

To Try Costner In Charlotte Court For Mail Robbery

Defendant in Mail Robbery Unable To Make His Bond At Asheville.

Asheville, March 27.—Isaac Costner, one of five Touhy mobsters indicted for the $105,000 Charlotte mail truck robbery, will go on trial in federal district court at Charlotte next week.

He said Costner would be taken to Charlotte within the next few days under a heavy guard to prevent rescue attempts or possible revenge by his former associates because he turned state's evidence against Basil "The Owl" Banghart during the latter's recent trial for participating in the John "Jake the Barber" Factor kidnaping.

Mac Blalock, Banghart's sweetheart, who is accused of being an accomplice in the robbery, will not be tried for some weeks yet because she is an expectant mother.

Other Defendants. Of the other defendants in the case, Banghart is under a 99-year sentence in the Factor case; Charles "Doc" Connors was slain recently, apparently by members of his own gang; and Dutch Schmidt has not been apprehended.

Dr. Leo Brandenburg of Rutherford, N. J., is charged with attempting to pass $10,000 of the loot and will be tried separately, also.

Costner, brought here Saturday from Chicago, failed to make $20,000 bond demanded for his liberty pending trial.

He will be conveyed to Charlotte by a heavily armed guard.

Even while plans for Costner's trial were being made, authorities were advised of the reported disappearance of Vincent McGrath, bookkeeper at a Rutherford bank, who appeared before the grand jury at Shelby when it indicted Brandenburg. McGrath was unreported after he left for home following the hearing, and, since he was understood to have provided evidence against the New Jersey physician, some fears were felt for his safety.

Expense checks issued to him by the government before he left Shelby were being traced in an effort to obtain some clue to his whereabouts.
