Textile Industry Outlook Bright; Stocks Soaring

Cotton Manufacturer Rises Sharply

Stocks Up One to Four Dollars Is More Reminiscent of Pre-Depression

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—America's textile industry, forever beset by some new economic terror, has apparently turned into what analysts believe should be a period of strength and expansion.

More than two years ago the entire industry struggled with reduction schedules just before the advent of eodes, and in following months suffered from excess output.

Processing taxes began to chafe. Japanese competition pinched more tightly on export markets and profits were something to boast about.

But in the past few weeks there has been a progressive change.

Cotton manufacturing activity rose sharply from July through August and into September and some contend the trend should continue.

There is a new demand for cotton. This apparently is based on settlement of numerous difficulties, authorities said.

New Bus Added To City Schools

An added convenience for high school students living in the southern part of the city was announced today by Capt. B. L. Smith.

A new truck route has been established which will pick up students daily in the area of Zora, Lily Mill and other points in that section. Two buses are already operating to Buffalo and Dover-Ora mills.

Morning Cotton LETTER

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—With the government's present cotton holdings withdrawn as a market factor, unless prices advance to about 13 1/2 cents and with the government's 1935 loan policy giving a free normal market for the current crop of a little over 1,000,000 bales, it seems certain that the bulk of the new crop will move into consumption rather than into government hands. Should consumption come up to expectation of 12,000,000 bales at least, it is evident that before another crop becomes available spinners will have to draw on the carry-over of 9,000,000 bales, the greater part of which is under control of the government. Present domestic mill stocks are considerably below normal with all indications pointing to a large backed up demand for both goods and cotton, some of which has already manifested itself in the goods market. With a similar scarcity of raw stocks abroad we believe that offerings out of present crop will be promptly absorbed at advancing prices, especially so as the south appears to be in a strong position owing to the 1935 10-cent loan, 2-cent subsidy program.

Hitler Cheered By Nazis As He Attacks Peace Pact

(By Associated Press)

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 11.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler in a proclamation read to the Nazi party convention rapped President Wilson's famous 14 points and the delegates assembled from all Germany burst into applause.

"Where are the 14 points of Wilson and where is the world today?" asked Hitler.

"The Reich is no longer a football and no longer an object of foreign maneuvering," he said.

(President Wilson, in 1918, offered the world in general and Germany in particular a program of 14 points which served as a basis for the final conclusion of peace, ending the world war, and for the establishment of League of Nations.)

"History will confirm that what the National Socialist Party did in three short years was an enormous change which no one thought possible and which even today is not believed by various elements," Hitler said.

"We have a fanatical belief in the future."

Louisiana Without Leader With Death of Huey Long

(By The Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 11.—Senator Huey P. Long, 42, the farm youth who wanted to make every man a king, died yesterday, the victim of an assassin.

The self-styled "Kingfish" political dictator and possible presidential candidate, died at 4:06 a. m. His family and close associates were at his bedside.

Machine Rudderless
His death left his powerful political machine, which controls every office in the state, without a directing hand.

While his leaders held conferences, the senator's death gave courage to his opponents, whose splits had aided him.

Friends and enemies alike expressed regret at his death.

Guard Called Out
Fourteen members of the 141st field artillery were ordered here as a guard of honor. Later a company of infantry was given a like assignment. The artillerymen had been held in New Orleans barracks as a precautionary measure after Long was wounded.

"I want to live," Long was quoted as saying by Seymour Weiss, a close friend and treasurer of Long's political organization. Weiss said Long had been unconscious.

"Yes, yes," broke in Gov. O. K. Allen, Long's boyhood friend and political lieutenant.

"The last thing he said was 'I wonder what will happen to my poor university boys.'"

Allen Praises Long
Afterward with tears in his eyes, Allen said:

Roosevelt Broke Constitution Oath, G.O.P. Leader Says

House Leader Says He Created Issue

Representative Snell Declares President Had Political Plan in New Deal

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Representative Snell of New York, House Republican leader, charged today that President Roosevelt forced "a mass of unconstitutional legislation" through the recent session of congress with the deliberate objective of building up a campaign issue of changing the constitution.

He said the GOP welcomed the issue. In an attack on the New Deal, in today's Congressional Record, Snell said this would give the President a chance to go to the country and claim that organized wealth, through the medium of federal courts had been able to thwart his methods.

"Dumping a load of unconstitutional legislation on the bench of the Supreme court, full aware of its unconstitutionality would give him the club with which to belabor both the Supreme court and the constitution," Snell said.

"There can be little doubt that such tactics may be politically shrewd."

Snell asserted it was beyond the imagination of those who heard Roosevelt take his oath that "midway of his term he would commit the unthinkable act of openly flaunting that oath because he found the United States constitution stood between him and a realization of his political ambitions.

Three Shot Ruling Must Be Obeyed By Dove Hunters

Biological Survey Orders All Sportsmen Plug Guns; Fowls Scarcer

With the dove season in this part of the state now open, Game Warden H. C. (Shorty) Long today warned hunters of the new ruling about plugged guns laid down by the Biological Survey.

