Holland Is Winner In Tuesday Voting

Elected Alderman For Ward One
Receives 1,214 Votes To 420 For Washburn In Run-Off, Austell Formally Elected.

Roland G. Holland, popular textile mill official, was elected alderman for Ward One in Shelby's second, or run-off, election yesterday in which a record number of 1,634 people voted.

Of the 1,634 voters cast, a total vote almost equal to the high vote record in regular elections prior to this year, Mr. Holland received 1,214, while his opponent, P. M. Washburn, present alderman of Ward One received 420. Holland, in other words, led off 19 votes of securing three-fourths of those cast.

In Ward Three.
Yesterday also J. P. Austell was formally elected alderman of Ward Three. He was high man in the first round Tuesday week ago with C. H. Reinhardt, runner-up, but he did not receive a majority and it was necessary to place his name on the ticket yesterday for the purpose of recording the required legal majority. Mr. Austell, being unopposed as Mr. Reinhardt did not enter the run-off, received a total of 1,003 votes.

The voting was unusually heavy and practically double that of previous years. Heretofore in regular elections the city has cast around 1,700 votes. But in the regular election last week over 2,000 votes were cast, and yesterday almost as many votes were polled as in regular elections of years previous to 1933.

How They Voted.
Ward one, more interested in the outcome than any other, cast the highest vote, a total of 323. South Shelby ranked next with 292, while Ward Three cast 334 votes, Ward Four 203 and Ward Two 182.

Holland's heaviest vote was 376 to 16 in South Shelby and his second heaviest was 359 to 173 in Ward One, where Washburn also received his heaviest vote. The closest vote was in Ward Four where Holland received 105 and Washburn 97.

The New Board.
With the run-off election now history the new administration taking office July 1, will be composed of the following: Roland G. Holland, mayor-re-elected; Roland G. Holland, alderman Ward One; D. W. Royster, alderman Ward Two, re-elected; J. P. Austell, alderman Ward Three; and W. C. Harris, alderman Ward Four.

On the surface there seemed to be no great political interest yesterday. Mr. Holland received 1,214 and voting was steady throughout the entire day, those closely affiliated with the contest being surprised at the total vote cast.

Voters Of North Carolina Will Decide Whiskey Problem In Nov.
Senate Passes House Measure Calling For State Election On Repeat.
(Special To The Star)
Raleigh, May 10.—North Carolinians will have an opportunity in November of this year to vote at a special "general" election whether they want a convention to act on the congressional amendment to repeal the eighteenth amendment from the constitution of the United States. At the same time they will elect delegates to the convention—120, apportioned on the same basis as the house of representatives.

Provisions for such an election are contained in a bill introduced by Representative Walter Murphy of Rowan, which passed the senate by a 36 to 6 vote on final reading.

The vote on second reading was 34 to 8. The bill received precisely the required number of votes, two-thirds of the entire membership.

An advisory opinion of the state supreme court recently was handed down upon the constitutionality of such an election, the court voting 4 to 1 for its validity. Associate Justice Heriot Clarkson dissented.

The election will mark the first time since 1908, when state-wide prohibition was adopted, that the Tar Heel electorate will have voted on the liquor issue.

The eighteenth amendment was adopted in this state in the first measure passed by the 1919 legislature. Ballots will be cast on the question "Convention or no convention," and delegates to the proposed convention, which will meet in early December in Raleigh, will be elected at the same time.

The supreme court two months ago ruled that an election this year would be invalid, saying the convention proposition must be voted on at the next general election, which would be in November, 1934. However, Representative Murphy
