

Maybe She's Old-Fashioned But Her Precious Antiques Keep Her Happy In Old Age

By AILEEN SCISM
An old iron coffee kettle, a bread pan and rare collection of hand made counterpane, which to many might be worthless junk or just worn out household equipment, but to Mrs. Oansady A. Bridges, now past the average age of three score and ten, they are priceless because they belonged to her grandparents.

She has, in her possession a giant (one gallon) cast iron coffee kettle that was in use when her grandfather was a little boy. The kettle which she estimates has seen one hundred and fifty years of service, is still in use and in good condition. A small kitchen table has also been handed down through the four generations but has not been as well preserved and has not been used all the time.

She Uses Them, Too
This spring when the necessity arose she did her own cooking over an open fireplace using an old iron brazier pan which also belonged to her grandparents, setting it on the ashes and covering it with coals as was the ancient custom. She readily expressed her liking for "corn pone" cooked in this manner. She uses a small butter dish and a cup that were given to her by her grandmother.

In a very fine state of preservation is a large, old, oak bureau that was used by her mother-in-law when she began housekeeping ninety years ago. "Some ladies wanted to buy it from me, but I wouldn't sell it because she gave it to me," she said.

Articles Are Valuable
She has the "old spinning wheel" her mother used, also a pair of cotton cards. In use now are three counterpane which she carded, spun, wove and made alone by hand. These show little sign of wear. She also has two counterpane that were made by her grandmother. They were given to her father when he began housekeeping and she says they must be a hundred years old. They are handmade and one of them is decorated with a handmade fringe, now very rare. These she displayed with pride and when asked if she had ever used them any replied, "A little, years ago, but not now, I want to keep them."

She is an expert hand at knitting and her knit laces are in demand throughout the community.
Revises Lost Art
"Youngsters enjoy a visit to 'Aunt Ade's' as she is lovingly called by all who know her. Frequently someone wants her to show how she cards and spins, an art almost lost to the present generation. Then with a twinkle in her eye she cards the cotton until it is smooth, afterwards spinning it into a long, white thread. Often there will be tales of how they did things when "I was growing up". The other antiques will be in the story and she must show them again. Of this she never tires.

She lives with her four grandsons and a niece on a farm about three miles northeast of Kings Mountain. Having outlived her husband and four children she is content to live with her antiques, which to her have never grown old, and their memories of the past.

HICKORY WILL ACT ON SLOT MACHINES
HICKORY, August 1.—Methods of "cracking down" on the operation of slot machines of the "gambing type" in Hickory will be discussed by the city council at its weekly meeting next Tuesday night. Taking cognizance of the reports a large number of these devices are being used in local business establishments, the board decided at its meeting Tuesday night to look into the matter with a view to taking definite action next week.

Although several members of the council pointed out that laws passed by the recent general assembly on the subject of slot machines are somewhat confusing, the conviction was expressed there would be no difficulty in eliminating devices that comprise a game of chance rather than of skill.
It was indicated that any operators of slot machines who wish to be heard on the question will be welcome to voice their contentions before the aldermen at their next session.

Fat Man Reduces 53 Pounds—Oh Boy!

Don't be stubborn, you big fat man—throw off your fat before your fat throws you into the discard. Do as S. A. Lanier of Saywell, Calif., did—read this letter:
"I have used two reducing belts so no benefit but since using Kruschen Salts each morning in my coffee I have taken off 7 lbs. in a week and eat what any thing I like. I weighed 243 lbs. 6 months ago and now I weigh 190 lbs."
Take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning and evening to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer troublesome. Notes And News From Here And There About Cleveland County People You Know

FOLKS WITH TOO good eyes often get killed on the highway, but Paul Stamey tells of a blind man who has tramped the roads for eight years and escaped. Policeman Stamey piloted him out of the city this week and set him on his way. The blind vagabond walks on the right side of the road so he will face oncoming cars, uses his stick to guide him along the edge of the paving. He has never been struck yet.

THIRTY-SEVEN year ago, W. T. Green who now lives in the Lattimore section, volunteered in the Spanish-American war. He wanted to keep in touch with folks back home and subscribed for The Star to follow him to the battlefield in Cuba. He escaped bullets, death from malaria and rotten beef sold to the army during that war and came home safe. Since that time he has continued to read The Star. Ed Campbell, the merchant, was in the same company with Mr. Green. Ed's brother Lee died in camp and his body was sent home for burial.

