At The Theatres

Charles Farrell and Madge Evans are the big reasons for seeing "Heartbreak" at the Carolina today and Tuesday. The picture has a strong cast, including Hardie Albright, Paul Cavanagh and John Arledge. "Heartbreak" is not a tragic story at all, but an exquisite love idyll with a happy ending.

Walter Huston, Loretta Young, Dudley Digges, Doris Kenyon and David Manners plays the leading roles in "The Ruling Voice," the powerfully dramatic feature picture at the Webb theatre tonight and Tuesday. Huston, of course, is the main actor, in a story of hardness itself—a man with but one soft spot—his daughter, played by Loretta Young.

Cotton Market

Cotton was quoted at noon today on New York exchange: Dec. 5.33, Jan. 6.43. Saturday's close: Dec. 6.35, Jan. 6.46.

New York, Nov. 15.—Fair demand for spots mid. 488 against 506 Friday. Sterling 376 1-2. Western belt had showers, forecast eastern belt fair central and western belt increasing cloudiness rain Oklahoma and showers Texas. Light sales Worth street Saturday at new low; for the week. Buyers and sellers disheartened by price movement. Question is asked why mills contract at a loss and suggestion is made that they may be discounting a drastic decline in raw cotton. Hunter company sales above production last week. Manchester cable fair inquiries but sales for week below previous week but satisfactory. India showed more interest but China quieter. Probably easier today particularly if hedge and cooperative selling comes in.

Reynolds States Morrison Is Not Putting Up Funds

Anti-Prohibition Senatorial Candidate Denies Morrison Support.

Winston-Salem, Nov. 15.—The Rev. Oscar Haywood's assertion before the Baptist State convention here that current rumors said Senator Cameron Morrison was financing the campaign of R. R. Reynolds, anti-prohibition candidate for the senate, brought a denial from Reynolds and silent scorn from Morrison.

Dr. Arthur J. Barton, chairman of the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America, in a statement issued at Wilmington, expressed regret that such a rumor had been mentioned on the convention floor.

Dr. Haywood, pastor of the First Baptist church of New Bern made his remark at the closing session of the convention here.

Formal Statement.
Reynolds in a formal statement denied he had received any financial assistance from anyone within or without the state and asked Dr. Haywood "in justice to the public, to give some foundation for such charges."

Senator Morrison snorted indignation when informed of Dr. Haywood's statement and berated reporters for even questioning him "about a fool thing like that." He refused to take notice of the affair to the extent of a formal statement.

Senator Morrison, an ardent prohibitionist, will be a candidate in the democratic primary to succeed himself. His announced opponents are Reynolds, Judge T. C. Bowie, and Frank Grist, commissioner of labor.

Barton Explanation.
Dr. Barton's statement said a question asked him by the Rev. J. C. Powell immediately after Dr. Haywood's remarks was erroneously interpreted as having bearing on what Dr. Haywood said.

"Mr. Powell's question had reference to a letter written me on an entirely different subject," the statement said. x x x

"I never heard of the rumor referred to by Dr. Haywood, and if I had I would not have given any credence to it. I am sorry a rumor so absurd on its very face should have been referred to before the convention, but that was a matter Dr. Haywood had to decide for himself."

Jester's Views.
Noting the wide publicity given by the state newspapers to the Haywood incident, Dr. John R. Jester, pastor of the First Baptist church here, issued a statement. He stressed the only interpretation that can be put upon the incident, viz: that the Baptists of North Carolina as a religious body, take no stock in personal politics.

Dr. Jester stated further that "the committee on public morals made a ringing report, advocating a straight-forward stand for law enforcement and the improvement of conditions in social life. Among other things there was reiterated unequivocal support of the eighteenth amendment, and opposition to any who would seek its repeal or break down its enforcement. It reaffirmed the position taken by the Southern Baptist convention last May in this matter."

"Pending the vote upon its adoption, there was injected by one member of the convention a statement that savored of personal politics. The convention declined to enter this field, holding that the positive statement of great principles was sufficient, and the report was adopted without a dissenting vote."

A Mountain Opportunity.

The Brevard News.
The Waynesville Mountaineer and The Canton Enterprise have been telling in recent issues of the car load after car load of cattle being shipped from Haywood county to the markets of the world. Huge amounts of money have been pouring into the pockets of the farmers and stock men of that county.

The Marshall News-Record now comes along with the statement that "More than $42,000 worth of cattle have already been sold in Madison county," and adds the fertile justified boast that the season is not yet ended and many more carloads will be shipped from old Madison county.

Let's get back to stock raising, like the men of old raised stock here and shipped it away receiving in return much new money from outside sources.

Father Of Eleven To Sow Plenty Wheat

Goldsboro, Nov. 12.—"We eat 60 biscuits at a meal at our house, and I am certainly going to plant wheat this fall," said M. F. Sugg, farmer, in Goldsboro Tuesday. Mr. Sugg said there are 11 children in his family, all staying at home.

Half of the world is wishing to find out what the other half wants.

Hoover Has Plan For Mortgage Aid

Would Help Home-Owner And Farmer Who Are Worrying About Debts.

Washington, Nov. 16.—President Hoover took his new, aggressive anti-depression program to another and important stage Saturday, when he announced he would propose to congress a system of home-loan discount banks.

The banks, one for each Federal Reserve district, would have broadly the three-fold purpose of relieving pressure on home owners and the banks holding their mortgages; allaying unemployment by overcoming the semi-paralysis that has gripped the home building industry; and establishing a permanent mortgage re-discount system of such strength as to combat in future years the menacing effect of business depression.

President Hoover's mortgage plan is one close to his heart. Many times recently he has emphasized the importance of the home, and the home owner, in American life. He has said that he wants to bring nearer the time when every industrious family shall have its own home, and shall be guarded by systems such as the one he now proposes from the threat hanging over every poor man's head—foreclosure and the loss of all he has planned for.

Recognizing that a plan so ambitious must be based soundly, the President has spent many months studying it, in conference with all sorts of experts. His announcement is the fruit of his study.

Deep Interest.

Mr. Hoover's concern with the problem was obvious when he announced his plan at this afternoon's press conference. He was looking well, after his reunion with the '94 football team of Stanford University, as he stood, in a blue serge suit, behind his big executive office desk. He asked newspaper men to take particular care with the statement and said he had marked it for morning paper release so they would have time to study it. He reviewed it briefly, and with feeling, but asked, so accuracy would be insured, that the news be written from a mimeograph statement, upon which he said he had spent much time.

President Hoover's new business recovery proposal comes but a few weeks after his credit pool plan, designed to loosen ordinary banking credits.

The proposal gets right down to the man in the suburban bungalow and the man on the farm, who are worrying about their mortgages or wondering whether they dare to negotiate one; and the banks which are worrying whether they can renew, or accept, mortgages on farms or homes.
