The government plan is to pay a farmer six cents per pound for the estimated amount of cotton destroyed by the farmer. The farmer will thus save the further cost of cultivation and harvesting and at the same time be permitted to option cotton through the government in order to benefit by a rising price. R. W. Shoffner, farm agent; and E. L. Dillingham, P. M. Coley and H. P. Winchester, agricultural teachers in the county schools, were in Charlotte yesterday and had the plan explained in detail to them. All next week these men will attend meetings over the county and explain the two plans to farmers. At these meetings farmers will be asked to sign contracts pledging reduction after the plan is explained to them. Every farmer is urged to attend at least one of the meetings and hear the program fully outlined

License To Open Bank Is Awaited

All requirements as to the reorganization of the First National bank have been met as set out in the Plan of Reorganization and license to open is now awaited from the comptroller of the currency at Washington.

A letter stating that all requirements have been met and that the Reconstruction Finance corporation had made the promised loan of $550,000 went forward last night by special delivery, air mail, to the comptroller. After he has made a check-up and given his final approval, he will issue the necessary license. Publication must be made in a newspaper 24 hours before the opening.

Attorney For Widow Prepares Brief

Originally Reported That County Not Liable But That Sheriff Might Be.

The full state compensation com mission may hear two contested angles of the compensation suit centering about the fatal shooting here on December 31, 1932 of Deputy Sheriff Ewart W. Saunders,

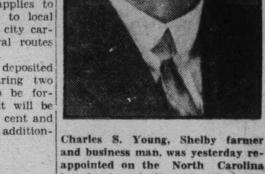

Commissioner J. Dewey Dorsett heard the first evidence in the case here last week and it was reported then that he expressed the opinion that the county was not liable for damage or for compensation to the widow, Mrs. Ella Saunders. This opinion, it was understood at the ime, was based upon the belief that Deputy Saunders was an appointee of the sheriff and not a ull-time salaried county employe. In view of that opinion Peyton Mc-Swain, attorney for the county and I. M. Allen, sheriff at that time, asked to be heard before it was ruled that the sheriff would be liable, Judge John P. Mull, representing the widow of the officer, also asked to be heard in his contention that the county was liable. The understanding now is that briefs were prepared by both sides and forwarded to Raleigh. Word has been received here that formal opinion will be handed down soon as to whether the county or sheriff, either of them or neither is liable.
