2 More Announce For Offices Here; Weathers To Run

Cullen Mull Out For House And Bynum E. Weathers For Judge Of Recorder's Court.

Two more announcements for political office were made this morning when Cullen Mull declared himself a candidate for the house of representatives and Bynum E. Weathers for judge of recorder's court.

In Mr. Mull's announcement he says he does not want the support of any man or men who challenged his vote in 1930. He declares himself in favor of raising teachers salaries, $5 for auto license tags, repeal of the absentee vote law, new registration of voters, old age pensions met with a tax on beer and will introduce no local bills until he meets the voters of Cleveland county at the court house to ascertain their sentiment.

Mr. Weathers, the candidate for recorder is a young attorney, age 38 who was born and reared in No. 9 township. He attended Piedmont high school, the University of North Carolina and has practiced law for 14 years.

He is an ex-service man and member of the American Legion, former chairman of the Cleveland county board of elections, active in civic and religious affairs, personally and politically dry and has always supported the cause of prohibition.

The law provides, according to Troy McKinney, county auditor and tax supervisor, for an additional penalty of 10 per cent, and for possible action by the grand jury, which has the authority to indict on a charge of misdemeanor.

Roosevelt's New Book Describes His Peaceful Revolution In U. S.

NEW YORK, March 29.—In the foreword of his forthcoming new book, "On Our Way," President Roosevelt says if his administration "is a revolution, it is a peaceful one, achieved without violence, without the overthrow of the purposes of established law and without the denial of just treatment to any individual or class."

The proofs of the foreword, given out tonight by the publishers, the John Day company, read: "Some people have called our new policy 'fascism'. It is not fascism because its inspiration springs from the mass of the people themselves rather than from a class or a group or a marching army. Moreover, it is being achieved without a change in

Shelby Man Killed As Car, Making 85, Side-Swipes Taxi

Auto Hurdled 40 Yards After Collision

Elam Mayhue, Belmont Worker, Fatally Injured; Brother And Friend Escape.

Elam Mayhue, 30-year-old Belmont cotton mill worker, was instantly killed late Wednesday afternoon when his car, speeding at 85 miles an hour, struck a taxi driven by J. F. Price near Crane's filling station on highway 18, knocked out a concrete pillar at the station, smashed over two gasoline tanks, hurdled a wire fence and hurtled a distance of more than forty yards after striking the first car.

In the car with the fatally injured man were his brother, Ted Mayhue and a friend, John Norwood. They were bruised and cut but not seriously injured.

Watched Speedometer
Ted Mayhue said in the hospital yesterday that he checked the speedometer just before the crash, and that it registered 85. The young men had just taken the car out of the garage after getting off from work. It had been greased and polished, and they were thrilled by the high speed.

Elam Mayhue, who owned the car, was driving. He clipped the front fender of Price's car as the taxi man was turning around in the road. Witnesses said, though, that Price was on his own side of the road when the cars struck. The fenders entangled, and the Mayhue car was thrown around and against the filling station support. Turning over and over a number of times, it rolled 40 yards shattered as if struck by an express train. The differential was hurled thirty yards. In another direction, Elam Mayhue was thrown out about 30 yards from the filling station.

Was Excellent Worker
Executives at the Belmont Mill said yesterday that he had been one of their most faithful and steady workers, and had been employed there for more than sixteen years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elam Mayhue, and is survived by his wife, the former Miss Lois Rothell, of Virginia. They had no children, but he is survived by his parents, four brothers and three sisters.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the South Shelby Methodist church, and burial was at the Zoar cemetery.

CWA Closes Books, Prepares To Place Destitute On Farms

The Civil Works Administration, which at one time employed as many as a thousand men a week in Cleveland county ended prematurely day before yesterday, with only 285 men employed on part-time projects. The quota for the week was 328, but bad weather kept them from working. The payroll will be between $1,000 and $1,500.

Next week, there will be no projects under way. The office force will remain the same for several weeks while reports are filed and plans are made for the organization of the back-to-the-farm movement here, which, it is hoped, will place 700 destitute families on farms and make them self-supporting by December 1.

fundamental republican method. We have kept the faith with, and in, our traditional political institutions. "Some people have called it 'communism'; it is not that either. It is not a driving regimentation founded upon the plans of a perpetuating directorate which subordinates the making of laws and the processes of the courts to the orders of the executive. Neither does it manifest itself in the total elimination of any class or in the abolition of private property. "If it is a revolution, it is a peaceful one, achieved without violence, without the overthrow of the purposes of established law and without the denial of just treatment to any individual or class."

Senators Approve Bankhead Bill With Fingers Crossed

Two Deputies Incarcerated

Judge John M. Oglesby, who presided over Superior court here this week, likes order in his court room, and maintains it. Particularly is he annoyed by persons who walk between him and the jury when he is talking, and he doesn't approve of people popping up the stairs at the foot of the bench.

But the Judge will not learn until he reads this that he sentenced two deputy sheriffs to imprisonment for an hour and a half Monday morning for disturbing his court room.

The prisoners were Deputies Powell of Polkville and Parker of Casar, who stepped just inside the court room as Judge Oglesby began his charge of an hour and forty minutes to the Grand Jury Monday morning. Judge Oglesby paused in his address, turned to them, and said:

"You gentlemen are welcome to come in the court room if you wish, but don't stand in that door."

