

Nobody's Business

By GEE McGEE

The country school I attended when I was a boy (and by the way, that's the only kind of school I ever attended) and had a great many rivals in it. Eb Green for instance showed us one day how he could wiggle his ears, but Jim Smith's and showed us how he could wiggle only one ear at the time, and that got Eb's goat.

Joe Brown could walk on his hands and he thought he had that stunt all to himself, but before anybody had time to get his breath, Bob Dummitt was hopping about, over the school grounds on his right hand, and zipp went Joe's notoriety. Elsie Burket could dig a hole in the ground with her big toe, but Susie Scott showed us how to dig holes with her little toe, and that nearly killed Elsie.

I was the only kid in the bunch that could hold his breath till Kim Jones could count 125; Kim was our fastest counter till Ella Kinard took that honor away from him. She could almost double count Kim. He began to lose flesh after being out-done. Bob Seward could pop his knees better than anybody else, so he thought, but on Friday at big recess, Elsie Stripling got up on a desk and popped her knees 33 times. Bob was never the same after that.

Jerry White was the only scholar in school that could look at the sun for 5 minutes without sneezing. No one ever out-looked Jerry. Sallie Ellis could poke her tongue out further than anybody else till Kit Corbett turned up one day. Sallie never spoke to him again, as he had her skint half the length of a state pencil. Zoe Perkins was the only girl that could hold a pencil between her lip and nose and write her name.

Pete Wilson could bat his eyes faster than any other person. Elsie Burt could dive the longest; Lillie White could turn around the most times without getting drunk, and none of my brothers always led in playing mumble peg. Ike Molten was the only guy that would let you pour water in his mouth and make it run out his nose, and he could blow smoke from cross-vine thru his ears. He was smart.

Jule Nixon had the most rotten teeth, and Sam Speer prided himself on always having the greatest number of toe nails missing. Spike Lanford could chew the biggest quid of rabbit tobacco and spit the furthest. Perry Moore could start a fire with a stick, and Homer Ouitz could make the best whirrigigs. I was mighty proud of all these remarkable friends, but I was not a leader in any of these great marathons, yet, I could chew faster than most of them.

The baptizing which was planned to be held at reboher last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock a. m., was put off on account of the water was too cold, the 4 new members of the church (which was saved at the last series of meetings) will be baptised next summer if some water can't be bet in the pool before then.

Dr. berry green too kone of his patience to the hospitable last week to have a garter cut out of 'her' throat. her name was Mrs. archieball smith. he done the work his self and did not call on a specialist. she was brought back to flat rock 3 days later and berried by her last husband.

The widdler eddison has lost or misplaced her fine imported cat with a black spot on his tail, and she is offering a reward of c25 for the return of same. when last saw on tuesday, she was being chased by Mr. ford's hound dog. he got poisoned the next day on a biscuit rite or foam all information about the cat. she ancers to the name of flossie sue, and get the money named above.

a right smart of government cloth is being distributed amongst our unemployed, but red cross flour is short. if uncle sam don't furnish no more flour, the cloth won't help much, as a fellow might as well starve naked as with a suit on his body, some of them may have to go to work before this depression is over and forgot.

since Mr. and Mrs. bernie akin got their new auto, they drive to the county seat ever other day and buy c60 worth of gasoleen and c15 worth of coal. they use it by the turn, but they say it is cheaper to keep only about 3 fires ahead since they bought the super-6, and stay in most of the time. he is a government inspector of bean beetles and his salary has not been cut.

after 2 or 3 years running at a loss, our railroad has reduced its prices on tickets, you can go to cedar lane for c10; if useter be c20, the bus has busted as he charged c25, they no doubt will get the c. c. to let them use common sense sooner or later and cut fruit rates, the engineer says he would just as soon haul a load as run empty.

Disappointing

The girl was only 20. He was 50. But he was fairly good looking, and wealthy.

He looked into her eyes, and she shyly dropped her head. "I'm a lonely man," he said, and there was a faint tremor in his voice. It's time I had someone to look after me. Someone to take care of me, cook for me, warm my slippers at night.

Yes, she said, expectantly. Perhaps your mother could recommend a good housekeeper?

Business As Usual Her Motto

Although her husband has been chosen for the highest honor within the gift of the nation, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who will soon become "First Lady of the Land," goes about her usual business just as if nothing had happened. The wife of the President-elect is shown here as she left her New York home the morning after election day to teach her class at the Toddhunter School. With Mrs. Roosevelt is her granddaughter, "Sissy" Dall who is one of her pupils.

Echoes From Former Citizen In Texas

Tells Of Campbell And Young, Also Natives Of This Section.

Writing for a missing copy of The Star, Clarence C. Stamey, formerly of Fallston now in Lubbock, Texas says, "I am more than pleased that we are to have a Democratic president and a Democratic house and senate."