To shoot migratory fowl, it is required that the hunter plug his gun for three shots. More than that, he must not plug it from the loading end. This is a requirement the survey makes to give the birds a fairer chance to escape, since the migratory fowl in the state are reported rapidly decreasing.

The squirrel season in the eastern counties opens October 1, and opens September 15 in the west.

Mr. Long also calls attention to the change in the price of hunting licenses. County licenses which formerly cost 60 cents are now $1.10, and state licenses are $2.10. A combined hunting and fishing license may be obtained for $3.10.

School Board Urges Shelby Vote "Yes" on Special Tax

The Shelby School Board this morning issued the following statement, urging voters to approve the proposed special school tax up for election Saturday:

The members of the School Board unanimously endorse the proposed special tax for a bond issue on which Shelby people will vote Saturday. We want you to seriously consider the following statement:

1. The Federal Government offers us 45 per cent of the total cost of a high school building. We think a $150,000 building is necessary. The Federal Government will furnish $67,500; we furnish $82,500. We do not think we will ever again have such a liberal offer.
2. If we do not accept this Federal proposal crowded conditions in schools will force us within a very few years to furnish all of the money ourselves.
3. We have gone into the matter thoroughly. The building we propose is adequate for our needs, well designed, and while ample for our needs, no money will be wasted on its construction. In our opinion our proposal is sensible as well as necessary.
4. We are familiar with the entire school set-up and as your school board as well as citizens we ask the people of Shelby to vote for the special tax in the election.

Harry L. Hopkins Assures Carolina Of Relief Share

Ehringhaus, Doughton Bailey In Parley

$70,000,000 Is State's Share, and It Won't Be Held Up, They Are Told

(Special to The Star)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Three from North Carolina, Governor Ehringhaus, Senator Bailey and Representative Doughton, shook the federal relief fund tree here yesterday and into their laps dropped the promise of a $70,000,000 plum.

Harry Hopkins assured them that everything would be all right. He said politics and "other extraneous considerations" would not penalize North Carolina. He said there would be no neglect or delay in filing applications for funds.

Issue Statement
The senator, the governor and the representative issued a statement which is reassuring though to the effect that "Mr. Hopkins (the man they came to see) stated positively that North Carolina would receive her share of the $4,000,000,000 appropriation, her share being calculated on the basis of employing the employables on relief."

No Projects Rejected
This statement, with certain qualifications, was issued this afternoon after an hour's conference with Hopkins, with this added: "Mr. Hopkins stated that no projects had been definitely rejected, that he intended to receive all projects and consider them together with Mr. Ickes, and perhaps with the President, and getting the full picture before him, to make allotments with the view of employing the employables now in relief in the state."

The controversy between Ickes and Hopkins which has raked the entire relief and works setup the past three months and which has caught the Tar Heel public works program in its meshes, has been bitter, and still goes merrily on.

Wants Blacksnake To Scare Rodents

Wanted! A long, full-grown blacksnake.

Hershel Elliott's wife killed his other day and now he has none.

The story is that last September Mr. Elliott caught a rather long blacksnake and slipped him between the weatherboard and ceiling of his house in No. 10 Township which was badly infested with rats.

That night and for several nights thereafter a terrible squealing of rats took place behind the ceiling. Then there was little evidence of old man snake until a few days ago he crept out of the haven and was killed in the kitchen by Mrs. Elliott.

Last night Mr. Elliott heard the rats again, and generally feels the need of a snake to scare them away. He is not afraid of the reptiles, but has handled them all his life. He is now employed at the Cleveland Cloth mill.

Warning To Mussolini Voiced By Spokesman In Session Of League

Council Must Enforce Peaceful Settlement of Italo-Ethiopian Dispute, England Says, Supporting "Small Countries"

(By The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Sept. 11.—Great Britain today gave warning to the world through Sir Samuel Hoare, that the League of Nations must enforce a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopia dispute.

Those who heard Sir Samuel interpreted his speech as a friendly warning to Mussolini that Great Britain would be opposed to war against Ethiopia. Meanwhile preparations for war went steadily ahead in Italy as 50,000 more men were called to the colors in mobilization of 1,000,000 men.

Women Bear Arms
Ethiopian women began mobilizing for active service at the front should hostilities break out.

The French government, seeing its hopes for peaceful settlement dwindle, decreed new regulations modernizing its control of arms traffic.

In Italy, an official communique was issued denying the government had suggested conclusion of an aggression pact with Germany.

Backs Small Nations
Sir Samuel told the assembly that England stands for steady collective resistance to all acts of "unprovoked aggression," adding that "backward nations" should be assisted by more advanced countries and that Great Britain stood for peace and "integrity of the League."

His speech was received with applause on the part of most of the delegates, although the first Italian reaction appeared to be one of irritation. An Italian spokesman said Sir Samuel had offered nothing concrete further than a general readiness to discuss economic readjustments.
