Q. What does the term silver standard mean in relation to money?

A. The silver standard exists when the unit of currency of a country is silver, and silver coins are full legal tender, accepted in commercial exchanges and the value of other coins are measured in silver.

Q. What caused the business depression of 1873? How many unemployed were there then?

A. It was a world-wide depression that started in Australia in May, and spread through Europe. As the United States was unable to market her securities abroad, and could not obtain needed foreign capital, this country became deeply involved. Speculation was credited with being the chief cause of the depression. Practically every line of industry had been overdeveloped in the industrial period following the Civil War. Other factors were the over-expansion of railroads and the demoralization of silver. During the three years of the depression over 20,000 business failures were recorded, more than a billion dollars was lost, and about 3,000,000 men were unemployed.

Q. How many members has the United States Supreme Court, and by whom are they appointed?

A. The Chief Justice and eight Associate Justices comprise the Supreme Court. They are appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Q. When was the state of Idaho organized as a territory, and when did it become a state? Give the area, capital, largest city and meaning of the name?

A. Idaho was organized as a territory in 1863 and entered the union as a state on July 3, 1890. The area is 83,888 square miles; Boise is the capital and largest city, and the name is derived from an Indian name meaning "Light of the Mountain."

Q. Where is the original of the proverb "A house divided against itself cannot stand?"

A. The Bible, Luke 1:17.

Q. Under what circumstances did Patrick Henry make the famous statement: "If this be treason make the most of it?"

A. He coined the epigram in a speech before the Virginia convention, prior to the Revolutionary War, during the course of which he said, "Caesar had his Brutus, Charles the First his Cromwell, and George the Third—Treason" cried the Speaker—Henry continued—"may well profit by their example. If this be treason, make the most of it."

Q. When was the first steel ship built?

A. It was a paddle steamer "Ma Robert" built at Birkenhead, England, in 1857, for the Livingstone expedition.

Q. Was Amelia Earhart Putnam born and educated in the United States? Did she serve in the Red Cross during the World War?

A. She was born in Atchison, Kansas, in 1896, and graduated from Hyde Park School, Chicago, and Ogontz School for Girls in Philadelphia. She entered the Canadian Red Cross and served as nurse's aid

Ex-Husbands Get A Backer In This Judge

Alimony Row Arouses Sympathy Of Judge Cotto. Unemployed Cannot Pay.

New York—Husbands thrown in jail because they fall behind with their alimony payments have a champion in Justice Salvatore A. Cotto.

The first Italian-American elected to the supreme court bench in New York sailed for Europe last week with the announced intention of devoting his vacation to an effort to find some way out of their problems.

"Why keep men in jail for not paying alimony," he demanded, "when they haven't even enough money to pay rent. They can't earn money in jail, so why keep them there?"

As for himself, Justice Cotto doesn't keep them there. Last December he freed every alimony prisoner in the Bronx county jail, thereby setting a precedent.

"With the depression," he said, "I saw no useful purpose served in keeping these men in jail. Most of them were unable to pay and holding them in custody did their wives and children no good.

"As far as possible I shall refuse to commit for such contempt, unless of course, it is shown that refusal to pay alimony is a deliberate and willful intent to flout the court and withhold support from a wife."

The jurist, who will be called upon next fall to face about 2,000 inmate wives, waved his arms in a Latin gesture of despair.

what I'll do with them. Their husbands are out of work and can't pay. It's not only a legal problem, it's a sociological problem as well. I hope to find the answer in Europe.

Although he has passed upon many thousands of matrimonial squabbles during his nine years on the bench, Justice Cotto's hair is yet ungrayed.

During his months abroad, Justice Cotto will study the handling of alimony cases in Italy, France, Germany and England. When he returns he will report his recommendations to the appellate division of the supreme court.

Dollar Bill Bears Name of Reynolds

Hickory Record.

A dollar bill bearing the name of Smith Reynolds—evidently in the handwriting of the Winston-Salem heir to tobacco millions who was shot to death recently—came through the window at one of the teller's cages at the First National bank in Hickory, Saturday.

The name was written in ink and was as follows: "Smith Reynolds, 3-8-32."

The dollar was part of a deposit at the window presided over by Robey Houck. A little later, Sterling Menzies had his attention called to the autographed bill and he decided to take it up for keeping until he could find out what significance the signature has, if any.

"It might have been given by young Reynolds as a tip to someone who sought to have it autographed as a keepsake," was the explanation of one of the boys at the bank.

"How do you account for the 'keepsake' being in circulation now?" someone else inquired.

"The Hoover depression," was the ready answer.

And since Hoover is being given the blame for everything that seemed a logical explanation and the little group whose curiosity had been stirred, disbanded.
