

Campaign Fund Grows As Citizens Donate Toward Kansas Trip

Total Sum Is Now Over $400

JOSEPHUS DANIELS, JR.

Petitions Among Business Men And Private Citizens Bring Good Results.

With the campaign fund for the trip to Kansas growing every hour, the Shelby Cee Cee's are making preparations for leaving Shelby Sunday morning on their long trip to the middle western state to represent Shelby in the National Semi-pro championship tournament.

Latest reports from the campaign show that over $400 has been pledged from a small percentage of Shelby's business men. The players are confident that during this week, the amount will grow to the needed figure of approximately $1,000.

The petitions were not available this morning to obtain the names of the donors and the amounts they gave, but this list will be carried in Wednesday's edition of The Star.

Shelby's entry is causing a great deal of enthusiasm not only in Shelby but in every other city in Western North Carolina. Fans of other Western Carolina league cities are nearly as pepped up over the prospect as are local fans.

More rules and regulations have been received by John Greene, business manager of the local club, along with full particulars of the tournament. They are too lengthy to be stated here, but a general summary has already been given.

Shelby's entry has been definitely accepted by the tournament officials, according to the last letter received. The team leaves Sunday morning after the game with Lane Saturday night. It will be the first time Shelby has ever been represented nationally in the field of sports, and will furnish the city unlimited publicity.

Strong Pressure Brought To Bear On 12-Cent Loans

Some AAA Bosses are Expressing Doubt

Strong Political Pressure Put On White House And In Halls Of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Strong political pressure for a 12-cent loan to help peg 1935 cotton crop prices descended yesterday upon farm administration officials.

Some of the AAA bosses were disclosed to doubt the advisability of any loan at all. Others said privately they believed an advance of from 10 to 12 cents may be authorized.

Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, said the amount of the loan probably will be announced shortly after the government estimate of 1935 cotton production. This will be issued Thursday.

Press Roosevelt. Meanwhile, those favoring the 12-cent figure were reported to have turned their attention also to the White House and congress, as well as the AAA.

What worried the AAA was the possibility that with the cotton loan policy, the AAA and the Commodity Credit Corporation may find themselves confronted with the same situation which gained criticism for the old farm board.

The Commodity Credit Corporation has advanced directly, or has guaranteed through private agencies, 12-cent loans totaling $271,755,225 on 4,451,039 bales of cotton. These figures do not include advances made on cotton held by the producers' pool. The pool now has 675,000 bales of spot cotton and 933,000 bales of futures.

Extended To Feb. 1. The loans were due early this year but have been extended until February 1, 1936. Some officials said they did not believe the government would be repaid unless the price of cotton reached 13 cents a pound.

The carry-over of American cotton August 1, was 8,300,000 bales, and the Bankhead allotment this year, 10,983,264 bales. However, some private estimates of the 1935 crop run as high as 12,000,000 bales. If the crop should be that large, an official said, the farm administration would be confronted with a delicate problem.

Suggestions have been made that the government take over cotton on which the loans now are outstanding, and use this to establish the "ever-normal granary" sponsored by Secretary Wallace and authorized in the AAA amendments pending in congress. Under this plan, the government would use the cotton itself for benefit payments, instead of cash.

MISS FLORENCE PHILLIPS

On the directorate of the larger New York publishing houses there is only one woman, and this is Miss Francis Phillips, who although the daughter of an army doctor, has an interest in southern authors because her grandfather was Judge Samuel Field Phillips, auditor in North Carolina's Confederate cabinet.

She has charge of the reading and handling of manuscripts for her firm and is particularly qualified to throw light on the problems of struggling authors. She is attending the Southern Writers' Conference at Blue Ridge, N. C., near Asheville, August 5-17.

Tax Bill Passed By House Today; Faces Opposition

"Soak The Rich" Bill To Go To Senate

Republican Leaders Marshal Forces To Oppose Plan In Upper House.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The House passed the president's tax bill—the "Soak the Rich Bill"—this morning by an overwhelming majority. It now goes to the senate, where its course will meet stiff Republican opposition.

The house measure is estimated to raise from $250,000,000 to $270,000,000 annually, while the projected deficit would exceed that amount every month.

Coal Bill Remains. Nearly all of the "top" bills, except this tax bill and the Guffey coal bill have been acted upon by the senate.

Senator Barbour, Republican, of New Jersey, termed the tax bill as a "misuse of the taxing power" and said that the president's demand is "a challenge to every member of congress to reject such high-handed procedure."

GOP Opposition. "Votes, and votes alone, are the objective of this half-baked measure, not jobs," Barbour said. "What this bill actually attempts is to climb upon the hard-riden steed 'share-the-wealth' and ride him away while the demagogues who have pressed him so sorely in the past are looking in the other direction."

"The bill should be laid away until the next session of congress."

Many other senate Republicans agreed with Barbour. The Progressives planned to demand changes in the house bill, but wanted to vote this session. Democratic leaders were trying to expedite action by getting agreements from their men to vote down any and all amendments offered from the floor.

Architects Boost Original Estimate By Over $100,000

May Be Scaled Down In Later Action

Architects' estimates, always liberal, set the total PWA school building program for Cleveland at $470,000. It was revealed this afternoon as the county board of education opened its meeting to consider the revised plans.

This is a raise of approximately $100,000, but includes a $36,000 project submitted by Kings Mountain for high school additions, a gymnasium, and additions to the colored school.

High School Tops $150,000. The county school program, originally estimated at around $300,000, also includes the Shelby high school, which will cost more than $150,000.

These figures are not final. It is highly possible, school authorities said today, that the figures may be scaled down.

$260,000 Bond Election. To finance the $470,000 program, it would be necessary to call an election on a bond issue of $260,000. A PWA grant, if allowed, would supply 55 per cent of the cost of materials, including sites and professional fees.

If the board of education passes on the proposal in its present form, or revises it today, the county commissioners, who are also meeting today, would immediately call for a bond election. This is mandatory on their part when a request is made by the board of education.

School projects include No. 1 township, No. 2 township, Mooresboro, Lattimore, Casar, Belwood, Fallston, Piedmont, Waco, Lenoir, Bethune, Shelby, Kings Mountain.

At the commissioners meeting today, it was shown that the total assessed valuation of the county is $28,961,552, and the debt for school purposes is $368,900.

The commissioners will meet on Monday, September 2, at 10 o'clock, for a public hearing and final passage of the bond election order. At that time, any citizen or taxpayer may file a protest if he desires.
