Mrs. Cornwell Dies At 83 Years Of Age

Noble Mother Will Be Buried At Zion Church Saturday Afternoon.

Mrs. Clementine Gillespie Cornwell, widow of Amos H. Cornwell, died this morning at 2:30 o'clock at the old Cornwell home place a few miles north of Shelby at the age of 83 years, three months and three days.

Mrs. Cornwell had been ill for some time and was unable to attend the funeral last week of her brother, Uncle J. Mac. Gillespie who died in Shelby at age 92. Mrs. Cornwell was a noble mother and reared a fine family of children, all of whom stand well in the community. Her husband was one of the county's most outstanding and successful farmers of his day.

In her teen age she joined Zion Baptist church and was one of its most faithful members. She is survived by the following children: Geo. L. and W. E. Cornwell, of near Lawndale, J. L. Cornwell of Nashville, Clarence Cornwell, of Morganton, Mrs. Clarence Gardner and Mrs. Forrest Lutz of near Shelby. Misses Dona and Cora Cornwell and Tom Cornwell who live at the old home place north of Shelby. One son, Frank, preceded her to the grave several years ago. Also surviving are 39 grandchildren and 26 great grandchildren. Two brothers—Summie L. Gillespie of Shelby and J. L. Gillespie of Texas survive.

Vocational Work To Continue In School

Sport Activities Curtailed

No Football This Season. Home Economics And Commercial Courses To Be Offered.

Two vocational courses will be offered in the Shelby high school this fall in spite of the fact that the special school tax was defeated in Tuesday's election, it was learned today from Supt. B. L. Smith. Feeling that vocational training is of more practical value to students than sciences and foreign languages, teachers will be shifted from these courses and teachers provided as heretofore for home economics and commercial courses. The high school is allotted fourteen teachers and this number will be used but the set-up has not been definitely determined.

Several Vacancies
All of last year's teachers who are available to teach for this year have been elected, but there are a number of vacancies which will be filled shortly by the city board of education. It is hoped to get some financial help from the city toward the schools and an effort is being made to get help from the state school emergency fund, but the same situation as to insufficient funds exists all over North Carolina and the emergency fund is not large enough to go around. There will be a meeting of the board of aldermen Tuesday night of next week and it is probable that the city will be asked to lend certain aid to the schools allowed by law.

No Football Team
There will be no football this fall, says Supt. Smith. To put out a football team is expensive to equip a team and there are no funds. Casey Morris and Tilden Falls who have had charge of athletics will continue as teachers at reduced salaries and will receive no pay whatever from the school fund for the time they give to sports. It is hoped, however, that some arrangements might be made whereby the school may have basketball and baseball teams.

Since the special school tax election on Tuesday, one elementary teacher has resigned to go into the mercantile field and one janitor has resigned. While there are several positions to fill in the faculty, scores of applications are on file in the office of Supt. Smith. The superintendent and the school board will have a meeting shortly to elect teachers to fill the vacancies and when this is done The Star will publish the complete list.

Schools To Carry On As Best They Can Says Smith

Hope The Whole Blow Will Not Fall By Getting Help From All Possible Sources.

While the defeat of the special tax for adequate schools was "crushing" to Supt. B. L. Smith and supporters of the tax in Tuesday's election, Supt. Smith has no malice or grudge and expects to "do all in my power to secure funds from any possible source to keep from limiting the opportunities of children." Supt. Smith issues the following statement relative to the outcome and expresses the hope that some day the economic situation will so clear itself that better schools can be provided.

School will keep. The recession is crushing, but we shall make the best of it. Shelby shall have the best possible school that state allotments and such donations as come to us will afford. We shall all do our best for all the children who come, regardless of the support or opposition accorded the school tax on the part of parents or other relatives.

Some people have suggested that the best thing to do is to let the whole blow fall. I do not think so and shall do all in my power to secure funds from any possible source to keep from limiting the

The third typhoid and the second diphtheria treatments will be given Thursday of next week.

Mrs. Celia Grigg Dies This Morning

Widow Of Monroe Grigg Passes After Short Illness, Bury At Bethlehem Saturday.

