

Will Use Wood In Schools For Fuel This Year

Grange Asks That Wood Be Substituted For Coal As Much As Possible.

(Star News Bureau.) Raleigh, Oct. 3.—Wood as fuel wherever practical in North Carolina this winter for schools and public buildings is suggested by officials of the division of forestry, Department of Conservation and Development.

Such a practice will not only make possible economies in necessary expenses, but will furnish additional markets for wood for the farmer and landowner and be a source of income for some of the State's unemployed.

The State Grange recently demanded that wood be substituted for coal as much as possible in heating North Carolina school buildings, thus creating a market for a North Carolina farm product and reduce the amount of money sent out of the State for school purposes. The North Carolina Farmers and Farm Women's convention commended this demand of the Grange. Some schools of the State have already begun the use of wood instead of coal.

Wood for fuel purposes can be obtained without creating an additional drain on the forests by the use of windfall and woodlands may even be benefited by thinning and cuttings for this purpose, foresters state.

P. H. Claridge, assistant State forester, cites the heat value of the several kinds of wood in North Carolina. If well seasoned, as compared to a ton of coal, as follows: one cord of hickory, oak, beech, birch, hard maple, ash, elm, locust, long leaf pine and cherry; or one and one-half cords of shagbark pine, western hemlock, red gum, Douglas fir, sycamore and soft maple; or two cords of cedar, redwood, poplar, catalpa, Norway pine, cypress, basswood, spruce or white pine each has a heat value equivalent to that in a ton of coal.

County May Make More Cotton Than Was First Thought

Almost Half Of Crop Has Been Picked But Only About Half Ginned Now.

With warm weather opening a big percentage of the bolls it is now estimated that Cleveland county will this year make more cotton than was figured upon earlier in the fall. The crop, however, will fall considerably shy of the 64,000-bale record.

Cotton men today predicted that the total crop would run around 40,000 bales, and perhaps up to 45,000. Early in the year many predicted that the crop would not even reach 40,000. More bales have been ginned to date than last year but the crop is from two to three weeks earlier than in 1931. The last ginning report stated that over 6,000 bales had been ginned, 4,000 more than to the same date last year. Approximately half of the crop is believed to be picked but only a little more than a third has been ginned. The next ginning report for the county will be made public next week, covering the ginning to the first of October.

Sterchi Interior Is Newly 'Dressed Up'

Visitors to Sterchi's this week will be attracted by the complete new appearance of the interior of the store. Modern furniture displays, new office arrangement, new fall stocks, new wall paper and side-wall decorations have all changed the inside of the store to a new and attractive place for fall furniture shoppers.

Since the summer auction sales, when stocks were cleared for this work, the management has been busy making Sterchi's bright and modern for their fall opening which begins this week. In many departments new popular lines of merchandise have been added to round out the stocks to make Sterchi's a complete shopping center for furniture and furnishings. The store is literally filled with new merchandise in anticipation of increased fall business.

Heaven Bound At Colored Church

A religious play given with natural fervor, will be presented by the colored teachers of Shelby and Cleveland county at the Washington (colored) Baptist church just south of Waco on Saturday evening, October 8th, beginning at 8 o'clock. The title of the play is "Heaven Bound." This play has been given over a wide territory, including Asheville, Spartanburg, Newton, Gaffney, Clover, Belmont, and Morganton. This play has been largely sponsored by some of the most prominent white clubs and other organizations. It carries strong moral lessons. Special seats will be reserved for white people.

Independent India in Decade Prediction of Gandhi Envoy

Says British Submission on Electoral Plan Saved Gandhi's Life, Prevented Bloody Revolution and Significant Step Towards Freedom.

That the recent compromise between the British Government and Mahatma Gandhi not only saved the great Indian leader from starving himself to death, but also prevented a bloody revolution is the contention of Vithalbhai J. Patel, former Lord Mayor of Bombay and president of the Indian Legislative Assembly, now on a visit to this country. Furthermore, Mr. Patel confidently predicted that another ten years would see Mother India free of the shackles of allegiance to Great Britain. The former Mayor of Bombay, who is here as personal ambassador of Mahatma Gandhi, of whom he is said to be the closest friend, sees in the British surrender on the electoral plan the first sign that the grip of the empire is breaking. But he asserts there is still a long fight ahead. The struggle for independence now being waged by his country is, he says, not only India's affair but of importance to the entire world. For world trade and the world economic structure cannot thrive as long as vast regions like India are held in bondage and exploited to the benefit of one nation. The Indian statesman paid a tribute to George Washington by referring to our first President as "India's inspiration in the fight for liberty and independence," when he laid a wreath on Washington's tomb at Mount Vernon.

