

Cherokee Girl To Get Chicago Trip

(Gaffney Ledger.)
Miss French McKown, of the McKown's Mountain community, will be one of seven South Carolina girls and boys representing this state at the national 4-H club conference in Chicago the first week in December. Miss McKown won this honor by a canning exhibit at the state fair in Columbia this week. She was one of the honor guests at the annual dinner for 4-H winners in Columbia Wednesday evening.

Miss McKown's prize-winning exhibit consisted of three quarts of vegetables, three quarts of fruits, one quart of canned meat, and one jar of relish, all in glass containers.

Miss McKown will leave on the Chicago trip the latter part of November. The trip will be without cost to her, as her expenses will be paid by an organization sponsoring the conference.

Miss Elizabeth Williams, county home demonstration agent, who accompanied Miss McKown to Columbia Wednesday and returned with her Thursday afternoon, said she is very proud of the record made by the McKown's mountain girl. She is a daughter of the late E. L. McKown and Mrs. Bessie McKown, and is a graduate of the Gaffney high school having received her diploma last June.

Just Ten Years Ago

(From Issue of The Star October 25, 1921.)

Monroe worked the old shooting play on Shelby successfully Friday and took the lead on the first play of the game, winning eventually by a score of 24 to 0, and thereby eliminating Shelby from a chance at the western football championship. This was Shelby's first defeat this season.

A doctrine of enduring friendship between the United States and Great Britain was pronounced by President Harding Wednesday at Yorktown at a ceremony commemorating the final surrender of the British expeditionary forces here to the revolutionary army of Washington.

At a meeting of the committee on plans of management, etc., of the proposed new hospital, it was decided that the institution should be a public institution where all doctors have the privilege of going to and from at will for the practice of their profession, a competent surgeon of course to do the surgery.

Mrs. DeWitt Quinn was a charming hostess to the members of the Ishpingen club and a few invited guests on last Saturday afternoon at the first social meeting of the season.

Miss Ob Borders, the attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Borders, keeper of the county home and Mr. Clyde Gold of the Double Shoals section stole a surprise on their many friends and were quietly married on last Saturday afternoon in Shelby at four o'clock at the home of Rev. John W. Suttle who officiated.

John Lee Ellis, native of Cleveland county, who for a number of years ran a bicycle shop here which he sold to his brother, Sam Ellis, was instantly killed Saturday at Anderson, S. C., when he was run down by a heavy truck at a street crossing.

Highs Play Rutherfordton Eleven Here Thursday; Lipscomb Is Star

Game Moved Up One Day. Should Be Hardest Home Game Of Year For Morrismen. Visitors Doped To Have Strongest Team.

The Shelby Highs are booked to play their hardest home game of the season here this week when they meet the strong Rutherfordton eleven on Thursday afternoon at the city park.

Fans should note the change of the day for the game. It was originally scheduled for Friday afternoon, but was changed so that Shelby teachers might attend a district educational meeting in Charlotte Friday.

Chance To Lose
If the Shelby eleven can upset the dope and win Thursday's game the team has a good chance of going through the season without a loss at Central high park.

The record of the two eleven so far this year indicate, however, that the visitors are a bit stronger. This edge is due to the stronger scoring punch of the Frew squad. Shelby has one of the best defensive eleven in this section, but is weak on the offense.

Fleet Star.
The Rutherfordton attack, it is believed, will be centered about "Nig" Lipscomb. There is little doubt, it seems, to explain here who "Nig" Lipscomb is. He is the lanky, fleet-footed athlete who played baseball last summer for the Cleveland Cloth mill club. He is not only a great baseball player but an outstanding griddler. Those who have seen him in action consider him the best all-around prospective athlete in North Carolina high school circles. Long and rangy and unusually fast, he is said to be a clever halfback, adept at catching passes as well as tossing them.

But Lipscomb lacks quite a bit of being the whole show on the Rutherfordton eleven. He plays behind a heavy, hard-charging line and has three husky pals to assist him in the backfield. The Rutherfordton eleven is said to be the best coached and smartest eleven turned out there in years.

