DePriest Returns To New York City

Considers People Here More Optimistic In Depression Than Elsewhere.

Mr. Hudson DePriest left yesterday for his home in New York City. He has offices at 246 Fifth Ave., within five blocks of the great Empire State building. He has been for seven or eight years engaged in newspaper circulation promotion and operates in all of the East from New England to Florida.

Speaking of his visit to North Carolina, Mr. DePriest said: "It has been a great pleasure to spend two or three weeks here among my old friends in the Old North State. I have never met a more optimistic or energetic people in the midst of the depression than the Anglo-Saxons of the South. I particularly noted this in my recent visit to New Orleans, which shows less of the 'hard times' than any other city I have visited this year. As for good old Cleveland, it is standing up in a way which makes me proud of the fine old county. That marvelous county fair will compare creditably with any similar enterprise in America, size of field considered."
