Report Of Aid Society Of LaFayette M. E. Church

The Susanna Aid society of LaFayette church held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. L. F. Rheinhardt. After the devotion and business meeting, the hostess served delicious refreshments. The following annual report of the society was given by Mrs. C. A. Morrison: The members met in different homes last March and May quilting 59 quilts for the public. In October and November 33 quilts were finished. They also donated and pieced seven quilt tops and the sale of these went to the church treasury. This society has contributed to a number of needy cases.

Miss McDaniels Weds Robert Bridges

(Special to The Star.) Wedding bells rang for Mr. Robert R. Bridges, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Dorothy McDaniels of Forest City on September 9, 1933 in Chester, S. C., but the echoes of the bells are just now reaching their many friends in the Mooresboro and Forest City communities and in Washington, as the prominent couple swore those ringing bells to secrecy. The young couple intended to keep their marriage a deep secret for six or seven months, but the most baffling mysteries are often solved. So it was with the bride's hurried trip to Charlotte early in the month of September, where she met Mr. Bridges, who came down from Washington as hurriedly as his bride-to-be had motored to the rendezvous. Fearful of friends and the press in Charlotte, they journeyed to Chester, S. C., where the Rev. M. L. Banister, pastor of the First Baptist church of Chester knotted the knot, swearing before the emotional couple that his mouth was closed tightly. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Daniels of Forest City. For the last few years she has taught in the public schools of Rutherford county. Mrs. Bridges is not only a beautiful young woman, but talented and popular. In her own community and elsewhere she received her education at the Forest City high school and at Asheville Normal college, Asheville. Mr. Bridges who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bridges of Mooresboro has been an employe of the Washington Terminal company, at Washington, D. C., for the last seven years. He was educated at Mooresboro and Bolling Springs high schools. Mrs. Bridges will leave within a fortnight for Washington to join her husband. They intend to make their home there.

Just Ten Years Ago

(Taken From The Star Of November 27, 1923)

Playing on a muddy field that retarded speedy plays and minus several stars, the Shelby high outfit Friday afternoon grimly held the heavy team from the Blue Ridge school for boys to one lone touchdown. The defense play of Newman, Auten and Fred Beam was especially good, while Freeman looked good on both offense and defense. On offense, Bynum was easily the Shelby star.

Miss Gladys Mitchell of Christenburg, Va., arrived in Shelby last Wednesday. She will have charge of the x-ray and laboratory work at the Shelby hospital.

J. W. Bailey, in a speech at Forest City Saturday afternoon said: "I am here in Max Gardner's section and people say that he will be governor after the next. He should

On Thursday, Thanksgiving day, the stores and business houses of Shelby will be closed the entire day. At ten o'clock on that day, the churches of the city will unite in a Thanksgiving service at the First Baptist church and the sermon will be delivered by Rev. W. A. Murray, of the Presbyterian church. The Thanksgiving season in Shelby began Sunday, when collections for the orphans of the state were made in the local churches. At the first Baptist church, about $2,000 was contributed in the Sunday school and regular services, all of which was sent to the Thomasville orphanage. The sermon delivered at the regular service was "Gospel on Thanksgiving," by Rev. R. L. Lemons. During the week the fraternal and civic organizations of the city will make offerings for the various fraternal orphanages of the state.

The Kiwanis club at its Thursday night meeting unanimously asked the state highway commission to let the contract as early as possible for the extension of the Charlotte-Asheville highway from Shelby to the Rutherford county line and a telegram was immediately sent to Raleigh where Messrs. O. Max Gardner and Clyde R. Hoey happened to be at the time on business, asking them to make a personal call on Chairman Page and lay before him the appeal for the immediate letting of the contract.

Sheriff H. A. Logan is on his second round in the collection of taxes for this year. To date he has collected about $125,000. The total amount to be collected by him for all county purposes will amount to approximately $450,000.

Cotton was today selling for 33 1/2c while seed was being bought at 72c.

The excavation work for the Central Methodist church building at the corner of Marion and Washington streets is moving rapidly along and is expected to be completed this week. Regular construction work will probably begin next week.

E. R. Cash, who promoted and partially built the Eastside mill, is seriously ill in the city hospital at Gaffney, S. C.

There were 34,030 bales of cotton ginned in Cleveland county from the crop of 1933 prior to Nov. 14, as compared with 32,184 bales ginned to Nov. 14th last year, says Miles H. Ware, special agent. It is now felt certain that a new high record will be established this year.

Mr. R. E. Campbell returned last week from a business trip to Baltimore, Md. Dr. S. S. Royster left yesterday for a few days business in Raleigh. Attorney O. Max Gardner spent Monday in Gastonia, where he appeared in a referee case heard there. In the absence of the class teacher, Clyde R. Hoey, next Sunday, O. Max Gardner, president of the men's class of the First Baptist church, is expected to teach the lesson.