Abashed, the deputies stepped out and closed the door behind them. They found themselves in a large closet, with no chairs, and had to stand there until the judge concluded.

Spurling To Run For Solicitorship

Announces Candidacy For Re-election On Return To Native County.

L. S. Spurling, swinging around the judicial circuit with Judge John M. Oglesby as solicitor for the fifteenth judicial district, waited until he reached his native county yesterday to let it transpire that he would be a candidate for re-election.

Mr. Spurling, who was born six miles above Shelby and reared on a farm in No. 9 township, admitted to a reporter who pressed him last night that he'd run again.

"I wasn't ready to make a formal announcement about that yet," he said, "but since I must sooner or later, let's let it come here." His candidacy is subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

His home is now in Lenoir. He was graduated from Wake Forest in 1919 with an A.B. and LL.B. degree, practiced in Lenoir, and became Caldwell county attorney. Ever since the beginning of his legal career he has been an active campaigner for the Democratic party. As solicitor, he has successfully prosecuted some of the biggest criminal cases tried in the state.

Measure Hedged By Many Amendments; Bailey Opposes

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The Senate today approved, with reservations and misgivings, Senator Bankhead's cotton production control measure which places a 75 per cent upon the value of all cotton in excess of ten million bales that may be ginned from this year's crop.

Many Senators felt like Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, who said "I am voting for the measure with all my fingers and toes crossed."

Many Amendments
The original bill was so hedged about by amendments as to be called unenforceable by many of its own advocates, but they believe some of these difficulties could be straightened out in a conference between a senate and house committee.

The senate vote for passage was 46 to 39. Senator Bailey of North Carolina voted against it.

Several Changes
The principal changes in the house bill were:

Limiting the life of the bill to one year.

Making the period on which the allotments to the states and counties are to be made by the secretary of agriculture the ten years ending

Finish 100 Cases In Criminal Court During First Week

Civil Term Will Open Here On Monday

Sentell Trial Off, Courtroom Finds Few Exciting Cases. Kendrick Exonerated In Killing.

The criminal term of Superior court ended here shortly after noon today as Solicitor L. S. Spurling completed prosecution of more than 100 new and old cases within the week. Judge John M. Oglesby, who is presiding, will be on the bench next week for the term of civil court.

With the dramatic Sentell murder case postponed, this court week dragged through a procession of petty cases, most of them of no more interest than the daily routine of recorder's court cases here.

Among the more interesting trials, were those of Florence Powell, who was sentenced to from one to three years for violating her suspended sentence parole; J. C. Barrett, Evans Rose and Other Mode, who pled guilty to a charge of forcible trespass, allowed by the solicitor, and were sentenced to jail for four months; Ernest Taylor, who got six months for receiving stolen property; Earl Darwin, who pled guilty to larceny and got six months.

A directed verdict of not guilty was returned in the case against L. Dennis Moody, charged with passing worthless checks.

The grand jury did find a true bill in the charge against Bob Kendrick, Cleveland county deputy, charged with the murder of Luther Blackwell whom he killed in a street fight in Kings Mountain. This action closes the possibility of further charges being brought against Kendrick.

Interesting in connection with the court is the fact that recorder's

Magazines Gayly Flout Statute Prohibiting Liquor Advertising

If you can't buy good liquor, you can read about it at any Shelby newstand. A recent riffling through the publications offered for sale here reveals that newspapers and magazines alike, have for more than a month, been flouting the federal law which prohibits liquor ads in dry states.

For a few weeks after repeal, certain magazines appeared in North Carolina with these advertisements omitted—with blank pages where they had been jerked out. Then the humorous magazines began to print wise-cracks in these otherwise gaping spaces. And then they blandly printed the ads themselves generally with the small-type ad-

No More Strikes Or Lockouts; To Arbitrate Troubles

Ruling On Discharged Employees Left Up To N. C. Board

Confirming important rulings of the North Carolina Cotton Textiles Industrial Relations Board, the National Board in Washington, D. C. yesterday ended the strike at the Cleveland Cloth Mill and ordered opening of the plant on April 2. The management agreed to put the mill into operation as rapidly as possible, beginning Monday morning on a two-shift basis.

Both sides in the controversy, management and labor union, signed an agreement to abide by the decision of the board, which, in settling the local dispute, laid down rules, regulations and precedents for settling strikes which will be of far-reaching importance.

500 Back To Work
This settlement ends a strike which began on Feb. 23, precipitated by the dismissal of Rodney Wilson, member of the union shop committee, and followed by closing of the mill five days later. The strike meant that approximately 500 workers were jobless and that a payroll close to $10,000 a week was stopped.

No More Strikes
There will be no more strikes or lockouts because of differences. Paragraph 3 of the recommendations of the National board reads: "The management and the employees agree to live up to the provisions of the Cotton Textile Code and that under no circumstances shall there be stoppage of work in any department of the mill either through strike or lock-out or other concerted activity whatsoever, until full procedure of section 17 of the Cotton Textile Code has been used."

Acting in the strike for the first time, O. Max Gardner joined his partner, Odus M. Mull, secretary-treasurer and manager, in representing the employers in Washington. For the strikers George Goode, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, C. W. Bolick, United Textile organizer, P. R. Christopher, secretary of the Shelby union, C. M. Fox, Fred Senter, John Green and T. C. Veal, were the representatives.
