He disappeared at the close of the stock market yesterday, and his wife told police he had had an intimation that he had been marked by criminals and had been telephoning her at regular intervals as a safeguard. The last call was at four o'clock. She became alarmed when he failed to make another call. Two sons had already been threatened. The department of justice at Washington was formally notified that Mr. Livermore had been kidnapped.

So far, Cleveland motorists are ahead of last year, having purchased 1,012 tags up to yesterday. Jeffress Tells Plans For Highway Program In Cleveland County

To Build New Bridge Over Broad River

Plans For Patterson Springs, Earl, Grover And Polkville Highways Are Revealed In Letter

Encouraging news concerning Cleveland county's highway program was received yesterday in a letter from E. B. Jeffress, chairman of the highway commission to Lee B. Weathers, editor of The Star.

Definite information concerning plans for the Shelby-Bolling Springs road, plans for the Patterson Springs, Earl and Grover road and the Shelby-Polkville highway are all included in the letter.

The letter in full follows:

Dear Mr. Weathers:

I appreciate yours of December fourteenth.

Those of us who work with the federal government become accustomed always to unexpected delays at the last moment, but in the end things usually work out all right.

I hope to make Cleveland highway with the lettings we hold in January and February.

The Shelby-Bolling Springs project was delayed temporarily by a consideration of the bridge over the Broad river. The bureau of roads will not permit the old bridge and the question was whether to build new bridge on route 20 west of Shelby and move that bridge to Bolling Springs road or build new bridge on Bolling Springs project and let No. 20 alone for a while. In order not to complicate matters we have decided to go forward with the new bridge on Bolling Springs project and consider replacing the bridge on route 20 at a little later date and when removed the old bridge will be good on some other lighter traffic road.

I have turned over to CWA headquarters for approval an allotment of $18,000 for the first section of the road from Shelby to Patterson Springs. Mr. Walker will send forward two other projects on this route, that is, Earl project and Grover project, as soon as he can finish computing the quantities from the survey. We are going at this matter to obtain the very best road we can for the money and a continuation of CWA funds will enable us to do a good deal of very good work.

I had hoped that probably the Shelby-Polkville-Fallston road could get under way this fall but it is the responsibility of the contractor to maintain the road and to complete the surfacing as early as possible in the spring. I was particularly anxious to get this project let so there would not be any possibility of a slip-up in having the surfacing completed even though much work cannot be done this winter.

There are also municipal projects planned in Shelby which include the reconstruction of some bad pavement within the eastern city limits and also completing the other route on western end of the Broad river bridge.

I am very hopeful that a continuation of federal aid highway projects will be authorized by the next congress. If we just knew another program was coming we could make much better progress on the present one as we would then know definitely how to plan.

Names of persons not listed for poll tax by January 8 will be turned over to the grand jury for prosecution. It was announced at the county treasurer's office yesterday.

Local Textiles To Suspend Friday For Christmas Week

Enforced curtailment of Twenty-five Per Cent. Hosiery on 24 Hours Week for 2 Months.

Textile plants of the county will close on Friday December 22nd and remain shut down all next week to give their employees a vacation for Christmas and conform to a curtailment order which compels them to reduce production 25 per cent during the month of December.

A recent order issued by the code commission to the hosiery industry calls for only 24 hour week operations during the months of January and February, except in coarse hose and infant's knit wear on which there is said to be a short age.

The twenty-five per cent curtailment in the textile industry is general over the South.

The mills are under orders from the industry's national committee enforcing its NRA code to reduce production in December at least 25 per cent. Many thousands of employees are being affected by this order, which was issued as a means, according to the committee's recent announcement in New York city, of preventing the accumulation of a burdensome surplus of textiles.

Production at the Carolina mills generally has been rather steady since March, with the employees in operating departments drawing larger wages since adoption of the industry's code. This extended period of steady employment has greatly improved the financial position of the greater part of the operatives.

While each mill's executive is privileged under the code committee's order to adopt a schedule of curtailed operations best suited to the plant's requirements, most of them, the reports indicated, will work this week on a part-time basis and give employees a period of full holidays during Christmas week. Various forecasts indicated that many plants will work on a part-time basis during the first several weeks of January.

Clear Decks For Changes In State School Books; Grigg On The Board

Changes Loom In Elementary Histories In Use For 13 And 28 Years.

Two commissions cleared decks in Raleigh this week for the annual state textbook adoption.

For the elementary textbook commission, this year will mark the end of the first complete cycle since the state adopted the plan of revising its textbook list gradually instead of making sweeping changes every five years.