In other words, there doesn't seem much else for Shelby's black-jerseyed youngsters to do but lose. Yet the boys have other ideas about it. They're taken it on the chin three times this year from stronger eleven, and they're fed up on it. What's more they desire to maintain their record of winning home games. If the offense can be worked up to the point that it will function as does the defense, led by Capt. Max Putnam and "Red" Jolly, the outcome may be surprising.

Capt. Putnam's play backing up the line and running interference was superb. He played one of the greatest games of his career and from a defensive standpoint, if he continues his aggressive tactics, may rank among Shelby's famous backs. In the center of the line "Red" Jolly played an inspired game and boosted his reputation as the best high school center in the state. Moore, on an end, was good at snagging passes. Huffman punted well but along with the other backs could not get going otherwise.

Other Stars.
Coach Casey Morris wasn't at all pleased over the showing of his backfield in the Gastonia game and there may be new faces in the ball-toting department when the opening whistle blows Thursday.

Anyway, end as it may, it should be the best high school game local fans will be permitted to see in their own backyard this season.

Murder Victims

Upper picture, believed to be that of Hedwig Samuelson, one of the two women whose mutilated bodies were found in trunks in the baggage room of the Southern Pacific railroad station in Los Angeles, was discovered among the grisly remains of one of the victims. The trunks were shipped from Phoenix, Ariz., and their gruesome contents were revealed by a peculiar odor. The other victim is believed to be Mrs. Agnes Anne Iger, x-ray technician at the Grunow Memorial clinic in Phoenix. Lower photo is believed to be of her.

Walking Is The Best of Exercises

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D., U. S. Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

FREQUENTLY the doctor is confronted with the problem of advising his patient about the most beneficial forms of exercise. Since exercise is universally recognized as essential to good health, this problem can not be dodged.

For the individual whose work requires muscular exertion, we need not worry about the matter. He is more interested in having rest and relaxation, when work is over.

However, there are many persons whose work is of a sedentary nature. These individuals find that as they grow older they are "flabby," have no "zip," no energy. They are apt to complain of various digestive disorders.

In most of these cases exercise is prescribed. It is essential to a return to good health. It is advised that the exercise be outdoors and, when possible, in the sunlight.

Golf is, perhaps, the most frequently advised form of exercise. Unfortunately, though it is an ideal game, enabling one to be outdoors and in the sun, it is an expensive form of recreation. Tennis, horse-back riding, swimming and other sports often fall into the same classification.

A Cure for Restlessness
There is one form of exercise which everyone can afford. I can think of nothing better than walking. It can be practiced by the old as well as the young. No equipment beyond your legs and the willingness to walk is needed for this healthful exercise.

The popularity of the automobile has greatly discouraged walking. This is unfortunate. Even though you have a fine car or two, do not overlook the health value of an occasional walk.

English Writer For Prohibition

George Bernard Shaw Attacks Tipplers Who Drink To Obtain Jollity.

London.—Bootlegging in the United States results in the corruption of police and law courts, but there is no reason for doing away with prohibition, George Bernard Shaw told the World Prohibition Federation.

He attacked tipplers who utilize the glass to obtain jollity or courage, saying he would feel ashamed if he had to resort to such measures. And he accused Gilbert Chesterton of being a "secret teetotaler" because Mr. Chesterton "is so very loud" in singing the praises of wine.

The direct results of prohibition in the United States have been "eminently successful in every way," Mr. Shaw said, "but some of the indirect results are very curious."

"There is an industry called bootlegging in America, and its profits are so large that the people who conduct it have immense sums for the corruption of justice."

"There is a very serious result, but it is not a reason for going back on prohibition. Rather is it a reason for the reorganization of law and order."

In Soviet Russia, he said, the bootlegger or gangster would last about ten minutes. "Over there they deal with profiteers just as they would with gangsters. One day the profiteer disappears and his relatives are informed that he won't be back."

The way to cure drunkenness, G. B. S. continued, is to "make the common man not want to drink."

"I believe a greater proportion of the people of this country are not only ashamed of drinking but actually are proud of it."

"What we ought to teach people is not that drink does harm or good or gives them courage or makes them jolly, but that it is in the last degree disgraceful that a man must have a drink to screw up his courage or to become jolly."

He said he would go to New York and then travel westward through Texas, California, the Philippines and on around, using his skates wherever there is pavement and walking where there is none.
