Advocates Repeal

Regarded as the most prominent individual in the ranks of prohibition supporters, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who, together with his father, subscribed $350,000 to make the adoption of prohibition legislation possible, has amazed the wet ranks by declaring himself in favor of repeal of the 18th Amendment. Rockefeller declared that the evils brought by the dry law have more than outweighed its benefits.

Contracts To Grow Vegetables Are Let

Gaffney Ledger. R. E. Johnson, secretary of the chamber of commerce, yesterday issued the following statement:

"On June 4, sixteen more progressive farmers joined in with the forty-three that have already agreed to sign contracts to grow over 300 acres in the highest iodine truck in the world.

"Nine large growers have signed up without stating how many acres and left this open until the final wind-up.

"Several of our leading farmers have agreed to milk from six to twelve cows for a milk condensing plant that will be built in this county on account of our milk being from two to three hundred percent higher than anywhere else in the world.

"Cherokee county is sitting on top of the world in these new discoveries of iodine and iron and will be the leading county in the United States in a few years, if we wake up and realize what a fortune we have knocking at our door.
