt in the atmosphere, those questions are being asked.

Wade keeps saying he doesn't have much down to Duke. Maybe it seems that way to him after those great, gigantic eleven's at Alabama. But as we know football in North Carolina the line he has at Duke is one of the tightest in State grid history. The Carolina-Duke game will, of course, be the big Tar Heel clash of the year. We're not saying now, but likely not later, who will win, but the problem will be this: If the Duke line can crash through and stop Johnny Branch and Rip Slusser often enough, Duke will win; but if the underslung Branch manages to get going with a few punt returns and if speedster Slusser can get around the ends a few times with his hula-hula, Carolina will win. If—yeah!

Put this down: Watch Wake Forest! That hefty line is pretty well back and some flashy ball-toting behind it may cause a few upsets. Any college would be proud of a pair of tackles like those men—mountains, Webb and Williams.

Davidson will have a typical Davidson eleven, but little reserve strength. Lack of good substitutes has always been a handicap to the Wildcats, N. C. State's team is pretty much a question mark. Our idea, however, is that Clipper Smith, a Notre Dame All-American and Frank Reese will put out the best eleven the Raleigh school has had since the days of Jack McDowell.

Just now football fans hereabouts are all steamed up over the Duke-S. C. clash at Columbia on Sept. 26. A score or more Shelby fans plan to see the game. Billy Laval has the best prospective team South Carolina has had in year. The Duke team which beat Navy and Villanova last year with Wade directing it is considered one of the strongest outfits in the South. As a result many dopsters consider the outcome a toss-up. If Wade were not at Duke, our pick would be South Carolina, but it is hard to tell just how much Wade can mean to an eleven. His line will be to be pretty good to keep that big South Carolina line from opening up a few holes for Earl Clary, the Gaffney Ghost, and his pals—and give that Clary a hole and it's just too bad. But maybe Wade's line will be that good. Go see.

WE'LL BE POOLED—

If Johnny Branch doesn't make the All-Southern.

If Ralph Gardner doesn't make the fresh eleven at Carolina and Milky Gold the fresh team at Wake Forest.

If Wake Forest doesn't give Duke and Carolina a battle for the Big Five honors.

If "Purp" Barrett doesn't bring the fans milling out to see him stick his head in lines opposing Shelby High.

Second Game Of Series Saturday For City Title

The second game of the city championship series for Shelby will be played at the city park tomorrow, Saturday, afternoon at 3:30 between the Shelby mill and Cleveland Cloth mill clubs.

In the first game last Saturday the Shelby mill won 6 to 4.

Both clubs hope to take tomorrow's game and there is much interest in the contest.

Cotton Comment; And J "N." Bailey

Atlanta, Sept. 9.—H. Lane Young, chairman of the agricultural commission of the American Bankers association and vice president of the Citizens and Southern National bank of Atlanta, said that proposed cotton acreage legislation in the south offers no benefit and promises much harm.

He pictured great distress in business dependent on cotton if none of the staple were produced in 1932.

South Shelby Opens School With 435

Interesting Exercises Are Held With Number of Visitors Present.

Marked by interesting exercises and an enrollment of 435 the 1931-32 session of the South Shelby school opened auspiciously. Miss Selma Webb, principal of the school presided and introduced the speakers. Rev. W. R. Jenkins pastor of the LaFayette street Methodist church conducted the devotional exercises. Short talks were made by Rev. L. L. Jessup, president of the P. T. A.; Mr. Thad Ford, treasurer of the school board; Supt. B. L. Smith, Mr. Arthur Benoy and Mr. C. H. Reinhardt, Mayor S. A. McMurry and Mr. C. A. Morrison were also present. The Wednesday morning exercises were featured by a beautiful selection "O' Carolina" sung by Mrs. Ben Suttle new faculty member. Many friends and patrons were present at this first formal chapel program. There is an increase in enrollment over that of last year at the same date and with new students coming in daily indications are very encouraging for the best year in the history of the school.

Rutherford Native Is Killed In Texas

Receive No Details Of Auto Accident Near San Angelo.

Rutherford, Sept. 11.—The many friends in this section were grieved to learn that Mr. Landy W. Walker of San Angelo, Tex., was killed in an automobile accident near the Texas city Wednesday morning. Mrs. John P. Beam, of this city, is a sister of the deceased. No details of the wreck were given. He will be buried there.

He was born and reared near Rutherford and went to Texas about six years ago. He was a Coca Cola manufacturer and recently sold that business and bought a sheep ranch of from 3,500 to 4,000 head. He formerly lived in Spartanburg before moving to Texas.

He is about 50 years old and leaves a widow, three sisters, Mrs. John P. Beam, Rutherford; Mrs. Summie Trout, near Forest City; and Miss Mattie Walker at the home place, also two brothers survive, Reuben Walker, Columbia, and Furman Walker at the home place.

Mrs. Walker was a native of Spartanburg county.

Mr. Walker was a loyal church member and is well known in this section.

An Old Pal Back on Job

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, is shown with his faithful trainer of many years, Jerry Luvadis, at Dempsey's training camp at Reno, Nevada, where Jack is getting back into shape, evidently for a comeback. It was little Jerry (the Greek) who gave Dempsey orders in his championship days, and it's Jerry who is again bossing the big fellow. Dempsey always has been the champ to Jerry.

Flim-Flam Artist Works Rutherford

Rutherford, Sept. 11.—A man who registered at the Central hotel here Saturday night as John Smith, Corinth, Miss., is wanted here by several local firms for false pretense, it was learned today. He told a number of local cafes and stores that he was representing the American Steel corporation and was going to put a 23-foot high steel tower on top of a building in the center of town and would himself stay atop for 21 days. He solicited large banners or ads. to be placed on the tower at 75 cents each for the 21 days and agreed to call out the name of the firm each day. He further stated that his "buddle" would be along Sunday to help him. He secured a number of ads cash in advance and left town early Sunday morning for Spartanburg, S. C., via bus without paying his hotel bill.

S. C. Legislature To Meet Monday

the cotton growing states, by reason of an estimated cotton crop of more than 15,000,000 bales, and a surplus brought over from last year of 9,000,000 bales, bearing down the price of cotton to a ruinous level and creating a situation which demands the best thought and every effort of all the people and of the organized forces of the state government in seeking its relief.

He cites the efforts of Texas and Louisiana, and recalls that farmers of South Carolina "emphatically placed themselves upon record in 37 of the 46 counties as favoring the convening of the general assembly.

He also referred to the expression of the legislators who are willing to "confine an extra session of not exceeding days to the one pressing demand for some action in the cotton situation and to keep the expenses of such session within the narrowest possible limit."

"The emergency," the proclamation says, "is acute and only by immediate action is there hope for a greater price for the present crop, necessary to prevent economic disaster and probably actual suffering."
