

Dainty Emily To Risk Life At Fair Here

A splendid aerial number at the Cleveland County fair will be presented by Dainty Emily, whose exploits represent the quintessence of graceful artistry and supreme daring. High up in the air on her precarious "cloud swing" Dainty Emily swings nonchalantly, one moment reclining easily on the slender rope, the next moment hurtling through space violently in a thrilling foot-drop breakaway that makes the spectators literally gasp in amazement. Yet with all her daring drops, Dainty Emily always retains her poise, her ever-ready smile always to the fore. There are very few women in the gymnastic profession who could attempt to class with her for beauty of face, form and performance.

Slight Increase In Retail Food Prices

Advance of One-Half of One Per Cent Indicated in Thirty Day Period.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Retail food and wholesale commodity prices climbed upward between July 15 and September 1. The bureau of labor statistics announces today retail prices rose slightly over one-half of one per cent between July 15 and August 15, while the average price of 550 wholesale commodities was 3 per cent higher for August than July. Taking July, 1931, as 100, retail prices on August 15 price increases were reported as follows: Fresh eggs, 12 percent; butter, 9; cabbage, 8; pork chops, 5; sugar, 2; sirloin steak, round steak, rib roast; cheese, pork and beans and tea, 1; and hens less than one-half of one per cent.

Price decreases were reported in 21 articles, onions showing the greater drop, 12 per cent, and flour and bananas, eight per cent. The wholesale index for the month, taking 1926 as 100, was 70.2 as compared with 69.8 in July and 64 in August, 1930.

Farm products as a group were two per cent lower than in July. The bureau noted decided decreases in corn, oats, cotton and hay with smaller declines for rye, sheep, lambs, light hogs, onions and potatoes. Increases were shown for sirloin steak, round steak, rib roast; cheese, pork and beans and tea, 1; and hens less than one-half of one per cent.

Ford's Garden Plan Meets Objections

Baraga, Mich.—Henry Ford's "no garden, no job" edict, recently issued to family men employed in his automobile plants, is meeting with opposition from outside sources.

Farmers throughout the upper peninsula of Michigan began raising a storm of protest yesterday, claiming enforcement of the order would impoverish them. The Baraga Grange, leading in the protest, passed a resolution against the plan and announced that copies would be sent to every subordinate grange in Michigan, as well as to the State Grange. The resolution urged that means be taken to have Ford's order rescinded or modified.

There are some people who don't believe in buying what they need in Shelby although they are anxious to sell what they have to the people here.

"Roosevelt has proven he is a wet," said the bishop. "I absolutely will not support him if he is nominated. I would say as much as I could against him. I would do all I could to help defeat any wet I am rather a good Democrat, but if a wet runs, and Hoover runs, I will support Hoover, unless he changes his prohibition stand."

Bishop Cannon, now under investigation by a senate committee on the disposal of campaign funds which he collected in the 1928 fight against Alfred E. Smith, returned from Europe on the Mauretania.

Boy Of 11 Kills Girl Over Paper

Hendersonville.—Because a playmate testified he had heard Franklyn Beddingfield, 11, threaten to kill Louise Gilbreath, 14, when she refused to lend him notebook paper in school, the Beddingfield lad faces a term in Jackson Training school.

A few hours after the alleged threat, Louise was killed by a bullet from Beddingfield's small calibre.

Beddingfield told Judge J. P. Fletcher, in juvenile court, the shooting was accidental. He denied he had ever threatened the girl.

Charles McCraw, 9, was the only child to testify at a summary hearing that Beddingfield had made the threat. Others said they had not heard the statement.

J. T. Beddingfield, father of the lad, has appealed to a superior court judge. Under Judge Fletcher's decision, young Beddingfield would remain at Jackson Training school until released by officials there. Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Gilbreath are parents of the slain girl.

Crop Report Issued On Cotton In N. C.

Larger Yield Per Acre, But Fewer Number of Bales, Smallest Crop Since 1917.

The 1931 cotton crop indicated for North Carolina on September 1st was 715,000 (500 pounds gross weight), bales, according to the report by the United States department of agriculture, released September 8th. This indication is 60,000 bales less than the 1930 crop and 2,000 bales more than was estimated a month ago. The forecast is based on a condition estimate of 77 per cent of normal on September 1st, as compared with 67 per cent on this date last year and a past ten-year average condition of 68 per cent on September 1st.

The yield per acre indicated for the state by the condition, allowing for prospective weevil damage, is 255 pounds (line). This is 30 lbs. more than was harvested last year, and about 8 pounds above the past ten year average yield.

The weevil damage in the state apparent on September 1st is severe in many of the eastern cotton counties and rainy weather occurring during August has been rather favorable for further damage from this source. In the southern Piedmont counties weevils have not been so destructive as they were last year, although considerable evidence of damage is to be found there. The weevil infestation was somewhat held in check by favorable dry conditions prior to August, but practically all small bolls and squares on plants on September 1st were either damaged or subject to destruction before time to mature. A possible abandonment of 1.5 percent of the acreage under cultivation was allowed, which leaves 1,338,000 acres in the state for harvest.

The crop indicated for the state is the smallest since 1917 and is the combined result of the 18 per cent decrease in area and the destructive factors such as weevils and weather. Very little damage from disease is noticeable this season, and most of the season has been favorable for the crop.

Bees Fly 75,000 Miles For Honey

St. Louis.—A one pound square of honey nominally sells for 25 cents. Bees fly between 50,000 and 75,000 miles to gather that amount, according to Dr. William C. Wilson, on whose three farms 6,000,000 bees dwell.

Other interesting facts revealed by Wilson:

The best honey is obtained when bees have to fly from one-half to one mile for the nectar.

A queen bee "at her best" lays from 1,800 to 2,400 eggs a day.

The eggs she deposits in 24 hours weigh more than she does.

A bee often will fly from six to eight miles for one drop of nectar. A bee will sting to protect her, but it's hard to pick a scrap when she is away.

Her Mistake

"How did you like those Chinese back-scratchers I brought you?" "Is that what they were? Chinese back-scratchers? My wife's been making me eat salad with them."
