New Buick Be Shown First Time Saturday

Buick's new line of straight eights for 1932 will be formally presented to the public on Saturday next, Nov. 14th. It is announced by Mr. E. T. Strong, president and general manager of the Buick Motor Company, Mr. J. L. Lecky, local Buick dealer is attending a dealers conference in Charlotte today at which the new models will be shown.

With the presentation, the mysteries of "wizard control," declared to be a startling innovation in motor-car operation, will be fully revealed. While the preliminary announcement contains no details about the new Buick development, it is intimated that an entirely new method of car control is introduced, one that represents the longest step forward in this phase of automotive engineering that has been made in recent years.

Japan Ships Gold Into United States

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—The arrival of $23,500,000 in gold here yesterday from Japan brought that country's total shipments of the yellow metal to this port to $75,000,000 in the last thirty days. Preparations for any eventuality that may arise out of the Manchurian situation was indicated by Japanese bankers here as one of the reasons for heavy shipments of gold to this country. In the event of war, the position of Japan in the United States would be fortified by the large amount of metal here, they said.

Got Any Frozen Steaks In Hook?

President Hoover's plan to release frozen assets is a good one for the big banks, and will help the installments houses, but Dick, Tom and Harry will have to work for a living as usual. Another Tax Angle or Tangle. A native of my town dropped in to see me the other day to register his complaint about city taxes, and I tried to explain to him that we could not have a city unless we paid city taxes, and then I took up telling about the various and sundry benefits he received from the tax money in question.

First, I told him about the police protection afforded. He said he didn't need any police protection as he did not intend to do any fighting or let anybody fight him, and he assured me he kept a pistol in his house for protection. And he cited the fact that he also owned a bull dog—on which he had to pay additional taxes.

Second, I insisted that he had paved streets to ride on, but he said he paid for his half of the street in front of his house and the other fellow on the other side of his street paid the other half. Then I said—How about the schools? He stated that he had no children to send to school, and furthermore, our city taxes did not go to the support of the schools, as our district is a separate and distinct municipality and had its own tax system.

Third, I begged him to inform him that he had electric lights and water and he said—that's so, but I pay the electric light and water company for their service, and he went on to show me that he did not need any street lights, as he had lights on his Ford, and as a rule—he stayed at home during the night-time. He said the white-way was pretty to look at, but the moon looked all right to him.

Fourth, I took up the question of fire protection, but he told me that he did not carry enough insurance to need fire protection and besides—he paid the insurance companies to protect him—if his house should accidentally catch on fire. But, says I—how about the traffic light? He flew mad then and said he had sense enough to drive a car with-out traffic lights and policemen.

Fifth, I reminded him of the street sprinkler, but he said he could wait till it rained to have his street sprinkled. Well, says I—you have to have a city council and a mayor and a city judge, and he said he didn't need either one of them. Then I remarked—how about somebody to mark off places to park? he said—if a man don't know how to park his lizzie (when he comes to town) without directions, he ought to walk and lean against a telegram post when he wants to rest. As I couldn't give him any tax-information, I told him not to hurry. After he was gone, I thought of the street sweeper and the board of health, but it was too late.

O-u-c-h! The insurance companies seem to think that they will bust if the railroads are not granted that 13 percent increase in freight rates. (You know, of course, that the insurance companies own the railroads?) And if they are given that increase, the farmers will bust. (You know, of course, that the railroads get all the farmers make already). And—

Tickets, Please. Speaking of politics a little bit further, did you know that the railroads get a right smart more for hauling wheat and hay and coal and potatoes and oats and salt and hides and cottonseed for a distance of 1000 miles than the producers who actually raise these commodities get? Well, they do. If Pullman and passenger rates are not reduced at least 50 percent within the next 5 years, the railroads will need only a single bicycle apiece to handle their passenger travel.

Cotton Letter. New York, Nov. 9.—The chairman of the Farm Board sneezed last night and May futures broke 14 points. The bulls were glad that he only sneezed; if he had coughed, too, November spots no doubt would have followed. A boll weevil nest was found in Moo-ey Long's vest at a banquet on Tuesday and New Orleans sent out a report that the said pest was hibernating early which foretold an increase in their population, and then Oklahoma voted for an increase in oil and a cut in acreage. Those Oklahoma farmers are insisting on the farmers growing all of their feeds at home. Just think of it! Their "Alfalfa Bill" for the past 12 months has already cost the state $65,000,000. We advise red flannels and cotton hose from now on.

