Governor Answers
By UNITED PRESS
RALEIGH, April 2.—Governor Ehringhaus today declared that former State Senator E. L. Whitmire of Hendersonville "is seeing ghosts where there are no ghosts," commenting upon Whitmire's latest charges. The Hendersonville attorney is opposing Pleas for the Democratic nomination for solicitor from the 18th district.

Leas Fight
By UNITED PRESS
WASHINGTON, April 2.—Luke Leas today appealed to the supreme court to forestall extradition to North Carolina of himself and his son, Luke, Jr., where both are under sentence in connection with the failure of the Central Bank of Asheville. Papers containing Leas's plea were docketed by the court after filing by counsel on the last day permitted. If this stay is defeated, no further resource is available to the Leas.

The March Of Events
Texas Killing
Two highway policemen were killed and a 27-year-old housewife was kidnaped in Texas yesterday. Police are searching for Clyde Barrow, desperado, sought for a score of middle-west crimes. The policemen were shot down on the highway before they could draw their revolvers. The woman was released after a ride of two hours with bank robbers.

Worship At Tomb
Christians from all parts of the globe knelt at the tomb of Christ at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre yesterday in Jerusalem and thousands of turbaned Moslems sang and paraded through the holy city. More than 1,000 Americans attended the services.

Sees World Suicide
Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University prophesied yesterday that the world would end in economic suicide unless the nations changed their present course. He pleaded for abandoning international competition in armaments and commerce. He spoke at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Byrd Is Hermit
Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd yesterday spent his first day of a seven-months' vigil in the world's southernmost weather observation post. He will spend the winter alone in the advance base of his expedition to Little America. The tractor party that accompanied him to his lonely hut is now on the way back to its base, leaving the Admiral cut off from the world save by his radio. It is 60 degrees below zero there.

Sanitary Project May Be Continued
Five hundred and fifty four sanitary privies were constructed in Cleveland county under the CWA. Sanitary Supervisor J. B. Francis said this morning. Of these, 534 were for private homes and 30 for schools. According to his estimate they'd reach almost a mile if placed in a solid row, side by side. As the CWA ends, material is on the ground for 75 more privies. The county quota was 4,000, but more may be constructed later under the P.E.R.A. according to a letter today from Warren Booker, state engineer, to Mr. Francis.

Civil Court Opens Term Here Today; Acts On Divorces

To Run For 1 Week; Jury Is Drawn
Judge Oglesby On Bench; Jury List Of 18 Citizens Announced For One Week's Session.

The civil term of Superior court opens here this morning, with Judge John M. Oglesby, who presided over the criminal term just concluded, on the bench. The court will run through Friday. As court opened this morning, the Judge announced that pleas for divorce would be heard. It had not been determined as The Star went to press how many had been asked for or granted. Under the North Carolina law, residence here and two years separation constitute grounds for divorce.

The Jury List.
The eighteen jurors drawn for this term are:
Dillard Bridges, Seth Morehead, J. L. Thompson, Leone Ware, J. W. Scism, J. M. Wright, Marvin H. Putnam, Maurice F. Eskridge, John M. Gold, R. Bloom Costner, Lawrence Rollins, Robert C. Moore, L. C. Palmer, Julius Martin, John C. Ledford, P. P. Richards, O. G. Boyles and A. F. Logan.

Marriages Pick Up; Six Licenses Are Issued On Saturday

One Marriage On Friday. Six Licenses Issued Saturday, But Some Are Secret.

With June 60 days away, marriages are picking up in Cleveland county. Andy Newton, register of deeds was all astir Saturday for he was busy. Issuing a marriage license is a bit more thrilling than recording a crop lien. Six licenses were issued on Saturday for weddings in Cleveland. Several of them are to be kept a secret and Mr. Newton does the best he can to oblige his "customers." Court records are public property and any one can look up the records and learn of approaching marriage. Inspecting records is not denied, but Mr. Newton does not spread out his marriage license book before those who do not ask to see. On Friday, W.A. Morrison and Miss Daisy Hyder, both of Shelby were married by Rev. H. C. Sisk, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church in West Shelby.