"Rev. R. C. Campbell, who was born and reared at Hollis is the pastor of the largest Baptist church and Sunday school in the city. I enjoy hearing him preach. The Methodists have the next largest congregation and Sunday school and have the finest buildings. Texas has a big school here known as "Teach College" and they have about 2,000 students. The city schools are good but I do not know the number enrolled. The last census in 1930 gave the population of Lubbock at 20,500, but it will grow near 25,000 now. I came here my first time in May, 1924, and the population then was not over 4,000. Mr. C. P. Young, a brother of C. S. Young of Shelby lives here. They raise mostly cotton but do no picking, but pull the bolls and let the gins do the rest. This makes a poor grade. I send love to all old Cleveland."

Shelby Writer Relates Tragic Story Of Death

Johnny McKnight Reports Tidal Wave Which Claimed 1,000 Lives In Cuba.

(The following story of the tidal wave which swept southern Cuba last week, claiming 1,000 lives and leaving an entire section devastated, was reported by John P. McKnight, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McKnight, who is the Cuban representative of the Associated Press.)

Camaguey, Cuba, Nov. 14.—A train from the south bore its quota of injured refugees from Santa Cruz Del Sur Friday—tragic evidence of the fury of a tidal wave that almost swept the town off the map of Cuba.

A few could tell their stories, others were dazed and mute, and some were unconscious, dying.

It was hard to determine just what happened from these pitiful groups as they lay in the various emergency hospitals in Camaguey.

The storm first struck, they said, during Tuesday night, and some 500 residents began moving out of their homes to the surrounding countryside.

But the rest of the 4,000 residents remained with their belongings. They lived through a 100-mile an hour wind, but little did they dream that behind it was a twenty-foot wall of water.

Suddenly out of the blackness just before dawn the crash of fishing boats in the harbor—70 of them were destroyed—notified the town it was doomed.

There was time for little besides mad dashing for a safety that could not be found anywhere. Jose Diaz, the Santa Cruz station agent, said hundreds crowded about five empty boxcars on a railway siding. He couldn't say why, unless they thought the cars were too heavy for the tide to move.

Diaz took refuge on the station and watched the terror-stricken group below clamber inside the cars. Then the main force of the water hit the big hulks broadside, toppling four and drowning all the occupants. The other floated into the swirling water, and was carried nearly a mile to dry land.

Hundreds Buried.

Three-story houses and business buildings snapped like matches, and hundreds were buried beneath debris. A survivor told how his wife was carried down with their home while he and his children were swept with it to safety.

The storm lasted twelve hours and the water began going down Friday. A hasty check revealed the town with but a few city officials to run it in its greatest emergency.

Among the dead were Mayor-elect Juan Vega Barzaga, and his father, Representative Antonio Martinez Barzaga, Judge Rafael Cruz, the postmaster and his eight children, and nine city councillors.

said the authorities were on the point of ordering wholesale cremation because the able-bodied citizens could not bury the dead fast enough. The correspondent of the newspaper Camagueyano said a nine-car train bearing 450 wounded was on the way. Only a few were still searching despairingly last night for relatives.

There were heart-breaking scenes as the last of the three refugee trains arrived last night. Those among earlier arrivals who were not seriously injured gathered in a knot about the railway station and eagerly scanned the pallets in the cars.

Dead.

One would cry out at the sight of an injured relative, and hastily whisper, "Where's Jose Maria?" or "Where's Carlos?" and the answer was always the same: "Dead."

Must Work For Relief Aid Is Order Of State

Relief Director Says Work Will Be Required To Guard Against "Dependence."

Raleigh.—Persons receiving relief aid from the state "will be compelled to work for what they receive," and local communities getting money from the federal loan to the state will be required to produce a large part of the aggregate relief funds expenses, Dr. Fred Morrison, state relief director, said.

Dr. Morrison described the two requirements as "fundamental principles" which will govern the administration of emergency relief in the state.

Work will be required, the director said, "to guard against permanent dependence of those applying for assistance upon the public for their livelihood." Federal funds, he added, must be considered as "merely supplementary" to local relief money.

The work projects to which applicants for relief will be assigned will be makeshifts and artificial creations, but logical, defensible and worthwhile, Dr. Morrison said. It is "conceivable" to relief workers "that hundreds of thousands of dollars will be expended this winter throughout the state on these uses, and constructive enterprises."

statement from relief officer said.

All Co-operating.

"To this end," it continued, "cities, counties, towns, school boards and other public and private agencies are co-operating . . . in providing suitable work for this character."

"Any creative and improvement project of a building or semi-public nature, from road building, school house construction, beautification of public grounds, building of water and sewage lines, constructing recreational centers and parks and playgrounds, is considered a legitimate program under which local and governmental funds may be united."

A state-wide highway beautification program, using relief labor, is being formulated by E. B. Jeffreys, chairman of the state highway commission, it was stated.

Governor O. Max Gardner, who is responsible for the distribution of the federal loan, is demanding that "these funds shall be so administered in the state as not to produce serious and unfavorable social repercussions," the statement continued.
