2 More States Vote Repeal

By UNITED PRESS
The wet parade rolled on today with the additional momentum of two more States which have voted for repeal. The voters of Arkansas and Alabama, the first Southern States to vote on repeal, yesterday voted for repeal of the prohibition amendment by substantial margins. Although an official count was not available both States were safely in the repeal column. Arkansas by a ratio of five to three, and Alabama by three to two. This makes 18 out of 36 States voting which have voted for repeal, or half of the 36 necessary to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. Tennessee, another Southern State, is voting today.

Over 300 Income Tax-Payers Listed For This County

Mecklenburg County Has More Paying Income Tax Than Any Other County.

A total of 342 citizens of Cleveland county paid income tax during the calendar year of 1931, according to a report of the treasury department from Washington. Stolen Watermelons Get Boys 3 Months

Two Negro Youths Sent To Gang For Stealing Watermelons From Patch.

It's a chain gang offense to steal watermelons—provided those who do the stealing are reluctant about working. In county court here today William Sander and Willie Diggs, colored youths, were given sentences of three months each on the state gang for stealing watermelons. They were charged with stealing around 25 melons from the patch of Garland White in No. 3 township.

Watermelon stealing isn't regarded as any more serious offense these days than in the past, it was intimated in court, but testimony brought out was that the two youths seldom ever worked and were not considered particularly good assets to the community.

Shelby Post Office On Preferred List

View 3 Temporary Locations Here

Bids Should Be Submitted To Postmaster Quinn By Friday July 28th.

Washington, July 19.—The proposed new postoffice at Shelby has been placed on the preferred list by the supervising architect, as among those listed postoffices which will be built from previously appropriated funds as soon as the President issues an executive order lifting the previously made order.

The appropriation for the Shelby postoffice building is $76,500. The supervising architect, in anticipation of the President at a near date lifting the stop-order, has advertised for bids to be submitted by July 28, for new temporary quarters for the Shelby postoffice. It was stated at the office of the supervising architect that these bids would be received and that the contract would be awarded to the most satisfactory bidder as soon as funds were made available. The treasury department has also advertised for bids to be received until August 1 for special lighting fixtures in the new Greensboro postoffice building.

Three locations will probably be offered as temporary quarters for the Shelby postoffice while the government building is being enlarged. When inspectors were here a few days ago they looked over what locations they thought would meet the requirements and so far the three locations which might be offered are the Arey Building off South Washington street, the J. N. Dellinger store room in the Hamrick Arcade building on West Marion street and the old Farmers Hardware Co. building on S. Lafayette street now occupied by Schneider's store.

The specifications are rather rigid and call for the expenditure of considerable money at any temporary location, but it is understood the

Fight With Hoes Aired In Court

Negro Boy And Girl Bound To Court Over Injury Of White Girl.

After a hearing in county court this morning Odell Hudley, colored youth, and his sister, Laura, were bound to Superior court on a charge of assault with deadly weapon. Alex Swink, white man, was fined $15 and the costs in the same case.

The case developed from a fight said to have been staged between the two young negroes and Swink and his daughter, Fannie, in a cotton field on the V. A. Powell place on May 30. Fannie Swink was struck on the head with a hoe and severely injured, being in the hospital in Shelby for three weeks. The Hudleys said they were in a field they were working while the Swinks said they were in their own field when the mix-up took place. The colored girl was alleged to have been struck by a rock thrown by Swink while Swink was hit by a rock thrown by the colored boy. The white girl who was injured said she was hit with a hoe by the colored boy, but the colored girl testified that she did the hitting and not her brother and her brother gave the same testimony. All were tenants upon the Powell farm.

Textile Mills Start Cautiously In 40-Hour Per Week Work Program

Executives In 'Uncertain Stage,' Will Have To See Later Whether They Can Take Workers.

