Daring Leap To Be Made At Fair Here

Daring French Performer to Leap Over Automobile While Riding Motorcycle.

Camille Renaud, daring French performer, will attempt to leap over an automobile riding a motorcycle as one of the many features to be presented by the International Congress of Daredevils on Friday afternoon, September 28th, at the Cleveland County fair, at Shelby.

Renaud will ride a stock motorcycle, with the frame slightly reinforced. Speeding down the straightaway in front of the grandstand, he will send his fragile mount up a steep incline and hurdle himself out into the more or less thin atmosphere.

A short distance from the end of the incline a standard pleasure type of automobile will be parked in order to clear this obstacle, Renaud must attain a height of at least eight feet and must sail at least fifty feet straight ahead before landing.

Born in Chantilly, France, Renaud has performed many spectacular stunts. He evolved the idea of leaping over an automobile by his experiences in hill-climbing contests and he is confident that he can successfully negotiate this hazardous act.

Renaud's super-spectacular leap will be just one of many death-defying feats offered by the weird collection of fearless humans assembled by E. Ward Beam, an internationally known sports promoter, for the thrill day program.

But of all the thrilling stunts planned, the Ash Can Derby, billed as the world's worst automobile race, promises to vie for the headline honor. The chief reason is that all drivers will be local men, all
