Variety of Symptoms Mark Gland Diseases

Enlargement of Thyroid Gland Causes Goitre, While Abnormal Secretion of This Gland Is Responsible for a Number of Maladies

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

GOITRE is the general name applied to all enlargements of the thyroid gland. There are several varieties grouped under this heading and they have various widely different symptoms.

Young girls at the very beginning of adolescence often show marked enlargement of the neck. This condition is most frequent in the delicate and undernourished, and especially common when the person has been subject to anxiety and overstrain. This form of goitre often shows no symptoms other than the unsightly enlargement of the neck.

While this simple goitre does not usually produce nervousness or loss of weight, a more serious form of disturbance may sometimes develop. Often goitre disappears when the patient reaches the age of about twenty-five years, particularly if the health can be improved and the environment is favorable to rest and nerve repose.

The thyroid gland secretes "thyroxin," a substance that has a powerful influence on the human body. When the thyroid is overactive, nervousness, loss of weight, chronic fatigue and rapidity of the pulse appear; but when the secretion is deficient, various forms of mental disturbances occur. The most extreme manifestation is found in young children, and is known as "cretinism."

This latter disease is peculiar to certain parts of Switzerland and India. The normal development of the child is arrested at an early age. The head grows large, the body is dwarfed and misshapen, and the tongue becomes large and often protrudes. The afflicted child is far below normal in intelligence. The administration of thyroid gland preparations may do much to improve the condition of the patient, although few cases ever approach a normal mentality.

Insufficient thyroid secretion may occur in adults between the ages of thirty and fifty years. The symptoms are anemia, loss of strength, vague pains accompanied by a harsh, dry skin, dry and brittle hair, mental torpor, and various other symptoms that may be recognized by a physician. Treatment consists of replacing the diminished secretion of the gland and often results in wonderful improvement.

"Graves disease," or "exophthalmic goitre," is a definite disease. It is quite distinct from simple goitre or from functional disturbances of the thyroid.

In exophthalmic goitre the eyes become prominent, the heart action is increased and nervous irritability is marked. Fatigue develops after only slight exertion. The treatment for this form of goitre is surgical, because the secretion of the thyroid is not only increased in amount, but is toxic in its quality.

Potato House Pays $250 In Dividends

(Special to The Star)

Ellenboro, June 16.—To distribute nearly $250.00 in dividend checks to the shareholders of the Ellenboro Sweet Potato Storage Company, Inc. a meeting of the stockholders in the company will be held in the K. of P. Hall in Ellenboro, Saturday afternoon, June 18, at 2 p. m. All shareholders are urged to be present and receive their dividend for the year.

In addition to distributing the checks a social hour with refreshments has been planned by those in charge of the meeting. Farmers need inspiration this year more than during any previous year, and it is hoped that the meeting will serve to inspire each farmer present.

The Ellenboro Sweet Potato Storage Company is a cooperative farmers' organization and all of the dividend checks will be distributed to farmers with but one or two exceptions. It is believed that farmers will be more prosperous when they cooperate to run their own business and receive the dividends from their own organizations.

New Magazine For Carolina Boosting

Quarterly Periodical, Edited By Nattress, Boosts Two States.

The first issue of The Carolinas Magazine, a quarterly published at Charlotte, and devoted to boosting the two states, gives promise of being highly efficient in its field.

Its 80 pages filled with good reading matter and superior pictures are all devoted to some part of the reasons why future success may be found by coming here and taking advantage of the opportunities available for enterprise and ability.

Governor Blackwood and Governor Gardner, each write on that theme. David R. Coker tells about agriculture here. Governor Blackwood, in another article, proves that the progress of South Carolina is unchecked. John K. Aull looks to the future with confidence based on facts. President Sikes, of Clemson, tells how the textile industry is big field for youth to embrace as a profession. The Rev. Dr. Luther Little, whose sermons in the Baptist church of Charlotte are familiar over a wide area by radio, pictures the spiritual values in the deep religious feeling throughout the population of both Carolinas. Many articles show the opportunities for many industries here, as paper making, furniture, and others.

Tourists as income producers are recognized in pages devoted to attractions for them, and Charleston, South Carolina, and eastern North Carolina vie in this with superb pictures and interesting text. There is a scholarly and interesting article on the history and romance of cotton, and the magazine is full of meat and interest.

Many towns and cities have in this magazine advertisements showing the advantages to industry, and Rock Hill shows up well in this regard. Yorkville has an advertisement of three-fifths of a page, as the natural gateway to Kings Mountain National park and special opportunities for industrial development, with a list of two dozen business concerns already here as its sponsors.

Shifting Of Stocks Of Gold About Over

$50,000,000 Is Set Aside For France, Thus Practically Closing Out That Account.

New York.—An important phase of the redistribution of the world's monetary gold stocks was completed today, as nearly $50,000,000 in gold was set aside for the account of the Bank of France at the New York Federal Reserve bank.

This was stated in authoritative banking quarters virtually to complete the transfer of the Bank of France's balance here into gold to be returned home.

It was regarded as definitely foreshadowing the end of the heavy efflux of yellow metal from the United States which began when the Bank of England dropped from the gold standard last September.

"This summer there is being done much marching on to Washington."
"If Congress does not quit at once, the greatest of these marching stunts will take place in a day or two. Until this tax power gets through, we can't plan any business deals. I think the whole blamed country feels like marching on the capitol floor and showing all of them the door."

A lot of people outside of Shelby feel like marching on this city for the purpose of ordering Sloop's Prescriptions. The fame of this firm in the Prescription line has spread over a wide section. Ask for attractive rates.

"SIX
CYLINDERS
NO LESS,"
says America

Anything more and you sacrifice economy—
anything less and you sacrifice smoothness.

BUYERS everywhere are comparing low-priced cars. Lifting hoods. Counting cylinders. And the result? An overwhelming verdict for the six, in preference to cars of fewer or more cylinders.

"SIX CYLINDERS. No more—No less!" And America backs up that conviction by purchasing more six-cylinder Chevrolets—far more—than any other type of low-priced car. Since January 1st, buyers have chosen more Chevrolet Sixes than the combined total of all fours and all-eights priced under $1000.

Why such decisive preference? America knows its automobiles . . . and America has found, through experience, what engineers have known for a long time: that real economy and real smoothness can be combined in one—and only one—type of engine: the SIX!

With more than six cylinders, you sacrifice Chevrolet's famous economy of gas, oil and upkeep.

With less than six cylinders, you sacrifice built-in smoothness.

But with a six—a Chevrolet Six—nothing is sacrificed. You get everything you want.

You get economy—the greatest all-round economy available in today's motor car market.

You get smoothness—the built-in smoothness that makes driving really restful and enjoyable.

You get power, too—60 horsepower. And speed—65 to 70 miles an hour, easily! And pick-up—a smooth, lightning-fast getaway from a standstill to 35 miles an hour in less than 7 seconds!

So, when buying a new low-priced car, settle the question of cylinders RIGHT, and you can't go WRONG. "SIX CYLINDERS. No more—No less!"

In addition to a six-cylinder engine, Chevrolet provides Free Wheeling; Syncro-Mesh shifting; big, spacious Fisher bodies; and, due to new reduced prices, you'll be money ahead buying a new Chevrolet instead of keeping the old car.