Charlotte, July 19.—Starting cautiously because it has never before been regulated by Federal law, the Carolina textile industry this week joined cotton mills of the nation in putting into effect the new code of fair competition. Operatives worked only eight hours, and they got more for their time than heretofore, but only one mill in the two states reported adding new employees while another discharged 65 persons because of the 80-hour limitation on operation of productive machinery.

Most mills, however, were inclined to wait until the change in operations can be given a trial. Executives said they were at an "uncertain stage" and would have to see whether more workers were needed. Virtually all mills state they expected to "add a few" employees later.

Employment Board Is Selected Here

Five Men To Act In Advisory Capacity. Will Select Director For The County.

Five men have been named as the re-employment bureau for Cleveland county to act in an advisory capacity with a director to be named by them to supervise labor employment under the public works act of the recent congress.

This bureau is composed of J. D. Lineberger, A. E. Cline, John Schenck, Jr., S. A. McMurry and Les B. Weathers and will be separate and apart from the relief office which will continue to operate as heretofore.

Mr. Lineberger sent the names of the above committee to Raleigh this week but has not stated just what the duties of the board will be. They will select a director who will handle all of the work, seeing that unemployed men are put on all public works carried on under the national recovery act. They will see that there is no unnecessary shift of labor from one section to the other, that labor hours on public work jobs are adhered to and keep a record of available unemployed and the qualification for any particular kind of work.

At all times the unemployment bureau will work in co-operation with the relief department, which will continue to dispense aid to relief cases as long as funds are available.

Cleveland Loses 13 Teachers From New School Plan

Shelby Has Total Of 112

First Cut Down 15. Committees Issued Orders About Operating School Buses.

When the rural schools of Cleveland county begin operating next week they will have 13 less teachers than they had last year despite an enrollment increase.

Under the former school plan the county would have been entitled to four additional teachers this year, but under the new state-wide eight months set-up the anticipated additional teachers were not secured and the county board was notified that 15 others would have to be cut off. J. H. Grigg, county superintendent, made a trip, however, to Raleigh this week, explained the hardships that would be necessitated by a cut of 15 more teachers and had the reduction lessened to 13 instead of 15. Last year the county had 204 teachers in the rural schools and this year will have only 191.

How Reduced
Those of the 16 new districts, under which the schools of the county are now operated, lost teachers as follows: Fallston 3; Bolling Springs, 2; and No. 1, Mooresboro, Bethware, Waco, Casar, Belwood, Lattimore and Piedmont one each.

All the rural schools in the county start Monday of next week with the exception of Lattimore which opens tomorrow, Thursday. Sup't. Grigg stated today that the state school commission had ordered that the committees in all the newly outlined districts meet some time before Monday to arrange their truck or bus routes. Definite instructions were issued to eliminate the transportation of all pupils who live within a radius of two miles of the school they attend. The committees are also instructed to eliminate all

Four Thousand Jars For Relief Gardens

People Responded Well To Call For Jars Issued By The Relief Department Here.

There was a ready and willing response to the call for unused jars from the relief bureau, according to Mrs. Harry Speck. She says over 4,000 jars were made available as a result of this appeal through The Star.

The county's requirements was 17,500 and a quantity of jars was bought by the relief bureau to furnish those who were encouraged to plant their own gardens and not depend on the relief department for their food. Many gardens were planted and in each community there was appointed a woman experienced in canning and preserving who taught others in her community who had not had the experience. Thousands of jars of fruits and vegetables have been and will be conserved as a result of the encouragement the relief bureau has given to families not accustomed to stocking their pantry with supplies.

Take Fingerprints In Robbery Affair

Burrus Johnson, colored, also known as Burrus Macy, was taken to Charlotte today by Deputy Bob Kendrick and Policeman McBride Poston to have his fingerprints made in connection with the robbery last week of William Hagley's Shelby tailor shop last week. Several suits and an overcoat were taken from the shop, entrance being made by a window.

