VACANT LOTS

The city charts, white-veined on crackling blue, Named it a "vacant lot"—that was not true. Whatever else they said. For who could pass such gracious trees, or touch cool-fingered grass. Breathe the pulsing fragrance of it all. From tiptoeing Spring on through the flaming Fall. Feel wings stir arching branches overhead. And still deny the place was tenanted?

Hoarse-voiced the builders came, with jangling chains. Trees crashed to earth, dark sweating men dug drains. Stripped sod, gouged pits, poured clattering streams of bricks. Set up in naked rows their ugly sticks. Made boxes to imprison beds and chairs. And phonographs and arguments and cares: Now, whether they admit the truth or not. On those blue charts, it is a vacant lot.

Lackey-Baley Wedding Is Announced.

Announcement is being made this week of the marriage of Miss Louise Baley to Mr. Norris Lackey, which took place in Spartanburg on May 31 this year. The young couple made announcement of their marriage on Sunday and left immediately for a wedding trip through Florida and Georgia. Mrs. Lackey, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Baley, of Atlanta, is a young woman of unusually charming personality, and is a popular member of the young social contingent here where she has spent much of her time during the last several years with relatives. She is a graduate of the Girls high school in Atlanta and of the Atlanta high museum of art. She has also studied art in West Palm Beach, Fla., and dramatics at the Southern Workshop in Asheville. Mr. Lackey is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Lackey of this place. He was educated at Rutherford college and at Tennessee Wesleyan in Athens, Tenn. He is at present an automobile salesman with the Doggett and Lackey company here. They will make their home in Shelby.

Neisler-Lutz Wedding Centers Social Interest.

Of outstanding interest to a wide circle of friends in the state is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Anne Lutz to Mr. Hunter Ramseur Neisler which was solemnized at high noon today at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Henry Lutz, of this place. The wedding was characterized by charm and quiet beauty being witnessed only by immediate members of the two families. The vows were spoken before an improvised altar of banked ferns and other greenery in front of which stood tall candelabra holding cathedral tapers. The entire lower floor of the home where the guests assembled was thrown together and attractively decorated. Reverend L. B. Hayes, pastor of the bride, officiated, using the ring ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal church. Prior to the ceremony a short program of nuptial music was rendered with Mrs. Earl Honeycutt as soloist and Miss Ethel Elmore at the piano. Mrs. Honeycutt sang "All for You" and "Because." Miss Elmore softly played "To a Wild Rose" during the ceremony. At the first strains of Lohengrin's wedding march the minister entered and took his place before the altar. The bride and groom entered the ceremony room together. There were no attendants. The bride wore a most becoming fall suit of dark green with a close fitting Delmar model hat of green and other accessories in a harmonizing shade of the same color. With this costume she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal wedding breakfast was served buffet style. The table was spread with a handsome Venetian lace cloth and centered with a large bowl of radiance roses. Silver candelsticks, holding tall white tapers, graced each corner of the table. Mrs. Neisler is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Henry Lutz, of this place, and is an attractive and charming young woman of striking personality. She received her education at State College at Fredericksburg, Va. Mr. Neisler is a son of Mrs. C. E. Neisler and the late Mr. Neisler, of Kings Mountain. He is a graduate of Davidson college and finished in designing at the Philadelphia Textile School of Arts. He is a member of the Phi Psi fraternity. At present he is connected with the Neisler Mills at Kings Mountain. Mr. and Mrs. Neisler left immediately on an extended wedding trip. After November 1 they will be at home in Kings Mountain where they will start housekeeping in their lovely new home on the Grover road.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Wood served a delightful sweet course.

Sunday School Meet At Beaver Dam 11th

Special Attention To Be Given To Home And Cradle Roll Departments.

(By J. W. Costner.)

The Kings Mountain Baptist Sunday school association will meet at Beaver Dam church Sunday October 11. It is hoped that each Sunday school along with the superintendents and teachers and other department superintendents will be sure to go.

These two departments in our Sunday schools are two of the most important departments and yet largely neglected. We are fortunate in securing Mr. Herndon of Gastonia, state approved worker, who will discuss the home department, also Mrs. H. E. Waldrop who will discuss the cradle roll.

Special music by Mark and A. C. Lovelace of Caroleen, formerly of Shelby. These boys will lift you with gospel songs. Surely every Sunday school will be well represented.

Several Sunday schools have changed superintendents during the month of September. We are all anxious to meet each of them at the meeting Sunday.

If any superintendent has failed to send in their monthly report, please do so at once or bring to the meeting and be sure and let us have the name of each home department superintendent.

These meetings are held each month for the benefit of our Sunday school work. not only in the Kings Mountain association, but state and south-wide by staying in line with all Baptists of our denomination.

Modern Building For Sunday School In Atlanta, Georgia

If you should stand at the corner of North Avenue and Juniper street in Atlanta you would see a fine-looking five-story building, with walls of light red brick, sandstone trimmings, and a red tile roof. It looks like a modern high school or library, but it is the new Sunday school and church activities building of the North Avenue Presbyterian church. It is probably one of the finest and best equipped Sunday schools in the country.

In addition to a large number of classrooms for all departments this school has the following interesting features: a Boy Scouts' room, a missionary room, a missionary library, mother's class room, two well equipped kitchens, gymnasium, a superintendent's office with a switchboard from which a bell on any floor can be rung and a switch that rings all of the bells in the house at once. There is even a midget piano in the cradle roll room, with furniture specially built for the little children. On the ceiling of this room are stars, and the floor covering is of soft green.

Dr. Marion McH. Hull, the well-known Sunday school worker and writer, is superintendent of the school, and has written a story of how this dream came true and what gives their building its great usefulness today for the best sort of present-day Sunday school work. There is no adventure like missionary adventure, but think of having Paul's missionary journeys made vivid by an electrical map! A Pennsylvania Sunday school has worked this out, with batteries and a bulb, and when a question about a place visited by Paul is correctly answered by a pupil, the bulb flashes its light; if the question is not answered correctly, the bulb doesn't burn. The efficiency and equipment number of The Sunday School Times tells just how to rig this up in your own school while the international uniform lessons are covering Paul's missionary journeys.
