SOME DAY WHEN YOU'VE FORGOTTEN ME

Some day when you've forgotten me
You'll listen to the rain,
And what you never thought to see
Again, you'll see again.

I warn you, if you watch the black
And rainy window blur,
The month you kissed will kiss you
back
And you will see me, sir.

Oh, when it rains you will recall
The lashes that were wet,
My dear, I am not after all
So easy to forget.

Miss Lilly Taylor Celebrates Birthday

Miss Lilly Taylor was hostess on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock at one of the most novel and attractive parties of the season, entertaining in celebration of her thirtieth birthday. Her week-end visitors, Misses Conner Marie and Beth Sherrill, of Charlotte, were special guests of the occasion. The scene of the party was the garden at the home of her mother, Mrs. E. Y. Webb, and Judge Webb, which was lighted with many jack-o-lanterns and a large bon fire in the center of the garden, the latter lending atmosphere to the occasion. The autumn idea was carried out in detail. Small tables and seats were scattered over the garden, the tables being spread with fruits, candies, and other refreshments appropriate to the season. The feature of the evening was the fortune teller's tent, surrounded by jack-o-lanterns, which was arranged in the garage. The part of the fortune teller was taken by Miss Elizabeth Ebeltoft, who, dressed in effective

1847 Thomas Alva Edison 1931

The life story of Thomas A. Edison is without parallel in history. There has been other great inventors, but never one with the all-pervading curiosity of mind which skipped from physics to mechanics, chemistry to biology, electricity to aerodynamics. He went through life working with an energy that was tremendous. He possessed the eccentricity that spells genius and, in his earlier years, was constantly getting into difficulties because of his curiosity. He was born in 1847, on February 11, at Milan, O. His parents were Samuel and Nancy Edison. During his boyhood he was far from a mental prodigy. One of his relatives referred to him as "addled" and he, himself, once remarked that "I was usually at the foot of my class." After a year in school his mother decided to teach him at home. As a result, by the time he was 12, he had been made to digest such intellectual fare as Gibbons' "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," Sears' "History of the World," "The Dictionary of Sciences" and Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy." His intense interest in science developed at an early age. He was fascinated by machinery when he was a child and later he took up the study of chemistry.

Cotton Tweeds Smart For School

WHETHER it's a neat costume for country boarding school or city high school—or a swagger coat for rainy days, cotton tweeds are definitely in line with fashions for juniors this fall. Many new weaves and textures make them adaptable to both the tailored and the more feminine types of frocks. Woven or printed, they carry an air of youthful sophistication which does not detract from their well-known qualities of durability and washability. Best of all, the new cotton tweeds are shown in all the new fall colorings.

Printed cotton tweed in brown and white, makes the tailored jumper frock shown at the left, for an unidentified woman. Counsel for his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, who recently filed suit for divorce, said the articles were not purchased for her and she has not received any of them. They pointed out that Mr. and Mrs. McLean separated six months before the charge account sued on was opened.

Eastern Paper Is Opposing Session

Roanoke-Chowan Times. We believe that Governor Gardner has acted wisely in not calling an extra session of the legislature to deal with the cotton situation. A great majority of the present members of our legislative body are lawyers, and what do they know about cotton anyway?

It is very doubtful if the price of cotton could be boosted by acts of the legislatures of the cotton states. Then how about corn, peanuts, tobacco and everything else the farmer has to sell? Would it be fair, if we could, to boost by legislation the product of one section and leave the others in the dumps? Hardly. The production of cotton is going to be reduced without legislative action. Fertilizer manufacturers will not, cannot, sell to bankrupt farmers. Time merchants are not going to furnish supplies to grow five cent cotton. Farmers cannot go on from year to year producing cotton at a loss. They will have to quit of necessity. In most every neighborhood can be found farmers who are independent, farmers who grow a variety of crops, who have more to sell than they have to buy. Let's

Steal Gaffney Auto In Front Of Church

Gaffney Ledger. J. B. Bolin, of this city, was the victim Monday night of one of the boldest automobile thefts yet reported here. Mr. Bolin drove to the Cherokee Avenue Baptist church to get his wife, who was attending a teacher training school. He parked his car in front of the church and started to walk into the building. He had hardly reached the door when three men jumped into his new car and drove away. No trace of the thieves has been found.
