They are rare books and contain authentic history by Jefferson Davis who served as president of the Confederacy. Medicine Show Row Before Court Here

Employes Bring Action Against The Owner, Counter Action Brought By Minstrel Workers.

The county recorder's court, occupied its time today hearing a wage dispute that arose among members of a medicine show which has been "playing" Shelby textile villages for two or three weeks.

The action was brought by Maxie Scarborough, one-armed man, and his wife, Elia, and brother-in-law, Julian Medlin, against B. D. Bryant listed as owner of the show.

The plaintiffs sought an award of $50 which they claimed due them as pay. They were employed by Bryant they alleged to be paid $15 per week each. As a part of the matter they ran an attachment on the medicine show truck. The defendants allegation was that they went into the business on a partnership basis, the plaintiffs to divide on the profits after expenses were paid.

An action developing in the same connection brought a counter attachment against Scarborough's truck. This action was brought by three men claiming to be former employes of the Maxie Minstrel show, alleged to have been operated by Scarborough, seeking pay they claimed due them. This action is scheduled for a trial before a justice of peace this afternoon, and at 2 o'clock the evidence had not been completed in the other action.

Writes Of Reunion Of Ivester Family

(Special to The Star.)

The first annual reunion of the descendants of John and Barbara Ivester held at Crowell Ivester's home near Lawndale Saturday, September 3, was attended by 150 of the descendants.

It was a most delightful affair and greatly enjoyed by the large company. Present were a number of invited friends.

At 12:30 the association adjourned for dinner. This was an especially enjoyable feature of the day. Dinner was spread on a long table under the shade of the trees. It was covered with everything that one's appetite might wish. Following a beautiful oration of this excellent family by Rev. C. E. Ridge, and prayer, the company attacked the fine dinner consisting of chicken, ham, cake, pie, preserves, sandwiches, pickles, etc. After eating a long time we changed sides (I mean the table) yet it still held plenty of food to satisfy a number of more people.

The writer of this note began thinking of some friends that could devour some of this fine dinner, Renn Drum and Dr. Plaster were the most appropriate ones that came to his mind.

The children of John and Barbara Ivester were: Rev. Albert Ivester, Ed Ivester, Mrs. Eliza Turner, Mrs. Sarah Norman, Mrs. Melia Turner, Mrs. Pattia Hudson, Mrs. Norman and Mrs. Hudson are living. Rev. Mr. Ivester and his brother, Ed Ivester, were a power for Christianity in the northern part of this county. There are no finer citizens in the county than the descendants of these two men. Their lives and influence are still living for good in their community.

A few years ago the children of Mr. Ed Ivester, while he was living, gave in his honor a birthday anniversary. This scribe was present, also my great friends John R. Hoyle and Frank Fortenberry. Yet on last Saturday my old friends, Mr. Ivester, Mr. Hoyle, Mr. Fortenberry were not present, having crossed over the river.

It is sad. Yet out of the depths of sorrow comes beautiful thoughts. If there were no death, there would be no resurrection; if there were no resurrection there would be no heaven.

The next reunion we will have with them will be beyond the skies. CULLEN MULL

No More Cotton Will Be Dumped

Closing quotations last Saturday were at 8.33 cents.

Of the 300,000 bales of stabilization cotton which have been sold already, a great amount was shipped abroad, Stone explained. He said no stabilization holdings had been sold since June, 1930, until it was decided to release 650,000 bales before July 31 of next year.

The R. F. C. loan to the corporation and association would enable them to finance their new crops and successfully provide for their carry-overs.

Grid Prospects Not Bright Here; Boys Light, Inexperienced

Candidates for the Shelby High football eleven trotted on the city athletic field this afternoon for their third workout with Coach Casey Morris still hopeful of new players, or some more of last year's veterans, showing up.

Present prospects are none too encouraging. Only five or six of the experienced players on last year's eleven are out for the team and the newcomers on the squad are not only light but shy of experience.

May Come In

Several experienced players are back in school this week, but have not reported. If some of them manage to get their eligibility straightened out and make a bid for the team, the outlook will be brighter.

35 Boys Out

Around 35 youngsters reported for the first training periods Monday and Tuesday afternoons. In the lot are some promising youngsters out for the first time, and chances are that a number of them will be in the starting lineup of the first game on Friday, Sept. 20.

At present the backfield is giving Coach Morris more worry than anything else. It will be a light-weight ball-toting department at the best, but speed may make up for the lack in weight.

Chief among the backfield candidates is the husky fullback, Max Putnam. He will be the chief bone-crusher of the backfield as the other experienced backs are lighter.

The other veteran backs out are O. C. Connor, speedy halfback, and Williams, who looked especially good at times during his first year's playing last year. R. K. Wilson and Stuart James, both of whom have seen action in the backfield, are back in school. Neither, however, has reported. The two of them might solve Coach Morris' worries about a quarterback, but it is now doubtful if they will go out for the team.

The boys on the squad are still hopeful that they will. In the new boys are several likely looking backs, showing some ability but lacking in knowledge of the game. From the lot, however, may come two or three youngsters who will get to work some behind the line with Putnam, Connor and Williams.

Spotty Line

The line has its troubles too. It is a spotty line, meaning that in spots it looks good and other spots not so hot. If all the hoped for candidates report and stick it out the line should have some weight but may be slow. Among the line candidates already in training are Evans Logan, 240-pound husky, who can be worked at center, guard or tackle; Thurman Moore, experienced end; Harry Putnam, line sub of last year; Bill Thompson another player with several years experience; and Kendrick Jackson, guard. But Hulick has been out for training and if he comes on the eligible list and remains out should be a great help to the line. Roy Newton, the big tackle with two or three years playing experience, reported for practice, but did not show up for another. Newton's presence can mean much to the line. Along with Logan he tops the scales over 200.

Which is to say, that the team's standard is as yet a question mark.

One question mark centers about the return of Wilson, James and others to the backfield, and Hulick and Newton to the line. The other is, of course, how the new boys develop with further training.

Boxing Bout Here On Friday Night

Local Club Will Try To Get Revenge From Cherryville. Action Is Promised.

Shelby boxing fans will get another opportunity to see the Shelby Amateur Boxing club in action again Friday, Sept. 9. They are again fighting the hard fighting Cherryville club who defeated them in Cherryville two weeks ago by one bout. This time the local boys are expecting quite a different result. They have been doing some extensive training under Spangler and McCarver during the past week at the company K armory. With practically the same lineup that fought here and in Cherryville the boys are optimistic.

A valuable addition to the Shelby forces is seen in Purp Barrett. Barrett will have for his opponent Hugh Boyles, undefeated Cherryville boxer. Bob Hyder will again take on Henson Quinn, with Cook boxing Strickland and the boy who scored a knockout over Shelby last week. The admission will be very low again so as to allow all who like boxing to be able to attend. Arrangements are being made to accommodate a large crowd due to the interest of both towns in the rivalry of the two teams. The matchmakers are guaranteeing satisfaction to the fans who crave action with skill.