Jonas And Frazier At Republican Rally

Clifford Frazier and Charles A. Jonas, Republican candidates for governor and congressman from the 10th district, and county candidates from Lincoln, Cleveland, Catawba and Burke counties staged a four-county rally Saturday at North Brook school house in west Lincoln county.

Frazier spoke in the morning, giving a resume of his platform and program, and citing figures showing the indebtedness of the state. Dinner was served on the ground picnic style, and in the afternoon Jonas spoke, citing the indebtedness of the United States after the World war and depicting the reduction of national indebtedness during the last three Republican administrations.

He praised President Hoover for his leadership in the great period of world-wide depression and pointed to his program for rehabilitation. Approximately 700 people attended from the four counties.

District Meeting For Junior Order

Announcement is made that a district meeting of the Junior Order for the fifth district will be held Saturday, Oct. 8, at Cliffside. In addition to the speakers on the program there will be a concert by 16 children from the Juniors orphan home at Lexington. It is hoped to have a good representation from Cleveland, Lincoln and Rutherford counties in the district.

Washburn On College Debate Team at Wake

Wake Forest, Oct. 3.—Twenty-one men turned out last week to compete for places on the 1932 Wake Forest college debate squad and others are expected later. Dr. J. Rice Quisenberry, coach, stated today.

Wake Forest this year is defending southern debate champion, having won last season the tournament sponsored by the Southern Association of Teachers of Speech. Two members of last year's championship team are among those who reported, and there are some promising recruits from junior colleges.

Wyan Washburn, of Shelby, is a member of the team.

New York Takes Four Games From Chicago In Series

Yanks Hammer 5 Pitchers To Win Last Contest With Heavy Hitting.

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 3.—In a rip-roaring climax that smashed old world series records and blasted the last faint National League hopes to fragments, the New York Yankees rode rough shod yesterday to their third successive clean sweep in baseball's classic championship.

By the record-busting score of 13 to 6, the American League champions overpowered and routed the last vestige of the defense of the Chicago Cubs. Five Bruin pitchers failed in the last attempt to stop this steam roller as the Yankees pounded out their fourth successive victory, thereby running their unprecedented winning streak to an even dozen triumphs over the National League in the combined campaigns of 1927-28-32.

There has never been anything like it in baseball history. The statisticians as well as the Cubs were dazed and shell-shocked after the last big bombardment, in the ninth, had been delivered against the veteran Burleigh Grimes. Another big crowd, estimated at close to 50,000, left silently and in awe of those mighty men from the big town after an afternoon of wild but futile encouragement to the home forces.

It was all over, for another year of battered spirits in the ranks of the National League, beaten back after enjoying the thrill of only one season at the top of the baseball roost. But the echoes lingered on of this last Yankee outburst, as uncontrollable as a herd of wild elephants on the loose.

Where Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig had pounded the Cub ramparts to pieces the day before with a thrilling exhibition of long range batting, their team mates rushed in to complete the job of mopping up the bewildered Chicagoans. There was the wildest kind of uproar as Ruth, the great man himself, fanned twice with men on bases but the base hitting bats of Earle Combs, Joie Sewell, Tony Lazzeri and Bill Dickey did more than enough damage to offset the Babe's failures.

Lazzeri, recovering his batting eye for the first time in the series, smashed out two home runs. Combs knocked another over the bleacher fence and crossed the plate four times altogether. These two, with Sewell and Dickey, each contributed three hits apiece to the grand total of 19, one short of the world series record, accumulated by the Yankees.

Democratic Women Meet In Raleigh

Bob Reynolds." There was applause after that remark by the former secretary of the navy, who is spending a few days in Raleigh taking time out from a campaign tour in the west in behalf of the Democratic presidential nominee.

"President Hoover promised the women in 1928 they need not have any fear for jobs for their husbands," Daniels said. "Women have long memories and hold people responsible for what they say and promise."

Senator Bailey warned against "over confidence," declaring the strength of the Republican party must not be underestimated. To carry the state and nation, he said, Democrats must make "a prodigious fight and an intelligent fight."

"We must not put our hope for victory on pink teas, ballyhoo and cheap attacks on President Hoover," Bailey said. "This is a campaign of principle, not one of celebration." It was Reynolds who said, "Women of the country are going to see that the house is cleaned on November 8."