SAM RUNYANS who lives on Route 1, Grover ran across a copy of The Star dated Oct. 14th, 1921 and brought it to The Star office yesterday. Of course, The Star has bound volumes of all copies printed for a third of a century, but it is interesting, never-the-less, to scan through and refresh memories of the by-gone. Street paving projects costing $300,000 were being pushed along by Mayor J. T. Gardner; the building now occupied by the Union Trust was being re-modelled by the Cleveland Bank and Trust Co., which paid $20,000 for it shortly before; Peter Grieg was just back from Georgia with pitiful tales of suffering brought on by the boll weevil; the school building at Eastside had just been completed; Penney Brothers, the twin auctioneers, were selling the Max Gardner "More-Per-Acre" farm; Fields Young and A. V. Wray were marketing at auction "Sunrise Terrace," now South DeKalb street; two circuses had been to town that Fall and the council refused to permit a carnival to surfeit the citizens with amusement.

SEEN AND HEARD—Carl Goerch, editor of The State magazine, dropped in The Star office yesterday, en route, with Mrs. Goerch to High Hampton; Carl and his wife will visit Justice Heriot Clarkson at Little Switzerland while away—The city has $12,000 in bonds and interest to pay during August, says Mayor Woodson. This is one of the largest payments the city has had in several years—That three per cent discount for payment of 1935 taxes during August will swell the city's treasury to some extent—Saw Bass Suttle buying a plug of "rich and waxy" at a local drug store and he was very choosy to get a light colored plug—Another sight, a party of gleeful boys motoring their saharins out to a lake for a swim—Lumber being placed on the old site to rebuild the Lee Dover barn, burned with two fine mules and other valuables a few weeks ago—A new five room house just completed on the Fallston road near the Cloth mill ball park.—Carl Thompson owner, Lee Lowman, contractor.

Foreclosures Are Started On Loans
A total of 564 foreclosure proceedings had been instituted by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation against delinquent borrowers as of June 30, according to a report from the Corporation, indicating that 94 new foreclosure actions were begun between June 15 and June 30, and 166 during the entire month of June, an increase over any previous month.
Making clear that foreclosure will be promptly instituted against home owners who refuse to make their payments when actually able to do so, the Corporation points out that of the 568 foreclosures to date, 165 proceedings, or more than a quarter of the entire number, were taken in such instances of wilful default. The remainder were mainly brought about by the death of the borrower, or by legal complications, the latter usually incident to foreclosure action by holders of second mortgages.

Pronounce It Right—It's 'Ahddis Ahwawa'
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Few persons pronounce Ahddis Ababaa, capital of Ethiopia, correctly, says the United States geographic board. The board, which officially determines spelling and pronunciation of geographical names, says its "Ahddis Ahwawa," with the accent on the first syllable of each word.

33% less cylinder wear

IN EVERY WAY, the New High Film-Strength ATLANTIC MOTOR OILS prove their ability to reduce wear and keep down repair bills. First, they were tested with 67 other well-known oils . . . in 3656 public demonstrations on a testing machine developed by General Motors. The illustration shows at a glance how they came through! Notice the amazing difference in protection, made possible by the revolutionary development of ATLANTIC'S New High Film-Strength.

This test-bearing was protected by High Film-Strength ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL. It remained smooth, unscored at pressures of greater than 2 1/2 tons per square inch.
This bearing was lubricated by another oil with a national reputation. The oil film was ruptured, and the bearing badly scored, at pressures of about 2 1/2 tons per square inch.

40% less piston-ring wear

United States of America
COUNTY OF PHILADELPHIA, ss.
BE IT REMEMBERED that on the day of the date hereof, before me, the undersigned, a Notary Public, in and for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, residing in the City of Philadelphia, personally appeared
Harry F. Hul, Director of Automotive Laboratories, The Atlantic Refining Company who being duly sworn, according to law, did depose and say, that six automobile engines were operated for a total of 200,000 miles under identical laboratory conditions.
Three were lubricated with the new ATLANTIC MOTOR OILS: three with oils of equal quality except for the important feature of ATLANTIC'S New High Film-Strength. The engines protected with the New High Film-Strength ATLANTIC MOTOR OILS averaged
40% LESS PISTON-RING WEAR

Then the new ATLANTIC MOTOR OILS were tested with other high-quality oils in 200,000 miles of actual engine operation. The results were so spectacular that we are backing them with this official legal affidavit, to remove any possible doubt as to their authenticity. 33% less cylinder wear! * * * 40% less piston-ring wear. * * * And the best part is that your car can also have the New Protection of High Film Strength ATLANTIC MOTOR OILS! Fill your crankcase today. And for best results, be sure to use these new oils full strength . . . not diluted with weaker oils.