Do You Chew, Smoke or Dip? And going further into what becomes of what the agriculturist ought to receive for his products, did you ever think that a pound of tobacco (for which the manufacturer pays Mr. Farmer the sum of 21 cents) will make about 2-3 dollars worth of ordinary cigarettes—very much like those that you will walk a mile for or those that will keep you kissable day and night and possibly those that want bite you Adam's apple? And it doesn't cost so very much to make cigarettes, as they have the stretch-out system in their factories, too, and do not pay their help so much that any of them suffer with the gout. But there ain't any trusts any more. Mary, Dear! The Sherman law killed the trusts, but most of the boys belong to the same stockholders and all prices are generally the same—which are high, higher and highest.

Other Evidence Expected. A very prominent married business man of this city was in attendance at a party on the night before these murders were committed in company with Mrs. Judd. It is not believed he had any connection with the slayings however. But the officers think that someone aided Mrs. Judd in placing these bodies in the trunks, and no doubt, if such is the case, that this evidence will be revealed before a comes to trial.

Mrs. Judd, has already given different versions of the affair and more or less trapped herself in a number of ways which will destroy any self defense plea. And while in the Los Angeles jail, she made plenty of money selling her stories to the California papers. But now she is in Phoenix, and this income will stop, because Arizona people

Rambling Bill Writes Low-Down On Arizona's Judd Case And Crime; Has Good Trigger Finger Himself

(By Rambling Bill, Phoenix, Ariz., to The Star.)

Note in your issue of October 26 you ran an account of Phoenix's famous "trunk murders" in which Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, killed her two best friends, and cut up one of the bodies placing same in two trunks and shipping them to Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. Judd, was later apprehended in Los Angeles, and confessed the slayings claiming same was in self defense.

Today Mrs. Judd, was returned to Phoenix and lodged in the county jail to await on first degree murder charges. More than 1000 people were waiting at the court house to see her brought in, and a flock of newspaper reporters were present with their cameras to get pictures of the famous and fiendish murderer, Phoenix has drawn headlines throughout the country on account of this murder, which is unparalleled anywhere in the nation. Public opinion is running very strongly against Mrs. Judd. Not to the extent of mob violence but that justice will be speedily given and Arizona has Capital punishment laws. The noose is waiting for this woman, if she is convicted of first degree murder.

Last year, Evva Dugan, was hanged at Florence, the state prison of Arizona for the murder of a rancher named Mathias, near Tucson, and on purely circumstantial evidence. Unless Mrs. Judd, can make an insanity or self defense plea, stick with the jury, she will pay the same penalty.

I have personally seen Mrs. Judd several times in her work at the Grinnon clinic where she was employed, and also seen Mrs. LeRoy, one of her victims. Tave recently visited the death house at 2029 N. 2nd St., where the gruesome murders were committed.

trap them and most of them faded out. Our orders were to shoot first, ask questions afterwards. I guess this winter, it will be the same, as hundreds of would be gangsters flock here during the winter months where the climate is mild, and heretofore, the pickings were easy.

They will not find things so easy this season. We are ready for them. What might appear to be one just an ordinary shopper or business man going about his duties, can bob up with two guns in his hands spitting accurate fire in a flash, and the orders are to give no quarter nor take any.

The ordinary gangster and hold-up artist is the biggest coward ever. True they will kill. It's easy for a coward to kill when his victim is unarmed or when he has the drop on him, but few hold up artists have the guts to stand up and shoot it out with another armed man whose aim is accurate and deadly.

Good Trigger Finger. There are plenty of men in Phoenix who are willing to volunteer their services at any time to curb this lawlessness who under any conditions can place their shots anywhere they want them shooting from the hip with rapid succession. I do not consider myself the best shot, but I can keep a tomato can rolling for six shots, and have been known to split a cigarette paper from its edge ten to twenty feet away, and have shot the head off a match only aiming 1-2 of a second.