"They are going to see that there is fair play between the classes and the masses," he added. He named the women leaders, more than 100 of whom attended the meeting, as "ladies of democracy."

Ehringhaus declared women in politics were not "a decoration, but a useful and needful necessity." Mrs. Palmer Jerman, national Democratic committeewoman, Mrs. O'Berry and Wallace Winborne, state Democratic chairman, also made short talks.

In the afternoon the women were guests of Mrs. Gardner, wife of the governor, at a tea at the executive mansion.

Working Wives To Fight For Jobs

ered against allowing married women to be gainfully employed." Mrs. Thacker declared the effort of some persons to remove married women from industry was only the beginning of an attempt to eliminate all women from the business and professional world.

"Women have fought valiantly for the right of suffrage, but to vote in a country where you had no right to work would be rather a sorry travesty upon freedom," she said.

"Of the million married women gainfully employed in this country at the present time, 95 per cent are working because of economic necessity and are turning over all their earnings to the family," she continued.

Membership in the National Association of Working Women is limited to working women of mature age. It was said that the organization is not interested in the young girl "who is working as a stopgap between school and marriage."

So airplanes are great things because they enabled executives to get there quicker to fix the world like this.

Estimate Over 150,000 At Fair

but generally speaking the conduct and demeanor of the large throng was unusually good. With over 150,000 people assembling in one place for a good time it is considered unusual that there were no serious mishaps and that practically all arrests were for more or less petty offenses.

Just what feature of the fair proved the biggest drawing card with visitors cannot be determined, but it is figured that the free-act program, presented twice daily, and the fireworks each night were the highlights. Special attractions which drew many were the A. K. C. dog show, the dairy judging contest and the cattle show.

Considering that it has been a bad year for the average farm crops which are displayed the agricultural exhibits were unusually good. The school and educational displays were as excellent as in the past, and taken as a whole the eighth fair is credited with being the best held although there were not as many entries as in two previous years. An error held down the number of entries in the poultry show. By mistake national poultry show entry blanks were mailed out and carried the information that all birds entered would be charged an admission fee of 50 cents each. This kept scores of birds out of the show as in reality there was no admission charge.

Praised Kidnappers

Happy at being back home with mother and dad, 8-year-old John Russell, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who was kidnapped and held for ransom, but returned when the chase got too hot, nevertheless had a good word to say for his abductors, John, unable to give a description of the men, told how they told him jokes and showed him comic strips to keep him entertained.

Admission fee of 50 cents each. This kept scores of birds out of the show as in reality there was no admission charge.

Cotton Holds After Rise On Saturday

Practically Unchanged From Saturday's Close, Japan To Draw Cotton Supplies.

Cotton was holding steady today after Saturday's slight come-back. Oct'd was quoted at 2 o'clock at 6.91, Dec. 7.02 as compared with Saturday's close of Oct. 6.90, Dec. 7.00.

Cleveland's letter today reads: Rains recorded in Texas, Ga. and S. C. over Sunday, 1.10 at Palestine. Rain is forecast for Oklahoma and West Texas and showers for all other cotton states except Arkansas. Manchester cable says "there are signs of a broadening in the cotton buyers price ideas too it actual results below expectation, unsettled cotton adverse factors, N. Y. Herald reports from industrial centers are more favorable. Week-end in North St. dull account holiday, print cloth prices are called stabilized with buyers keeping an eye on raw cotton 60 by 64 cents. Exchange service says Japanese mills to draw from large supplies of cotton which they bought from America last season. Further rains in south likely to check hedge selling.

On the Way Up With Roosevelt and Garner!

The Major Issue the Economic Situation

Two-thirds of American industry is concentrated in a few hundred corporations and actually managed by not more than five thousand human individuals, Franklin Roosevelt pointed out in his Columbus speech. The choice is between economic bondage—control of the government by a handful of privileged men—or a return to the fundamental principles of True Democracy upon which this country in the past has prospered. Do you want equality of opportunity for all—the right of exploitation for none? Do you want to reclaim and restore your interest in America?

★ Join the Shareholders in America

The Shareholders in America are organized to reclaim the equity of the Forgotten Man in America—to provide the necessary contributions to carry on the campaign to elect Franklin Roosevelt and John N. Garner—and to restore the government to the people. Don't delay—sign and send in the coupon below—with your contribution of One Dollar—at once! On the way up with Roosevelt and Garner!
