Dec. 11.—The "hog killing" season is now at hand since the weather has taken a sudden change. Several fine "porkers" have been butchered in our community this week.

The club room was never prettier than on this occasion, having large wreaths of poinsettias tied with red bows at each window and large bowls and baskets of geraniums and poinsettias placed on the tables and piano. In the business meeting Mrs. Luther McGinty was unanimously voted as a new member. Mrs. Beason read a letter from Mrs. L. B. Hayes at Waynesville, box 136, thanking this division again for the lovely shower given her before leaving. It was also voted to take money from the treasury to fill six Christmas stockings for patients at Otten.

Jarrett opened the program by beautifully singing "In the Garden of My Heart" by Ernest R. Ball. Papers and talks on the topic of study were given by Mesdames Wilbur Baber, Jap Suttie and Rush Stroup. Mrs. Ed Millan delighted all with a reading "Dark of the Honeymoon." The program closed by the club singing together "Silent Night." The next meeting will be held January 14 with Mesdames Allen, Angel and Dixon, hostesses.

Fireplace Built With Many Stones

Durand, Wis.—One can't convince Lloyd Lobdell he isn't living in the stone age.

He will point to big and small, regular and irregular stones to prove it in explaining it all started when he and Mrs. Lobdell decided a fireplace built of a stone from each state in the union would be just the thing for their summer cabin.

Letters were sent out and stones came back. Even from 31 foreign countries. They've got the fireplace and more than a few to spare.

For how it once was a question of how to get distinctive stones it's now a question of how to stop getting them. And they are still coming.

Think of the swell break the fellows who have been sent to prison during the depression.