Shortly thereafter Johnson was arrested by Deputy Kendrick on suspicion and since fingerprints were found at the scene of the robbery he was taken to Charlotte to determine if they were made by him.

Polkville Youths To State Contest Held In Capital

Charles Beam To Compete In Two Contests. Other Youths Are Officers.

Four members of the Polkville chapter of the Young Tar Heel Farmers organization, accompanied by Prof. E. L. Dillingham, agricultural teacher, left yesterday for Raleigh to attend the State meeting of the organization and to compete in several State-wide contests. Those going were Charles Beam, Ben Jenkins, Jr., Clayton Covington, Erastus Grigg, and Hugh Lee Warlick.

Young Beam will represent Piedmont North Carolina in two contests. One will be the State-wide speaking contest, and the other the State-wide livestock and meat judging contest. Public Recovery Drive Turns Upon Methods Of Putting Others To Work

More Industrial Codes Are Received As Campaign In Nation Is Outlined.

Washington, July 19.—With almost a million mill workers tackling their jobs under the stimulus of higher pay, plans were fashioned at the industrial administration this week for summoning the whole force of public opinion behind the national endeavor to open more jobs and fill additional salary envelopes. Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, called in his staff of advisors to check over every detail of the preparations for a campaign modeled after the liberty loan drives of the World War days to unite the citizenry behind the recovery efforts.

Closest secrecy surrounded the formulation of the plans but there were indications they were almost ready to be made public. Higher pay than they received Saturday was the inducement that

To Issue Orders Late In Week

Official Approval By Local Committees All Necessary To Begin Plowing.

More than 2,000 Cleveland county farmers, who signed the government's cotton acreage reduction contracts, may start plowing up their cotton early next week, or several days earlier than had been anticipated.

R. W. Shoffner, farm agent, who has charge of the reduction program in the county, was notified last night that farmers will not have to await formal orders from Washington to begin plowing up the cotton pledged for destruction. When their contracts are officially passed upon and approved by the township committees and the county committee then farmers will be notified that they may start plowing up their cotton. This notification will be in the form of an approval certificate signed by the farm agent and no farmer should begin plowing until that is received. It was first announced that no plowing could be done until farmers were officially notified from Washington. It was, however, decided to speed up this plan in order that the cotton might be plowed up and other crops put in before it was too late.

Coming Friday

Although a majority of the contracts have already been approved by the township and county committees, plowing orders cannot be issued until the certificate blanks are received from Washington. Mr. Shoffner said today that these would be sent by Friday and that in all probability he could begin mailing them out by Saturday. All certificates which will notify farmers that their estimates, etc., have been approved by the committees will be mailed out and it will not be necessary for farmers to apply at the agents' office. With the certificates likely to be mailed out Saturday and Monday it is expected that early next week farmers may begin turning under close

Webb's Orchard Has Big Peach Crop Now

Buffalo Mtn. Farm Has 3,600 Bearing Fruit Trees. Crop Up To Normal.

The peach crop on Tom Webb's Buffalo Mountain farm is up to normal this year and the harvest is on. The Buffalo Mountain farm is located near Toluca where four counties corner—Burke, Cleveland, Lincoln and Catawba. Truckmen haul the peaches to the nearby county seats and industrial centers within a radius of 25 miles over a fine system of roads. Toluca has more roads radiating from that point than Shelby and the highway commission is considering the paving of the highways from Toluca to Newton and Toluca to Hickory.

Mr. Webb has 3,600 bearing peach trees and the Georgia Belle and Elberta are now in their prime. Other varieties ripen later. The Buffalo Mountain farm is in the Isothermal belt where the frost never nips a crop. This year that particular section has had more rain than most sections.

Mr. Webb bought the unproductive mountains in that section and has developed one of the largest commercial orchards in this section. Aside from peaches, he has a vineyard, 200 apple trees and a quantity of pecans just beginning to bear, makes 35 bales of cotton and about 500 bushels of corn.