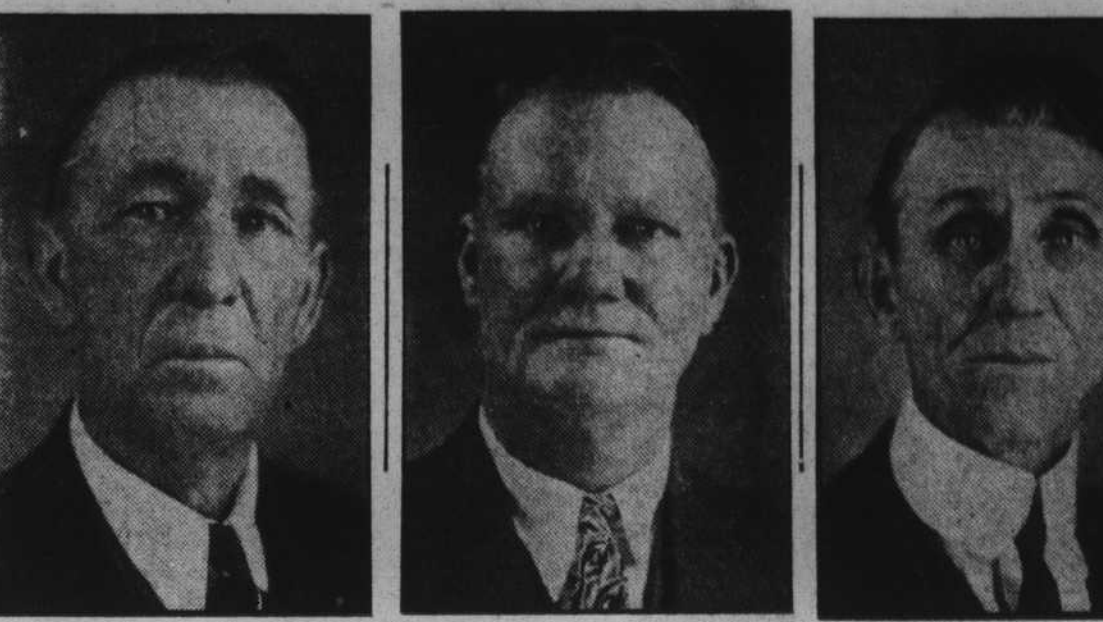

Mrs. Z. Williams Dies At Age Of 62

Many Friends And Beautiful Flowers Attend Funeral At Mt. Pleasant.
Funeral Services for Mrs. Zema Williams of Beams Mill who died on March 31, were held yesterday at Pleasant Grove Baptist church with the pastor, the Rev. D. G. Washburn, officiating. A great throng of friends attended the funeral and many beautiful flowers attested the esteem in which she was held throughout the county. Mrs. Williams was born in 1871 and was married in 1893, Squire R. W. Gardner performing the ceremony. She professed faith in Christ and joined the Pleasant Grove church about 40 years ago. She is survived by her husband and by three children, Morris Williams, Mrs. Yates Costner and Eula Williams, one brother, Thomas Peeler, and five grandchildren.

Romantic Story Of Rise To Power Evidenced In Life Of E. Thomason

The story of a rise from agent-operator of the old Cincinnati and Chicago Railroad at Earl, to the presidency of the Piedmont and Piedmont and Northern Railway over a period of 54 years, is contained in the life of E. Thomason, native of Cleveland county, who Saturday was elected to this position to succeed the late W. S. Lee. Born and reared in the Earl community, Mr. Thomason held his first railroad position at that station in 1890. Two years later, he was transferred to Blacksburg, S. C., and in the same year, was promoted to the office of chief clerk and traveling auditor.

Commissioners Seek Re-Election

The three members of the Cleveland County Board of County Commissioners announced their candidacies for re-election today. Left to right, they are: Joe E. Blanton, chairman; Lester Herndon and J. D. Morris.

All Bitterness Swept Aside In Mill Fellowship Meeting

Sheriff's Office Distributes Eggs To Jail Inmates
Hard-boiled eggs got hard-boiled eggs today as the sheriff's office distributed two colored Easter eggs to each of the nearly fifty prisoners in the city jail. Instead of cracking safes or jail bars, they turned their efforts toward determining the champion hard-shelled egg of the lot.

