SOCIAL SECURITY PLAN KILLED BY LONG FILIBUSTER

President Is Unable To Find Enough Funds To Finance Program

Benefits For Crippled Children, Dependent Widows, And Old Age Pension Abandoned; Act To Throttle Kingfish

(Special to The Star)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—President Roosevelt is unable to find funds to finance the social security program providing benefits for crippled children, dependent widows and old age pensions, he revealed at a press conference today.

The bill appropriating money for this security program was killed Monday night by Senator Huey P. Long's five-hour filibuster as the 71st congress drew to a stormy and harassed close. Senators tried every means to make Long desist, but he talked on and on, at times reading from the Congressional Record to kill time.

Says He'll Run

Roosevelt Discouraged
The president, conferring with legislative and fiscal experts, has canvassed every avenue in hopes of finding a way out of the situation, but said today that the prospect seemed discouraging. Simultaneously, Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson proposed a far-reaching change of senate rules intended to prevent filibusters such as that conducted by Senator Long.

Misplaced Mail Sack Delays Star Delivery

A misplaced sack of mail containing bundles of The Star for Lawndale and Casar and routes leading out from those points, delayed the delivery to subscribers in that territory. An effort will be made to check-up mailings in the future and prevent a re-occurrence.

Afternoon Delivery of Star In Rural Cleveland Planned

With new art features already added and The Star to become a member of the world famous Associated Press on Monday, Sept. 2nd, afternoon delivery of The Star through rural sections will be offered to subscribers who do not now get their paper until the following day on R.F.D. delivery.

No other local newspaper in North Carolina has undertaken such a service to rural subscribers. Its permanence will depend upon the co-operation of subscribers. Naturally, it is quite expensive for a man to furnish his car and drive 30 to 50 miles in an afternoon. Therefore, The Star has decided to offer this afternoon delivery at 30c per month or $3.50 by the year, as a try-out. Routes will be independent in that subscribers served in this manner will pay the route carried direct and not The Star office.

Renn Drum Dead; Ex-News Editor Buried Here Today

Large Throng Attends Church Services

Colorful Newsman Succumbs To Short Illness In Washington; Wife, 2 Children Survive.

Funeral services were held this morning at the Shelby Presbyterian church for Renn Drum, colorful newsman and city editor of The Star for ten years. Mr. Drum was 33 years of age and died Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in a capital hospital after an illness of three weeks with ulcerated stomach and other complications.

Mr. Drum was a native of Stoney Point, Iredell county and his first newspaper experience was on the Statesville Landmark. For several years he was on the Danville (Va.) Bee and Register before coming to Shelby where he won a host of friends and admirers by his writings and keen interest in public affairs, especially sports and politics.

Two years ago he accepted a position in Senator Bailey's office in Washington, later taking a position in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce under Dr. Murphson of North Carolina. He was well and favorably known in political circles in Washington and continued his writing in The State magazine under the assumed name of L. S. Ardee.

Mr. Drum was married to Miss Irma Johnston, former commercial teacher in the Shelby high school who is at present the popular social editor of The Star. She and two children survive, Renn, jr. and Dale Drum.

FARM EXPORTS HIT AN UNUSUAL LOW

HIGH POINT, Aug. 28.—The volume of agricultural products exported from the United States during the last fiscal year stands at $4 per cent of pre-war compared with 83 per cent in 1933-34 and with the previous low level of 50 percent in 1876-77, according to the index of the Foreign Agricultural Service of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. This information was received from the Soil Conservation Service offices in High Point.

The reason for the low index of $4 in 1934-35 is to be found in the decline in exports of cotton, and of products affected by last year's drought, such as wheat, cured pork and lard, says the report. It is pointed out, however, that the period chosen as a base (1909-10 to 1913-14) was one during which cotton exports happened to be at a peak level. The effect was to depress the index in the years before and after the base period. The index for cotton exports in 1934-35 was 60, the lowest since 1923-34 when it was 59. In 1933-34 the cotton index stood at 97.