The year marks for the high school commission the beginning of a cycle, as heretofore there has not been a uniform state adoption of high school texts. The high school commission was created by the 1931 general assembly and is just beginning its task, which will follow the same general lines as that of the elementary commission.

History Change

The elementary subjects up for change are history and music. The present United States history in use is the Waddy-Thompson book published by D. C. Heath and Co. It has been on the list for 13 years. The North Carolina history, Hill's, has been on the list for 28 years. Both texts have been revised in that period, but it is regarded as probable that there will be changes.

The high school subject to be adopted is social science.

Neither commission will actually adopt the books, but will submit a Relief administrator got a legal pint of liquor yesterday afternoon by just stepping across the hall from his court house office. But don't get excited, he didn't drink it, he won't do it again, and you, reader, wouldn't have a chance in the world of doing it.

The liquor was obtained from the sheriff's office for a relief emergency case in which alcohol was recommended by a doctor.

Many odd requests have been made at the relief office, but this was the first one for liquor.

Jeffress At Work On New Highway

N. C. Commissioner Goes To Washington To Promote Park-To-Park Drive.

Washington, Dec. 19.—The projected park-to-park scenic highway primarily designed to link the Shenandoah and the Great Smoky Mountain national parks, received the attention today of the officials of the good roads bureau and the park service.

Callers today on the federal officials, to consider the park highway proposal, included Representatives Doughton of North Carolina, and Burch of Virginia, E. B. Jeffress, chairman of the North Carolina highway commission, and H. G. Shirley, chairman of the highway commission of Virginia.

Nationally known landscape architects are soon to be assigned to this great park highway project, the builders of which will be expected to keep ever before them such considerations as beauty and altitude. Men are already engaged in a preliminary survey, and will probably have a report ready for study in the early spring.

Mr. Jeffress is accompanied by Mrs. Jeffress, and they are staying at the Willard hotel.

$900 In Back Taxes Collected In Month

A windfall of $900 in back taxes which the county had long despaired of collecting has been turned into the treasurer's office this month by deputies and collectors assigned to each of the eleven townships. These collections were for poll and personal taxes for 1930, '31 and '32, and would have been written off the books along with $9,000 due in back taxes if the special drive had not succeeded.

Measles Epidemic Rages In County; 4 Schools Closed

165 Cases Reported During December

Lattimore, Mooresboro, Polkville And Beams Mill Shut Doors; Will Re-open Jan. 1st.

Cleveland county's measles epidemic was described this morning by County Health Officer Dr. D. F. Moore as "raging."

One hundred and sixty-five cases have been reported this month, but this does not give an accurate picture of the epidemic, for more than half of the cases have not been reported.

The disease is wide-spread, he said, and no community is hit harder than any other, the doctor said, but Superintendent of schools J. H. Grigg said this morning that four schools had been closed this week and last on account of the disease. The schools are Lattimore, Mooresboro, Polkville and Beams Mill.

None of these was closed on the order of the health officer, who said he hadn't deemed it necessary because "they would go to moving picture shows anyway."

Postoffice Open Until 8 O'Clock For Holiday Rush

Four Extra Men Put On To Handle Barrage Of Packages; Expect Peak Day Tomorrow.

Four more men have been added to handle the holidays rush of packages, one to act as clerk and three as carriers, and an additional truck has been put into service.

The mailing rush started earlier this year, the postmaster said. He expects the peak mailing day to come this afternoon or tomorrow.

Court House Closes Monday For Holiday

The court house offices will be closed from Saturday noon until Wednesday noon, it was announced this morning by Joe E. Blanton, chairman of the county board of commissioners. This time is taken out in order to give the county officers and employees some time at home with their families.

271 Men To Work On 4000 Privies

Definite approval of the construction of 4,000 privies in Cleveland county has come from Raleigh, and Relief Administrator Woodson will immediately assign 271 CWA workers to the task.

Recommendation of the project was made by the state board of health. Sanitation of the privies will be compulsory, and will be supervised by experts.

Yes, Ehringhaus Too Would Like To Be Senator, Newsmen Predict

But R. E. Williams, Raleigh Observer, Notes That Not Since Jarvis Has One Been Named.

Belief in the capitol city that Governor Ehringhaus plans to make the race for senator against Senator Bailey seems to be growing. Several Raleigh newspapers have been mentioning this possibility in political stories.

In the News and Observer this week R. E. Williams notes that not since the days of Vance and Jarvis, well back in the last century, has a North Carolina governor been elected to the United States senate, and with the exception of Cameron Morrison, who was defeated for reelection, none has been appointed to that office.
