Nobody's Business

Boys Of Today And Yesterday

Our 1932-model boys don't know how to have a good time. All they want is a few cigarettes, or a pair of skates, or a rumble seat, or a picture show. I am talking about boys under 10 years of age. Boys older than 10 are men nowadays, and you know the rest.

When I was a kid, I prided my self on having more grass-hopper legs in my pocket than any other 5 boys, white and black, in our community. I recall that I owned several pairs of grass-hopper legs that were of the saw-tooth variety and they measured over 3 inches long. Folks, then was legs for you; everybody talked about them.

I was also strong for snake hides that had been shed. I usually carried all of these rarities in my shirt bosom, wrapped up in shucks. They made a great display when I spread them out on the ground. I have owned as many as 250 snake-doctors. I strung my wings on a string and it was a beautiful sight, those wings—dangling about in the breezes—from bed-tick galluses.

I thought pretty well of cotton-tails, that is, the rear appendages of rabbits. They were very much like the present day powder puffs our girls use. But the only thing I did with them was—tickle the boys and girls on the back of their necks in school or elsewhere, if they were there. I accumulated 35 frog eye-balls once and made myself a cute string of beads, but they diddent wear very well.

The best toys I ever had were mud turtle and terrapin (then called tair-pin) snouts. They were fine for pinching folks, provided, of course, that the jaws had not become separated. I wore a squirrel tail on my old hat, but they became so common, I threw it away after a few months service. My greatest possession, as I now remember it, was a thumb-paper I got out of a box of cooking soda.

I generally kept a nice stock of lizard tails, jay-bird claws, owl teeth, fish fins, streakfield skins, rooster spurs, and sparrow wings. I also stayed stocked up on cross vine and rabbit tobacco for smoking purposes. I kept 2 pockets full of iron nuts, bolts, horse-shoe ends, nails, wire and other useful junk for boy-use. Yep, them were doys, but nobody would want a boy now who found the need of the many things I considered absolute essentials back there.

flat rock news

a big political meeting was hell at the ball park in our little town last week, but no serious damage was done excepp somebody stole the third base and tromped down some nice flowers at the gate. all of the speeches was verry poor and not on anny question of the day.

a movement is on foot to buy some new pews for rehober church. the ladies mission-nerry society thinks more monney can be raised now than ever befoar or after as the woods and streets and lanes are full of candydates running for offis, and they can not afford to turn down a plea for same, as we will not vote for any boddy that wont help the cause, so she says.

a bad axident took place in mr. smiths basement tuesday night while supper was on. it seems that he put too much suggar and too few raisins and some chiney berries in his home-brew and it blowed a big hole thru floor and busted his kitchen stove and cubbard all to pieces. as he is a deacon in the church, he thinks a can of gassoleen exploded, but his wife makes like she don't know what it was, as she is afraid of him.

borned to mr. and mrs. skinner jones, 2 nice babies reppersenting both genders. she will be remembered as kizzie elkins who run away with a vaudville show back yonder, but come back home and got married and has been a faithful wife and darter-in-law ever since they moved to his pas house. they will be givven national names; the boy will be called "borah" and the girl "rosey-velt." both are doing well as expected onner count of their doctor is not much thought of in his practice.

our poleesman is off on his vacation with pay in the mountains. he took his whole familey in the little fire truck, as the town furnishes gass and oil. he will be away 10 days. our mayer, mr. redd, will hold down his job while he is away and is wearing his badge and billie every day. so far, noboddy has disturbed the piece of dignity of the town, and therefore he has not benn beat up or nothing. i will rite or foam in more news tomorrow.

Visiting Mayor

Here's some competition for Mayor James J. Walker, who up to now has been known as the world's best-dressed mayor. He is Mayor A. Marquet of Bordeaux, France, who holds a similar title in his country, shown as he arrived at New York for a visit. Mayor Marquet is also a member of the French Chamber of Deputies. His visit is unofficial, but sartorially significant.

Award Shelby Marine Diploma For English

Robt. L. Freeman Who Joined Marines 18 Months Ago Gets An Award.

(Special to The Star.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—By combining his military duties with study, Private Robert Livingston Freeman, a U. S. Marine from Shelby, N. C., has succeeded in winning a diploma of proficiency in the good English course taught by the Marine Corps Institute here. With his diploma he received a letter from Major General John T. Myers, U. S. M. C., praising Freeman's work as a student.

Private Freeman, who is a son of Robert G. Freeman, of Shelby, joined the Marine corps at Charlotte about eighteen months ago, and was stationed at Parris Island, S. C. and Quantico, Va., before coming to Washington, where the institutes gives free instruction to marines who volunteer for courses.

In his letter to Freeman, General Myers wrote in part: "I congratulate you upon your excellent work in completing this course."

On Building a Church

(Read by Rev. J. F. Davis at ground breaking ceremony for Lutheran church.)

By two fixed ways a tree can stand
With its arms to heaven and its feet on land.
Its place is low where flowers are,
With head high lifted toward a star.

It feels the firm, cool earth below
And sways its arms when breezes blow.
It creeps with worms by rock and spring,
And rests the birds to hear them sing.