Cleveland G.O.P.'s Hold Convention, Name Committees

Workers Forget Strife Mull Announces Broader Policy
Workers Get Together And Forget Strife; Mr. Mull Announces Broader Policy.
Whatever vestige of bitterness, strife, malice or hatred that might have been engendered between those who struck and those who continued to work and between the employees and the management of the Cleveland Cloth mill, was swept aside in a "Fellowship Meeting" that jam-packed the Jefferson school auditorium near the village Sunday afternoon. It was an appropriate follow-up of a meeting of textile workers at Union Hall Saturday where two resolutions were unanimously adopted, accepting the decision of the federal board as satisfactory to all parties concerned, pledging loyalty and good-feeling to each other and to mill management, O. M. Mull and his staff of executives. Auditorium Jam-packed
A fine spirit of fellowship prevailed throughout the meeting which lasted for nearly two hours. The large audience numbering 500 to 600 began the program by singing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and closed with "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Dr. Zeno Wall who had preached two soul-stirring sermons at Union hall upon invitation of the employees, presided over the meeting. He upheld Jesus who came into the world to teach men how to live in wholesome, harmonious relationship. Tears filled the eyes of many in the large audience while voices of "Amen" were heard in various quarters. On the platform behind Dr. Wall sat O. M. Mull, mill executive, Jesse White, superintendent, C. W. Bolick, textile organizer and Rev. H. E. Waldrop, pastor of the East-side Baptist church. Mull Given Ovation
Manager Mull received a round of applause when he announced that the policy of the mill in resuming operation this morning would be more liberal than the federal board's decision requires. Instead of going one mile with his employees, he goes two. The board's decision calls for taking back the employees first who were working at the time the mill closed, then the others as orders would justify. Show No Difference
"We are going to violate the principles of good business judgment and start the mill in full operation, making goods for stock. We will make no difference in employees (Continued on page eight.)

J. Rush Oates Dies In Asheville; Is Buried Here Today

Burial of J. Rush Oates of Asheville took place at 1 o'clock today in Sunset cemetery, Shelby, in the soil of Cleveland county, his native county. Mr. Oates died at his home in Asheville Saturday night at 8:40 following a stroke of paralysis. He had been sick for three days with a severe cold, but had been in declining health for several years. Mr. Oates was born east of Shelby near Stony Point 75 years ago and was married to Miss Dora Blanton, a sister of C. C. and George Blanton of Shelby. He was superintendent of the Belmont mill here for a number of years, was a railroad contractor and later connected with the Asheville Paving Co. In Asheville he was one of the most prominent and influential citizens and a civic leader, holding valuable property interests. Heavy losses were suffered as a result of the closing of Asheville banks. Surviving are his wife and three children, Fred Oates and Mrs. Ted Rorison of Asheville and Mrs. William Beatty of Greenville, S. C. One brother, Ed Oates now living at Seaside, Oregon also survives. A sister Mrs. C. M. Webb of Shelby preceded him to the grave some years ago. Funeral services were held at the Oates home in Asheville this morning and the body was brought to Shelby for interment, following a brief service at the graveside. Thad Haas, medical student at the University of S. C., spent the holidays here with his brother, H. P. Haas, and Mrs. Haas.

New Attire Gay In Easter Parade

As a kindly sun beamed yesterday morning, the little girls in perky hats and new dresses stepped out in full springtime regalia, with gardenias and orchids, in one of the brightest Easter parades Shelby has seen in some years. After church time, the highways were crowded, for the annual parade has turned with the times into a cavalcade, and laughing parties toured the state in burnished cars. They Wore White.
In Shelby, the prevailing motif was white—white dresses, white hats and white shoes, relieved by pinks and blues. Stores did a thriving holiday business and florist shops were sold out on Saturday night. One local establishment added to the gaiety of the season by displaying in a large window a dozen or so chromatic rabbits—rabbits of rainbow hue, pink, blue, green and high yellow. A small boy who rubbed his nose on the window for an hour Saturday afternoon confided to his father that he thought they were dyed. Special Easter services, largely attended, were held at all Shelby churches, and in many of the county churches. The Central Methodist church concluded on Sunday a week's devotional, during which services were held twice daily.

