Japan complains of Russia's reinforcements along the Manchurian border, stating that the Japanese troops in Manchuria have not been increased. As we understand it, Japan already has enough troops in this territory to carry on an ordinary war without need of reinforcements.

Hold Fate of New Deal in Milk Suit

The nine members of the U. S. Supreme Court, which shortly will be called upon for its decision in the New York Milk Control suit, which will determine constitutionality of NRA and AAA price-fixing, they are divided into three groups. Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, 72-year-old dean of the group, and Justice Louis D. Brandeis, 78, are Moderates. Four listed as Conservatives are Justice Willis Van Devanter, 75; Justice George Sutherland, 72; Justice James Clark McReynolds, 72, and Justice Pierce Butler, 68. The court must decide whether or not Leo Nebbia, of Rochester, N. Y., acted within constitutional rights when he circumvented price-fixing of New York Milk Control Board by giving away a 5-cent loaf of bread with two-quart purchase of milk. Verdict for Nebbia would strike at roots of Recovery program.

Experts on Technique of Movie Love Making

CLAIRE TREVOR

GABLE AND HARLOW A-WOING

In the debate between Gordon Westcott, English actor who made good in Hollywood, and Claire Trevor American starlet, as to whether or not the technique of love-making has changed, both sides seem to lose sight of the fact that the switch from silent to talking pictures resulted in the elimination of a lot of pantomime, necessary in the old days to put over the meaning now done with the spoken word. Comparison between a John Gilbert-Greta Garbo love scene of the silents, and a Clark Gable-Jean Harlow classic, via the talkies, ought to convince Westcott, who asserts the technique of wooing has not changed since Cleopatra, ramped Marc Anthony, that there has been a revolution. Besides, where Gilbert employed honeyed words to win his beloved, Gable uses a left hook, and it works just as efficaciously.

Cotton Industry Hurt By Imports Gardner Asserts

Former N. C. Governor Speaks On Behalf Of Cotton Rug Manufacturers.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Former Governor O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, counsel for the Cotton-Textile institute, told the tariff commission yesterday the American cotton manufacturing industry was being ruined by a flood of imports.

Gardner testified at an inquiry under the national recovery act to determine whether imports of cotton rugs were so large or in increasing ratio to domestic production as seriously to endanger maintenance of the cotton textile code. The American industry, Mr. Gardner told its export trade because none of its competitors are under such restrictions as the NRA imposes.

Roy Cleland of Philadelphia, president of the Cotton Rug Manufacturers association, said only 10 of 194 manufacturers were now producing rug rugs, because of the low price of Japanese rugs. Costs under the textile code, he said, had increased prices of American rugs far above those for Japanese rugs. Cleland said the industry could not operate without relief as Japanese rugs were landed in this country at less than the cost of the material here. American manufacturers were capable, however, he said, of producing an ample supply for American trade.

Kings Mtn. Plans For Celebration With Other Cities

Herndon, Frank Thomas, commander of the American Legion, B. S. Hill, president of the Men's club; B. J. King, editor of the Herald; Mesdames R. W. Griffin, Fred Finger, H. N. Moss and Mrs. Paul Neisler of the Woman's club. Mrs. Paul Mauney, president of the A. L. auxiliary. Mrs. Paul Neisler is in charge of the sale of tickets.

Circus Returns To York For Winter

(Yorkville Enquirer.) Barnett Brothers big show is back at home in winter quarters here after closing a long and successful season during which it trekked from the Great Lakes to Florida, and from the Adirondacks to the Missouri river.

The first thing discovered on arrival at the big stone winter quarters building in Yorkville was that the quarters must be enlarged. There were no facilities here for stabling five elephants together, and when the herd was separated in two sides of the big building, the elephants raised a racket about it that soon got them together again.

Buyers Seek $700,000 Worth of State Bonds

Raleigh, Jan. 26.—North Carolina buyers today were seeking $700,000 worth of state notes now held by New York interests and Charles M. Johnson, state treasurer, said he thought the order would be filled. All bonds of the state are now nearing par, three issues being quoted at an even 100 while yield on none of the other issues is over 4.75 per cent, quotations today showed. There has been a steady demand within the state for North Carolina securities in recent months, Johnson said, with the result that today only $3,133,560 worth of the $12,230,000 in notes outstanding were held in New York.

Duke Endowment To Help Two Hospitals

Charlotte, Jan. 26.—The Duke endowment will aid a non-profit hospital to be established in Franklin and Mount Airy, it was announced tonight.

Court Won't Give Adopted Child To Own Mother

Law Of Man Held Stronger Than Mother Love By State's Highest Court.

Raleigh, Jan. 25.—The North Carolina supreme court yesterday held the law of man was stronger than a mother's love.

The state's highest tribunal refused to award a 12-year-old girl into the custody of its mother because the child when a mere babe was adopted, by another woman under the laws of Virginia.

More than a decade ago Mrs. Anna Bowen, then living in Roanoke, Va., and her six months baby, Mary, were deserted by the husband and father.

Mrs. W. B. Osborne legally adopted the child with the consent of Mrs. Bowen. The child was given the name of Mary E. Osborne, and with her new mother moved to Fayetteville. Mrs. Osborne was widowed but later remarried. She is now Mrs. Bertha Pocus.

Mrs. Bowen, in the intervening years also remarried. Last year as Mrs. Anna Harrill, she went to Fayetteville to claim her daughter which had been brought up by another woman.

Mary was permitted to accompany her real mother to Bluefield, W. Va., for a two weeks vacation. But mother and child did not return to Fayetteville, the court record said. Instead Mrs. Harrell took Mary to live with her in Pender county, North Carolina.

Upon learning of this Mrs. Pocus secured a writ of habeas corpus for return of her adopted child. The superior court granted her custody. Mrs. Harrell appealed.