It's up above where birds can sing
With cheer in song and faith in everything.
It's down below where earth can weave
The clothes that to the flowers cleave.

So two worlds meet and mingle there,
With food from earth and breath from air.
By two fixed ways a tree can stand
With its arms to heaven and its feet on land.

By two fixed ways a church can stand,
With its arms to heaven and its feet on land.
Stooping low where the needy are,
It lifts its head high toward a star.

O plant the church with flowers around
To give the troubled a smile for a frown!
O raise the Cross to its place on high
To draw all people on passing by!

If Chicago's financial nplight lasts much longer, the teachers will not want back pay but pensions.—Cincinnati Times Star.

Boiling Springs News Of Interest

Mrs. White Entertains. Heavy-weight Boxer Returns To Home In New Jersey.

(Special to The Star.)

Boiling Springs, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Dean White delightfully entertained the members of the Tongues and Needles club at her home Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The business session was held. After the roll call and minutes the club discussed the furnishings of the living room in the boys' dormitory. The following committee was appointed to purchase the things needed: Mrs. S. M. Ritch, Mrs. M. A. Jolley, Mrs. J. L. Jenkins, Mrs. Z. O. Holland and Mrs. Dean White. After the business meeting an interesting "States Contest" was held. Mrs. Tom Ledford was presented a lovely vase filled with flowers as the prize.

The hostess, assisted by Master Billie White and Miss Helen Crawford served delicious ice cream, cake and nuts.

Master Billie Beason, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Belton Beason is improving after a sudden illness.

Mr. Belton Beason has returned from a business trip to Wilmington.

Mr. Lawrence Crabtree and Mr. Mike Langar of Plainsboro, New Jersey, who have been visiting Mrs. Hal Greene and Mr. Gwen Cole the past week started home Friday via the Caverns of Virginia. Mr. Crabtree is known as "Larry, the Lanky Heavyweight" in Trenton arena where he has been boxing for the past few years.

Messrs. Larry Crabtree, Mike Langor, Gwen Cole, Jack Holland and Durham Crabtree visited relatives and friends in Rutherfordton Chimney Rock and Hendersonville last week.

Mrs. Dora Champion of Shelby is spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Greene.

Mrs. C. I. Putnam and Mrs. J. R Greene are attending the short course in Raleigh this week for the members of the economics clubs throughout the state.

Dr. and Mrs. Clement Goode and two children went back to their home in Richmond, Va., after having spent their two months vacation here with Rev. J. M. Goode and in Lone Oak, Ark., with Judge Trimble.

Miss Maude Morehead of Shelby is spending this week at the home of Mrs. C. I. Putnam.

Mr. Cade Suttle spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Cline Hamrick.

Large Crowd Attends W. M. Union Meeting

Mrs. Wacaster Again Heads Union. Meeting Next Year At Boiling Springs.

(By Mrs. H. C. Roytser, Sec.)

August 29.—The annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary union was held at Double Shoals Baptist church on August 25-26. Mrs. John Wacaster and Mrs. J. C. Dodd presided.

Devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Fred Washburn, Mrs. George Herndon, Pastor J. W. Suttle, Dover Sunbeams and Mrs. H. G. Bailey.

Welcome addresses were given by Pastor J. W. Suttle and Mrs. Leland Royster. They were responded to by Mrs. Jarvis Hamrick and Louise Browne.

The following pastors were welcome visitors: J. W. Suttle, J. L. Jenkins, Gaston Camp, J. V. Devenny, L. L. Jessup, Jno. M. Walker, D. F. Putnam and T. L. Justice. They added much inspiration to the meeting.

Mrs. Jno. Wacaster spoke to us, using as her subject "Jesus Shall Reign." He has reigned, is reigning and shall reign forever" being the keynote of her message.

Miss Alva Lawrence, of Raleigh, the young people's leader of North Carolina, brought a message of interest to the union. Her subject was "Victory Through Christ." We were glad to have her in our midst for the first time.

Stewardship was presented by Rev. T. L. Justice in an educational way. Mrs. A. T. Howell spoke on state missions and Mrs. A. A. Jolley on the Baptist hospital.

Special music was furnished by Miss Zona Hord, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Royster, Miss Bertha Bostic, Miss Liles Inez and Mary Belle Cornwell.

A pageant was given by Shelby Second on Thursday night. It was entitled "The Challenge of the Cross."

On Friday morning the young people's leader presided. A good program was given by the young people of various churches.

Banners: Divisions Nos. 3 and 4 tied for the divisional banner. The leaders being Mrs. C. R. Spangler (3) and Mrs. A. A. Jolley (4). The young people's and W. M. S. banners were awarded to Double Shoals union.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Superintendent, Mrs. Jno. Wacaster; secretary and treasurer, Miss Bertha Bostic; young people's leader, Mrs J. C. Dodd; division leaders were: Mrs. J. L. Jenkins (No. 1), Mrs. A. C. Beam (No. 2), Mrs. C. R. Spangler (No. 3), Mrs. A. A. Jolley (No. 4), and Mrs. W. F. Hamrick (No. 5).

This session was adjourned to meet next year with Boiling Springs Baptist church.

The meeting was well attended and much interest was manifested.