Local Checker Team Wins Over Gastonia

Saturday, Hoover Grant, age 19, known as the "Boy checker wonder" brought his championship Gastonia team to meet Cleveland's best. Grant and his club have played practically all of the leading checker teams in western North Carolina, and came to Shelby with an enviable record. Tommie DePriest of New House and J. N. Bridges of Mooresboro led the Shelby team which knocked over the Gastonians by a 78-65 score. Grant dropped two games while here, one to H. P. Bridges of Shelby, and one to J. N. Bridges. The members of the Cleveland county team who played Saturday are Tommie DePriest, J. N. Bridges, H. P. Baxter, G. C. Rollins, W. J. Cashion, and C. Wilson. The locals will play York in the near future.

Dr. Tom Gold Shot In Foot As Negroes Battle In Street

Bullets Whine In Busy Business Street
One Fighter Slashes Other In Neck, Is Himself Shot In Thigh; Both Arrested.
Dr. Tom Gold, Shelby physician, was shot in the left foot and bullets whizzed through cars in which women and children were riding as two Cleveland county negroes butchered each other Saturday evening on crowded South Washington street, in front of the Propet grocery store. Luss Lockridge, armed with a pistol, and J. V. Stroud, fighting with a long knife, wounded each other seriously before police could intervene. Lockridge suffered a deep, gaping wound in the back of the neck and Stroud was shot in the thigh. Both negroes were arrested by Chief of Police Wilkins and Officer Putnam and are now in jail. Five shots were fired by Lockridge. Dr. Gold, who was talking to Jim Propet in front of the grocery store, saw the trouble brewing and told Mr. Propet they had better move. As they started away, the first shot struck the doctor. The bullet lodged in the top of his foot and the resulting wound is painful but not serious.

More Strikes Would Be Idiotics Says Googe; Praise Mull & Board

Reuben L. Elam, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Elam of Shelby, who has opened law offices here. Mr. Elam passed a successful examination of the State Bar association in January of this year.

Shelby Officers Kept On The Run Over Week-End

Nine Drunk And Disorderly Cases; Shooting Scrape And Free For All Add Excitement.
The Easter holidays furnished a hectic time to Shelby policemen and deputies, as drunks strolled along behind the Easter parade, a shooting scrape on South Washington street, and a death resulting from a negro free-for-all kept them on the jump. Nine warrants for drunk and disorderly conduct cases were issued this morning, a record for any other time than Christmas or New Year celebrations. J. C. Wray, colored, was arrested for the larceny of three 5-gallon cans of oil from the Gulf Refining company service station on East Warren street. The stolen oil was recovered, and Wray will be tried in Recorder's court tonight. Ben Parker, 18 year old colored youth, died in the Shelby hospital yesterday afternoon. Parker was a participant in a free-for-all Wednesday night at the colored hall, and was taken to the hospital with several broken ribs and a kidney injury. Officers are launching an investigation into the occurrence. (Continued on page eight.)

Southern Labor Head Lauds Settlement Of Shelby Dispute

Pioneering Example In Industrial Relations Commended. Regret Misunderstanding.
In view of the settlement of questions between employer and employee decided by cotton textile national industrial relations board, a strike by any textile mill in the country at the present time would be without reason and idiotic," George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, declared here Saturday night. Mr. Googe urged that should any group of textile workers anywhere contemplate calling a strike for any reason whatsoever, that they do not do so until they have communicated such intention to the American federation and heard from national officials. Counsel For Workers
Mr. Googe was the counsel for the workers of the Cleveland Mills in their appearance before the national board. "We are perfectly satisfied with the decision of the national board and we intend to live up to the terms, in letter and in spirit. I believe our problem has been settled satisfactorily to all and I urge workers to co-operate in every way possible." Two important resolutions were adopted by the union in Shelby Saturday pledging co-operation with the mill owners and expressing regret that misunderstandings had arisen between workers and the state board, whose ruling was appealed to the national board. Text Of Resolutions
The resolutions follow: "Be it resolved by Shelby local No. 1901 United Textile Workers of America in closed meeting assembled that we express to Chairman Theodore S. Johnson, E. C. Dwell and A. G. Watson, members of the cotton textile state industrial relations board, our sincere appreciation for their unselfish service in our recent controversy with the management of the Cleveland Cloth mills. "We regret our misinterpretation and misunderstanding their efforts at the recent hearing at Shelby before the state board. We did not understand the problems of procedure and lack of precedent that the board was confronted with. "As a result of the meeting before the national board and the insight given us at Washington, we (Continued on page eight.)