Mrs. Celia Grigg died this morning at 12:20 o'clock at her home on Suttle street following an illness of only two days with high blood pressure. She was able to be up town Monday to look after some business matters. On Wednesday she became ill after dinner and the end came shortly after midnight last night.

Mrs. Grigg was 76 years of age June 4th and was born and reared in this county. She was married to J. Monroe Grigg who died about 18 months ago, leaving two children Mrs. J. D. Watterson of Grover and Mrs. J. P. McDaniel of Kings Mountain. Six brothers and one sister survive: Albert, Monroe, Rufus, Frank and Rezekiah Dedmon and Mrs. Charlie Sheppard, all of this county.

Fair Free Acts To Be Colorful And Sensational

Many Thrillers In Program Booked

Four Daredevils Do Acrobatic Stunts 100 Feet Above The Ground.

The free-act program at the Cleveland County Fair, which opens Tuesday, September 26, will be one of the most colorful and thrilling series of performances ever staged during the history of the fair, Secretary J. S. Dorton stated today.

Due to the fact that these acts attract more attention with crowds than any other one feature of the big annual event, the fair association made every effort this year to bring to Shelby the best and most skillful performers to be found. The free-act program, which will be put on twice daily in front of the big grandstand, includes sensational daredevil acrobatics, clowning, dance revues, gymnastics, trapeze stunts, daring cycling, juggling. Among the performers will be the "Four Sensational Daredevils" who will offer a series of acrobatic stunts on a rigging 100 feet high, or higher than any other similar performance being given today. This will likely be the peak number of the program. Another feature will be the Pearl Haines Revueette, a collection of beautiful girls in dances, acrobatics, adios and ensembles. The major comedy will be offered by Moran and Weiser, two comedians, hat-throwers and jugglers who were with Shubert's for four years. The Casting Wonders, featuring a comedian, three men and a woman, is another attraction booked. Gardy and Mason, European cyclists and acrobats, now making their first American tour, will be one of the high-light attractions, not to mention numerous others.

"The free acts alone will be well worth the admission price and more," Secretary Dorton thinks.

Solicitor Will Make Drive Upon Illegal Machines

Describes Legal and Illegal Slot Machines. To Stop Latter Soon.

A round-up of illegally operated slot machines in Shelby and Cleveland county will be started Wednesday, September 6, it was announced today by C. C. Horn, solicitor of county court.

A number of complaints have been made to him, Solicitor Horn said, regarding illegally operated machines, and as a result he advises operators of such machines to inform themselves as to lawful and unlawful types of machines. The Superior court, he says, has defined the difference between the two types as follows:

"That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to operate, keep in his possession or in the possession of any other person, firm or corporation, for the purpose of being operated, any slot machine that shall not produce for or give to the person who places coin or money, or the representatives of either, the same return in market value each and every time such machine is operated by placing money or coin, or the representatives of either therein.

"Under this section, a slot machine so operated that one putting into it a coin receives in any event, the value of such coin in chewing gum, and stands to win by chance additional chewing gum or discs of commercial value without further payment, is condemned. But if the slot machine were so operated that one who puts in the coin receives the same return in market value each and every time such machine is operated, it would not then fall within the condemnation of the statute."

"I am making this announcement," the solicitor said, "in order to give all fair warning before the law stops the unlawful type machine next week."

Repealists May Have Hard Time In Getting Candidate In County

Several May Seek Right To Run In November Election As Dry Delegate.

With one candidate definitely announced as desiring to be the dry delegate for Cleveland county in the November 7 repeal election and with others likely to seek the place, local political circles were this week debating who might be the delegate on the repeal ticket.

In the election two county men will be voted upon as delegates to the State convention. If the dry candidate gets the most votes, he will be elected and will cast the county's vote as a dry, and if the repeal candidates get the most votes, he will be elected and will cast the county for repeal.

In all probability the dry candidate will be selected by local dry leaders from the two or three who may desire to run as delegates, but conjecture this week had it that it might be difficult to secure a repeal delegate. There is an amount of repeal sentiment in county—just how much no one seems to know—and among the political leaders are several who, it is said, favor repeal, but it may be another matter to get them to put their names on the repeal ticket.

Other than the speculation about the prospective candidates whose names must be on the ticket, very little interest is being shown over the county in the repeal election, now just two months off.