Bucket Brigade Keeps Its Fame; Boys Put Out Fire

Two Siren Alarms Disturb Easter Peace; Bucket Brigade Puts Out One.
The old bucket brigade came back into its own yesterday afternoon as four boys extinguished a blaze on the roof of a house belonging to Bob Wilson on the Cleveland Springs road. Firemen answered an alarm, but the boys had formed a brigade with one man on the roof, and had succeeded in putting out the blaze before the firemen reached there. The other alarm that disturbed the Easter Sunday peace came when a small shed behind the home of Miss Laura Button on North Lafayette street caught on fire. The fire was said to have been set by youngsters playing in the vicinity.

Car License Price Is Cut One Fourth; Effective Saturday

The sale of state automobile license plates at three-fourths the yearly price started here Saturday under authority received by the Carolina Motor club from L. S. Harris, of Raleigh, director of the state motor vehicle bureau. This will apply to tags for cars that have not been used since January 1. Purchasers will be required to sign a statement, sworn to before a notary public, stating that the car has not been driven this year, according to Carlos Hopper, who has charge of the license sale here.

Philco Officials To Attend Session On Modern Liner

The annual May convention for Philco distributors will be held aboard the new turbo-electric liner "Queen of Bermuda" leaving New York on May 15 and bound for Bermuda and Nassau. Three men from this district will attend the convention. They are A. K. Sutton, G. O. Fullenwider, and B. J. Industrial Board Meets Here Tomorrow On Spindale Strike

The North Carolina Cotton Textile Industrial Relations Board has announced plans to meet here tomorrow to rule on issues submitted to it in the strike at the Stonecutter mills in Spindale. Fending the board's rulings on various questions, Chairman Theodore S. Johnson said, the board has authorized immediate posting of a seniority list by the mill. The status of several workers whom the management protests taking back is to be settled later. The board also expects to dispose of some minor matters left over from the strike at the Cleveland

Paul Wootton Now Manager At Efir's

G. W. Neely Retires To Take A Much Needed Rest. Change Made Saturday.
Paul Wootton is the new manager of Efir's Department store, taking the place of G. W. Neely who resigned a few weeks ago to take a much needed rest. Mr. Neely and his family have moved to Charlotte where they have a home. Mr. Wootton is well known in Shelby where he was manager of Gilmer's store for nearly eight years. Later he was in the ready-to-wear business for himself in Shelby and was manager of Montgomery Ward's big store in Hickory nearly four years.

Four Candidates Announce Today

Present Board Of Commissioners Seeks Re-election. Gold of Kings Mtn. Runs. Beam For Clerk.
Four more candidates gave notice this morning that they are seeking county offices. The present members of the county board of commissioners, Joe E. Blanton, chairman, J. D. Morris of Fallston and Lester Herndon of Grover, ask endorsement of their administration by re-election to another term, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held June 2nd. No platform is announced, but in today's issue of The Star the present board publishes a financial statement showing a comparison of the expenditures for the years 1932 and 1933. In this they claim to have reduced the cost of county government by $28,000 and think this is sufficient to appeal to the voters. The financial statement gives the expenditures in all departments and substantiates their economy platform on which they were elected. Gold And Beam Announce.
R. C. Gold of Kings Mountain is also seeking membership on this board and makes his announcement today. He is a native of Cleveland county and has been a successful merchant at Kings Mountain for a number of years. Wm. A. Beam, son of D. A. Beam of Shelby is out for Clerk of Superior court, making the fourth in the race for this four year office. Mr. Beam is a graduate of the Shelby high school, the University of North Carolina and taught school for two years.

Judge To Speak To Lion's Club Meet

Judge John M. Oglesby, who is presiding over a term of the Superior court in Shelby, will speak before the Lion's club at its meeting Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Hotel Charles.

Bob Kendrick Not Held For Murder

The Grand Jury last week returned not a true bill in the indictment against Bob Kendrick, No. 6 Township constable, who was charged with the murder of Luther Blackwell, whom he killed in a street fight in Kings Mountain more than a month ago. Mr. Kendrick's contention that he shot in self-defense was upheld both by the jury and the Recorder's court, and there is now no further possibility of action against him.
